Modern Undertaking Parlors

The A. M. Clough Undertaking rooms are among the neatest and best appointed on the coast. While the duties are not pleasant, they are at times necessary and it is then that people appreciate good service and first-class quality in every department of business. I keep up with all the new ideas in my line and the latest style of supplies in stock. Parlors at 445 Court street.

FULTON DEMURS

TO SMITH SUIT
Senator Charles W. Fulton through his attorney, George G. Bingham, made his first appearance in answer to the $5000 suit brought by J. S. Smith by the filing of a demurrer to the complaint and asking that the suit be dismissed on the ground that there are not facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. A demurrer is usually taken advantage of by attorneys for defendants for the purpose of delaying the case, as it is necessary for the same to first be argued and then ruled upon by the court. If, as is usually the case, the demurrer is overruled, additional time is secured by the defendant in which to answer the complaint.

Came to Oregon—
Mr. and Mrs. John G. Jackson and son-in-law, Darnell Crow and wife, all of northern Michigan, arrived last evening to make their home in Oregon. Mr. Jackson is a brother-in-law of Alderman Enos Pressnell of Highroad addition. When they left California there was snow on the ground and in Oregon they found all in bloom and saw the first green grass for nine months.

Rate Case Hearing—
The railroad commission is today engaged in the hearing of the rate case against the Portland Railway, Light & Power company to maintain the rates set by the commission some time ago at 5 cents from Portland to Milwaukie and 19 cents from Portland to Oak Grove. The commission is hearing the case for the second time, the same having been appealed to the supreme court by the company and a temporary injunction granted but afterwards referred back to the commission with new evidence.
