BUILDING UP A REAL FARMER'S COLLEGE.

The State Board of Regents of the State Agricultural college at Corvallis are raking the country over for experts for heads of departments.

Recently President Kerr and State Superintendent Ackerman went to the Atlantic and hunted over half the states in the Union TO FIND GOOD MATERIAL.

They wanted the very best men and women who had reputations and were in demand in other states for special ability in their professions. The board does not seem to be trying to make the College of Agriculture A POLITICAL DUMPING GROUND FOR PETS AND FAVORITES.

They do not seem to be trying to pick up every cheap, lazy person, with a little political pull and put them on the state payrolls.

When the college has been equipped for a few years with the best men and women money can hire THE SCHOOL WILL BEGIN TO TURN OUT EXPERTS.

Oregon boys and girls who graduate from there will be in demand all over the West, for positions are looking for the most competent.

These are the policies that will make the Corvallis college a great school, and by-and-by it WILL BE FAMOUS FOR SOMETHING BESIDES FOOTBALL.

That is what will have to be done some day with the state university. It will have to be licked into shape and made to come through AS A FIRST-CLASS INSTITUTION.

The people appreciate higher education when it is put up to them right, and they will not kick at the expense when they are getting the best.

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK.

It is high time that the Republican leaders in congress, and especially in the house began to think of the question of economizing in public expenditures.

Facing a deficit of $35,000,000, and with the possibility of making it $50,000,000 before the close of the fiscal year, congress should CUT OUT EVERY EXPENDITURE THAT IT POSSIBLY CAN.

Otherwise what answer shall we be able to make in the presidential campaign to the Democratic accusation, which we are hearing already, of our heedless extravagance?

WE DO NOT WISH TO BE PUT ON THE DEFENSIVE.

The light has begun to break in on congress we infer from the ruling made by Mr. Foster, of Vermont, in the speaker's chair against the generous item which has been added to the agricultural appropriation every year of late, to enable Dr. Wiley to further investigate the effects of COLD STORAGE UPON THE HEALTHFULNESS OF FOODS.

We have had Dr. Wiley's health squad exploited to the limit.

Dr. Wiley has had all the notoriety out of this sort of business that the public treasury should stand for.

If he wants any more of it let him pay for his own advertising.

WE ARE BELIEVERS IN THE PURE FOOD LAW.

It is one of the best measures any congress has passed, but that is no reason why it should be made a source of opportunity for Dr. Wiley to exploit his vagaries at public expense.

Your Earning Capacity . . .

Ought to enable you to do more than just make a living. You ought to save money. After you save it, put it to work in our savings department, where it will earn three per cent interest. Remember your earning capacity CAN'T LAST FOREVER. Now is the time to start a safety fund. It is surprising how quickly you can create capital when you go about it in the proper way and with determination. Small accounts welcome.

SAVINGS DEPARTMENT CAPITAL NATIONAL BANK

DR. WILEY'S SPOKESMAN IN THE HOUSE WAS MR. MAAN, OF ILLINOIS, WHO DWELT AT LENGTH UPON THE IMPURENESS OF COLD-STORAGE FOODS.

He received a decided setback from Mr. Perkins, of New York, who declared that he was hale and hearty at fifty, had never had a sick day in his life, and was not terrified by the thought that he might have been devouring, day by day, COLD STORAGE FOODS FOR HALF A CENTURY.

It is too bad that when the acting speaker ruled out the Wiley item he could not have ruled out the doctor, too, but the American people are patient as well as long-suffering. Some day the secretary of agriculture will begin to reflect on the pertinence of this statement.

DR. WILEY AND ALL HIS FANTASTIC AND ERRATIC NOTIONS SHOULD GO!

WORDS OF PROPHETS AND SEERS.

May is to be a continuous performance of tornadoes, thunder storms, hail and frost.

Rev. I. R. Hicks, the famous weather prophet, has hung out the danger signals in his long distance forecasts for the month, and trouble is feared by THOSE WHO HAVE FAITH IN HIS PROGNOSTICATIONS.

The merry month is to open with a series of violent thunder storms, approaching tornadoic violence in the West, and especially on the third and fourth. Low barometers, sultriness, fitful south winds and restless clouds indicate an almost positive danger at this time, says Hicks.

The country at large is to be visited with heavy rains and hails followed by late snow squalls and sleet. THERE IS MUCH PROBABILITY OF SEISMIC DISTURBANCES.

Quiet and calm and much warmer weather until the 24th will usher in the most dangerous period of the month, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 25th, 26th and 27th, storms may be expected to become very threatening if not tornadoic. The danger area extends over THE CENTRAL AND WESTERN PARTS OF THE COUNTRY.

The Rev. Hicks is a bold man to forecast a stormy month of May and we hope his jurisdiction does not extend to Oregon.

THERE ARE OTHER PROPHETS OF TROUBLE WHO ANNOUNCE SPASMS AND CONVULSIONS.

Harry McCue, the noted old seer and prophet of Lake Whatcom, predicts that there will be a great earthquake in Utah within eight or eleven days that will disroot that state.

He also says the weather is continuing so cold on the coast is BECAUSE OF THE UNEXAMPLIFIED WICKEDNESS OF THE PEOPLE. He declares there will be little warm weather until after June bugs begin to buzz.

If we got our deserts for our wickedness THE SUN MIGHT NOT SHINE AT ALL.

It might hail, if it did not rain, and hail fire and brimstone as in Sodom and Gomorrah.

PRESIDENT TAGGLES AGAIN

This Time Is Opposed to Injunction By Courts for Improper Reasons and Improper Purposes.

Washington, April 28.—Advocating the adoption in the near future of a national incorporation law to curb alleged illegal combinations of capital and making a plea for the enactment of laws affecting the power of injunctions and anti-trust legislation, President Roosevelt sent to congress his fourth special message during the present session.

After making a strong plea for a law that will limit the judicial power of injunction and insisting that amendments to the anti-trust law are needed, the President devotes some space in his message to the report of the finance committee of Boston showing the practices indulged in by certain corporations with that city. He called attention to the fact that the committee's report showed proof conclusive that bids were submitted to the administration of Boston by dealers in structural steel, one of whom was a member of the steel trust, for the purpose of raising prices.

The President adds that he has submitted a copy of the Boston committee's report to the department of justice for investigation,

Therefore, it is clear that unless a national incorporation law can be forthwith enacted somebody, or bodies, in the executive service should be given power to pass upon the agreements of combination in relation to interstate commerce, and every such combination and agreement not thus approved should be treated as in violation of the law and prosecuted accordingly. The issuance of securities of any combination doing interstate business should be under government supervision. In speaking of the efforts being made to have labor organizations exempted from any operations of an incorporation law the President says that such exemption would in all probability make the bill unconstitutional. The President maintains that the laborers have a right to combine to strike peaceably and enter into trade agreements with employers.

"But we should sanction neither boycott nor blacklisting which would be illegal at common law," he says. "The measures I advocate are in the interests of decent corporations and law-abiding labor unions. They are pre-eminently good for the public, for, in my judgment, the American people have definitely made up their minds that the reign of the law-defying, law-evading corporations is over."

In urging the enactment of legislation limiting the power of injunction and the punishment for contempt, the President says that in contempt cases, save where immediate action is imperative, the trial should not be held in the court of the defendant or defendants.

"They are blind who fail to realize the extreme bitterness caused among large bodies of worthy citizens by the use that has been reand in the event that sufficient evidence of guilt can be gathered, advocated prosecution under the anti-trust law.

"Power is unquestionably lodged somewhere in the executive branch of the government," the message says, "permitting corporations which further public interests, but it must be remembered that as regards great wealthy combinations, through which most of the interstate business is done today, the burden of proof should be on them to show that they have the right to exist. No judicial tribunal has the knowledge or experience to determine in the first place where a given combination is advisable or necessary in the interest of public good. It is my belief that ultimately we shall have to adopt a national incorporation law, although I am aware of the impossibility of enacting such a law at present."

The President further recommends the establishment of postal savings banks and an ample appropriation to enable the interstate commerce commission to properly supervise and control the accounting systems of the railroads of the country. He also urges the creation of forest reserves in the Appalachian mountains.

Discussing the impossibility of maintaining a dual control of the national congress and how the states are unable to control, the President scolds both branches of congress for their failure to utilize and exercise the great powers conferred upon them as regards the needs of interstate commerce. He says this commerce is being regulated neither by congress nor by states, but by occasional and necessarily inadequate one-sided action by the federal judiciary.

"However upright and able a court is," continues the President, "it cannot act constructively as an agency of the government, and this means that courts are and always will be unable to deal effectively with problems like the present, which require constructive action.

post-duly made of the power of injunction in labor disputes," says the message. "I ask that it be limited in some such way as I have already pointed out in a previous message."

The President expresses the belief that congress will this session enact a child labor law for the District of Columbia, and that steps will be taken providing for an investigation of tariff conditions by an appropriate committee of congress, acting with government experts, preparatory to a revision of the schedule to be made by the congress to be elected next fall.

He hopes that temporary financial legislation to provide for possible emergencies will be enacted this session and that a commission of experts will be appointed to investigate the entire subject and to recommend legislation which will put our financial system on an efficient permanent basis.

Sour Stomach

"I had Cascarets and feel like a new man. I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and sour stomach for the last two years. I have been taking medicine and other drugs, but could get no relief, only for a short time. I will recommend Cascarets to my friends as the only thing for indigestion and sour stomach and to keep the bowels in good condition. They are very nice to eat."
