

OUR REGULAR method of doing business is agreeable to the many shoppers who have a regular habit of trading at this store. Our prices are established and we do not sell goods on an irregular theory. It is our aim to sell the goods exactly as they are represented to us. We buy from reliable manufacturers only, so we have only reliable goods. When we say regular price we mean an even exchange of goods for money. We sell better goods for the same money or the same goods for less money than elsewhere. Look over the items for this week's shopping.

PLAY AT THEATER TONIGHT

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" on a return engagement to the Grand this evening, is a play worthy of the patronage of every Salem theater-goer. Its production yesterday evening at the Helig in Portland was criticized in the most flattering manner by this morning's Oregonian, that paper saying in part: "A large audience liked 'Mrs. Temple's Telegram' immensely last night, and as has been heretofore remarked, the play is that the engagement was so brief. It is good for other repeats here and the local public will be glad to hear of its return in the near future."

The cast is even better now than when the play appeared here last September and the management guarantee absolutely that if any member of the audience is not satisfied with the performance, their money will be refunded.
