SHOCKING INCREASE OF BOOZE

County Places Setting Up Booze Distributing Joints—When Marion Goes Dry Liberty Can Have Liquor on Equal Terms With Salem.

Portland, Or., May 7.—Shocking statistics have been given out by an officer of the internal revenue department showing that two years ago the counties of Oregon that went dry had 1452 federal liquor licenses, while after being dry two years they have 1652, or an increase in the number of places selling liquor of 19 federal licenses. Six counties of the western Oregon district that went dry have 90 more liquor licenses than two years ago. Lane county has 53 liquor licenses, seven of them drug stores. Every home a saloon, and every locality with equal saloon privileges is a beautiful dream of the Prohibitionists that does not work well in practice. The cold truth of the matter seems to be that under licensed saloons, the rural districts have no places for the distribution of liquor, while with saloons abolished every county precinct sets up booze distribution that is something fierce.

CALIFORNIA DELEGATION FOR BRYAN

Los Angeles, Cal., May 7.—Latest figures today on the result of the primaries show that the Lincoln-Roosevelt league gave the regular Republican organization the closest call it has had for a long time. Incomplete returns show that the league came so near winning over the machine that an official canvass of the votes may be necessary and with several precincts missing. With several precincts missing, the returns show that in the seven assembly districts of the south the regular Republicans elected 30 delegates and the Lincoln-Roosevelt league 26. The organization Democrats won by a safe margin over the ticket named by the Democratic league. This is declared by Chairman Schwann to be a Bryan victory and makes it certain that the California delegation will go to Chicago instructed for Bryan.

BUT SEVERELY ROASTED FOR SCORCHING THE STREETS—FINDS AFTER ALL SALEM IS NOT SO SMALL AND GETS A FALL.

A Portlander speeding in a big touring car, may have a hallucination and believe Salem a small place but one J. L. Van Huffle, has found the law just as large here as any place else, and the learning of this very valuable lesson cost him in the neighborhood of $20. Van Huffle is a chauffeur and was driving the big automobile from Portland to Corvallis last Monday, where he was to get his employer and the owner of the car, one Mr. Carpenter. He was coming down the road at a good rate of speed in the direction of Commercial street, when his "look-out" probably reported "city ahead," but Van Huffle eager to make his journey quickly probably said "No, no," closing his eyes in all likelihood and sped on. But it was not long before there was a very much alive pair of horses attached to the delivery wagon of D. A. White, the feedman, and they became badly frightened at the snorting and puffing monster, which was bearing down upon them at a terrific rate of speed and they began trying to free themselves, first kicking the wagon to pieces. It was then also that Van Huffle discovered that Salem had a much alive constable, who went to Corvallis and placed him under arrest. Justice of the Peace Webster was kind to the poor unfortunate yesterday who thought Salem so small, and let him go with a fine of $5, costs amounting to about $15 and a severe reprimand.

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA

Itching, Burning Skin Disease Rout- ed Without Use of Injurious Drugs.
Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world in the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the eminent skin specialist of Chicago. Dr. Dennis, in his own private practice, discovered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple remedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch, salt rheum, and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure. This compound D. D. D. Prescription positively takes away the itch at once—the instant it is applied to the skin. This vegetable liquid does away with deleterious drugs so long used in an attempt to doctor the blood, whereas modern science has determined that eczema is first and all the time a skin disease. If you want to know more about the merits of D. D. D. Prescription, call at our store. We vouch for this remedy. The Capital Drug Co.

COCAINE VICTIM

outside the heavily grated door which separated her from her husband. Martin declares that he can prove an alibi now that his wife has come to his aid. Attorneys have been secured to defend him. The doctors at the Salem sanitarium have said they will testify to Martin's mental unsoundness. Mrs. Martin had called at the jail to speak to him. As she leaned forward to kiss him through the bars, she was pulled back by an officer and refused the privilege. Then she turned upon the detectives, who stood about her, and told them that Edward Martin would be cleared of the murder charge if her efforts were of any avail. At the same time she admonished her husband to say nothing to anyone.

"Your father's attorneys in New York are securing counsel for you," she said. It was the first kindly word the drug victim had received since his incarceration. Wednesday night the police found a blood stained overcoat and a rifle in a vacant lot near the water front. The coat has been partially identified as one similar to the one Martin was known to own. The executors of the Wolf estate declare that an examination of the stock in the pawn shop shows that a rifle is missing. Martin denies ownership of the overcoat.

The police sent Martin through all the agonies of the Spanish inquisition by refusing his drug drenched system the stimulant it craved so terribly. For hours he paced his narrow cell pleading with the adamant guards to relieve the awful hunger. Finally his weakened knees crumbled beneath him and he fell across his dirty, disheveled cot. His moans could be heard out of the cell corridor and in the lobby of the station. So pitiful were his cries that even the heavy eyed drunks and listless "vags" who occupied the "bull pen" added their pleadings to those of Martin and begged the police to give "the poor devil his cocaine." Then the detectives came to his cell door, and dangling a hypodermic syringe full of morphine before his fevered eyes and tempted him to confess the crime and take the drug. But Martin did not confess. The offer of the bribe seemed to brace him for he turned his back to the officer, closed his lips and did not make another sound. Finally, the authorities, despairing of breaking the former West Pointer's spirit, gave up and supplied him with the injection his weakened system desired.

The testimonial given by Edward H. Martin, murderer-suspect, to Dr. David B. Griffin, of this city, at the time of leaving the doctor's care for insanity brought on by the cocaine habit, follows:

On the porch of the residence of Dr. David Boardman Griffin, No. 371 Church street, Salem, Marion county, Oregon, Sunday, July 2, 1907, 6 p. m. To whom it may concern: On Thursday, May 23rd, last I arrived from Portland at about 11:30 a. m. to place myself under the treatment of Dr. Griffin for addiction to morphine and cocaine, to which I had been enslaved since the Spanish American war. I graduated from the U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., on April 24, 1898, and after active service was compelled to relinquish my chosen profession on account of my enslavement. At 9 a. m. Friday, May 24, began active treatment under Dr. Griffin's personal supervision. Five hours previous I had taken my last dose of my accustomed morphine and cocaine. At 2 p. m. the following Tuesday I was assisted by my father and doctor Griffin to town, where my weight was most carefully ascertained to be 123 pounds. My next visit to town assisted only by Dr. Griffin occurred two days later, Thursday, May 30th, and after exercising every precaution to insure correct results, my weight was found to be 134 pounds at 2:30 p. m., on the scales at Steusloff Bros., butchers and packers. In the evening at 7 p. m. I weighed on the scales first used at Hughes' (grocers) 135 pounds. The next day, Friday, May 31st, I weighed 139 pounds and on Saturday evening, June 1st, I weighed 142 1/2 pounds. The greatest care has been exercised each time I have been weighed so as to eliminate any chance for errors. Further record I will make at intervals of weighing together with other remarks pertinent to the history of my case. I will make at any time of occurrence so as to insure correctness and not trust to memory if afterward it should be desired to give a history of this case of mine that I feel myself is without parallel in medical annals to rapidity of markable heroism of officers and men who participated in it. The Berbers, whose numbers included 500 horsemen, attacked the French camp in two parties. One party crawled within a few yards of the camp, and rushed to the attack with loud shouts. A desperate hand to hand conflict followed. The tribesmen used knives, sabres and rifles and attempted to kill every officer with whom they came in contact. One Berber slipped into a major's tent, and was about to shoot that officer who saw him just in time and cut him down with a terrific blow of his sword. After 20 minutes of severe fighting the Berbers were driven out of the camp by a detachment of the foreign legion. Meanwhile, another party of the enemy were pouring a destructive fire into the camp from an eminence on the opposite side, being entrenched behind the walls of an old fort. An attacking force took the position by storm. It was a quick, severe struggle, in which 23 out of 73 men were killed or wounded. They ascended the hill and reached the wall itself under a raking cross fire from the other tribesmen. The Moors were dislodged, but the French forces were losing so heavily that the commander prepared to retire. At some distance from the base of the wall he ordered his men to lie flat on the ground. Then the field guns began to shell the enemy, who were finally forced to cease fire. Immediately after ordering his men to cease firing, the commander saw that one soldier had been wounded at the foot of the wall, and lying there helpless. In order to save him from falling into the hands of the enemy the commander risked his own life in dashing across the open space and carrying the wounded man back to safety, although the bullets ploughed up the grounds on either side, neither of them was hit. Less fortunate was a young lieutenant who had followed his superior. A bullet struck him in the chest, and he died, exclaiming, "For France, my captain."

RITZVILLE MURDER TRIAL

Spokane, Wash., May 7.—Charged with the murder of Frank F. Sherman, Earnest Spurlin is on trial for his life today at Ritzville, Wash. The third man drawn from the venire box was that of the man with whose violent death he is charged. When Sherman's name was called out Spurlin gave a noticeable start and grew very pale. A word from his attorney was necessary to restore his composure. Spurlin is alleged to have killed Sherman because of jealousy over the alleged attentions of Sherman toward Mrs. Spurlin. Sensational testimony is expected.

Charles H. Wright, express messenger of a Rio Grande train, was murdered some time during the night by robbers who looted his car. They escaped with $100. Wright's body was found in his car when it arrived at Denver this morning.

ENGLISH COUNTESS COMING

To Make Campaign Against President's Daughter in Strong Socialist District of Ohio.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Bellefontaine, O., May 7.—The Countess of Warwick, England's famous Socialist agitator, will be pitted against Mrs. Alice Longworth, daughter of President Roosevelt, in the congressional campaign in the eighth Ohio district next fall.

That both women will make speeches from the stump has just been learned. Some weeks ago Representative Longworth told Ralph D. Cole, Republican nominee, that he and Mrs. Longworth would make speeches in the district for Cole. Today E. G. Wharton, of Kenton, Socialist candidate, announced that the Countess of Warwick had agreed to visit the district on a speech-making tour in his behalf.

It is said that the Countess will make a money contribution to the campaign, believing a chance to put the Socialist in the United States congress is at hand.
