

Lard has been in existence a long time—so has indigestion

Human nature is hard to solve. People who are most particular about adapting the weight of their wearing apparel to the season and its conditions, who never think of going out in a storm without an umbrella and rubbers, who would not sit in a draft for a farm, will day after day eat lard-soaked food and not realize for an instant that it is clogging their whole inner machinery and likely to result in a full-fledged case of indigestion.

Lard is produced from hog-fat, sometimes impure, always indigestible, and there's a good day coming when no one will think of using it for cooking. Cottolene is the only rational frying and shortening medium in the world. It is made from refined vegetable oil and choice beef suet—everything about it is digestible and conducive to health.

It is a product of Nature.

It will make pure, palatable, healthful food, and food which anyone can eat and enjoy without the after-pangs of a disordered stomach.

Try Cottolene once and you'll never-more be a friend to lard.

Cottolene is Guaranteed We hereby authorize your grocer to refund your money in case you're not pleased after having given COTTOLENE a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk COTTOLENE is packed in pails with a patent air-tight top, to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome; also to prevent it from absorbing the disagreeable odors of the grocery, such as fish, oil, etc.

CLIPS WILL BRING GOOD PRICE

Says Buyer, to Tell What

Average Will Be Paid

For Wool.

(East Oregonian.)

Mr. H. Green, dean of the wool and representative of the wool brokers, has arrived in Salem to remain in this section

through the coming wool season.

Mr. Green marks the opening of the season with a short time other than in the southwest, will be the status of the wool in this season Mr. Green declares that it is yet too early to make any prediction as to what prices will be paid. At the same time he says that the situation is shaped itself sufficiently for the wool houses to know where the market will be opened. However, he thinks that lower prices will prevail in the southwest much of the season than has been sold on consignment."

said he this morning. "In Arizona 2,500,000 pounds was consigned and from 10 to 13 cents per pound was advanced upon it. In California 2,000,000 pounds has been consigned and from 10 to 13 cents per pound was advanced upon it. In California 2,000,000 pounds has been consigned out of Nevada and the same amount from Idaho. In Nevada 10 cents per pound was advanced."

According to Mr. Green he will be ready to take wool on consignment here, but he does not apprehend that Eastern Oregon buyers will take kindly to the idea because of a sad experience they had when they consigned their wool about 15 years ago.

"I do not believe there will be much contracting this year and it is probable that the prices will not be established until the first sales day is held," he says. By that time the houses will know where they are going to dispose of their wool and they will bid accordingly. However, it is certain that the wool will be bought and those having good clips will get good prices."

The following is a schedule of the sales days as arranged for the coming season in eastern Oregon:

- Arlington, May 23, approximate offerings 700,000 pounds.
- Pendleton, May 25 and June 8.
- Pilot Rock, May 26 and June 9.
- Approximate offerings for both places 2,500,000 pounds.
- Heppner, May 29 and June 11; 2,500,000 pounds.
- Yale, June 5 and 23; 2,000,000 pounds.
- Baker City, June 22 and July 11; 2,000,000 pounds.
- Elgin, June 25 and July 9; 2,000,000 pounds.
- Condon, June 19; 750,000 pounds.
- Shaniko, June 2 and 16, and July 6; 3,400,000 pounds.

CITY ATTORNEY DRAWS ORDINANCES

For More Progressive Policies in Sidewalks and Streets in Salem.

City Attorney Keyes has many ordinances under way providing for the improvement of streets and sidewalks, especially the latter. Probably the largest improvement in sidewalks is planned in the ordinance which provides for a five-foot sidewalk to be constructed entirely of cement from Waverly street to Fifteenth. The ordinance provides that the property owners in front of whose land the sidewalk is to be constructed must do the work, or the city will do it for them, charging the cost up to them.

A sidewalk ordinance is also being prepared providing for a wooden sidewalk on Capital and D streets. The sidewalk, though of wood, will be constructed in the most up-to-date manner.

Another important bit of street legislation provided for in an ordinance being prepared by Keyes is a resolution for the improving of State street with the Warren bituminous paving, which will extend from curb to curb instead of from gutter to gutter, as was originally provided, thus increasing the paved part of the street two feet more in width. On State street, as on other thoroughfares on which street railway tracks are laid, the cost of improving between the rails and a foot and a half on each side will be assessed to the companies.

The curbs on Court street from Church to Eighteenth will be moved out so as to make the street have a uniform width of 30 feet when the paving of the street with bituminous pavement begins shortly, according to an ordinance being prepared by Keyes. The additional width from the property line caused by this will be added to the grass plot running between the sidewalk and the street proper.

Hood street will also come in for considerable improvement in one of the ordinances under way. The bill provides that the street will be thoroughly graded and the Portland Railway, Light and Power company's tracks be moved to the center of the street.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly afflicted may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by Dr. Stone's drug store.

OREGONIAN ENDORSES SALEM-STAYTON LINE

(Oregonian Editorial.)—The Salem Board of Trade has under consideration the project of an electric road from Salem to Stayton. The proposed line would traverse fifteen miles of wonderfully rich country, and would afford transportation facilities with Stayton, one of the most prosperous small cities in the state. Enterprise of this nature are the result of the building of the electric line through the Willamette valley, and it will be but a few years before "feeders" will leave the main line at frequent intervals throughout the valley, and with cheap transportation enhance the value of all farm property and aid in building up the interior cities and towns. These cities and towns will, of course, assist in increasing

THE REASON FOR THAT POOR SHOT

"That was a d—n poor shot." "Aye, aye, sir; but the end of our gun blew off."

These two remarks passed between the officer on the bridge and the gun captain followed in rapid fire fashion the recent explosion of the six-inch gun on the Missouri in target practice at Magdalena Bay.

This bit of information, together with an account of the accident, was told for the first time today by an eye witness, Peter Mullen, one of the engineers of the "Missouri."

Mullen arrived on the Connecticut on his way to his home in Galveston, his time having expired.

"I was watching the result of the practice from the superstructure," he said, "when the entire muzzle of the gun blew off. A moment later two pieces of it, weighing three pounds each, fell on the deck after shooting straight up in the air. The gun crew had just discovered that a part of their gun was missing when the officer on the bridge shouted down the tube his uncomplimentary remark, which was instantly replied to by the gun captain. The board of inquiry decided the accident was unavoidable, as it was caused by a flaw in the gun. The crew was held blameless."

The Honest Life. Speaking of Robert Wilson, who recently died in Benton county, a writer pays him this tribute, one of the finest that can be paid to a man:

A remarkable fact in connection with his residence of many years on a rented farm in northern Benton was that between landlord and tenant there was never a written contract, a promise from Robert Wilson being as good as a bond from an ordinary individual. During all these years, too, there was never a disagreement or dispute between the owner and the renter, nor were the grain sacks or the hay shocks ever recounted by the landlord after Robert Wilson had stated the number. No one ever erred in question the absolute justice and fairness of the dealings of the deceased, for his was one of the rare natures that all men trusted and in which none were deceived.

In his last illness Mr. Wilson made his peace with God, saying he deeply regretted that he had not devoted his entire life to the Master, as he had been taught right in childhood but had been neglectful. Thus in the end all is well with him.—Albany Democrat.

But as he was absolutely honest it is presumed he will be forgiven.

Death Was On His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris, of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. JOE CANNON AFTER THE PAPER TRUST

Washington, April 2.—Speaker Joe Cannon caused to be introduced a resolution directing the secretary of commerce and labor to inform the house what steps have been taken to investigate the action of the International Paper company of New York and other corporations reported to be planning the formation of a print paper trust.

Mr. Cannon declared that if the claims of the publishers are correct the "trust" can be dissolved.
