

BLOOD-MAKING

TONIC TREATMENT

A Cure for Anaemic Conditions That is Showing Remarkable Proofs of Cures in Stubborn Cases.

When the body becomes run down, either as result of overwork, worry or a severe illness, an examination of the blood would show it to be weak and watery. This condition is called anaemic, which is the medical term for "bloodless." The common symptoms are paleness of the lips, gums and cheeks, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart after the slightest exertion, dull eyes and loss of appetite. Anaemia itself is a dangerous disease and it may gradually pass into consumption. It must be cured by treating its cause, which is the poor condition of the blood. The vital fluid must be made strong and healthy thereby enabling it to carry the necessary nourishment to every tissue of the body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest builder of rich, new blood and they have been curing anaemia and other blood diseases for nearly a generation, during which time they have come to be recognized as an invaluable household remedy.

Mrs. J. F. Hayden, of 241 Decatur street, Corning, N. Y., whose husband is a foreman in The Symington Bridge Shops, was cured by this treatment. She says:

"When I was about 18 years old, I began to be troubled with anaemia and suffered from it for years. About three years ago I had the measles and after that the anaemia was worse. I couldn't walk any distance without being ill, was dizzy nearly all of the time and would often faint away after the least exertion. I was very pale and thin, black specks floated before my eyes and I had sick headaches, poor digestion and no strength or ambition.

"I took treatment from our family doctor and two other physicians, but with no relief. Then I tried several different medicines, giving each a fair trial, but was not cured. My husband then suggested that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"Six years ago he had become so nervous and run down from his confining work that he had been obliged to give it up. He was sick for a year, when he gave up all other medicine and tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was cured.

"I bought several boxes of the pills and they benefitted me almost from the first and in time cured me. For a year and a half I have been perfectly well, am strong, have a good appetite and can sleep well."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured diseases due to impure or watery blood that have baffled the best medical skill. They are able to do this, because they contain the elements necessary to make new and pure blood. Rheumatism, chlorosis, after-effects of the grip and fevers, are some of the blood diseases cured by these pills and, as the health of the nerves depends upon the purity of the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful in such nerve diseases as neuralgia, nervous debility, sleeplessness, dizziness and even locomotor ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

REFUSES TO AID

GRAFT PROSECUTION

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, May 29.—"I'll never be an informer; I'll never 'peach' even to save myself from prosecution," is the reply of Eddie Graney, one of the indicted members of the prize fight trust, to the proposal of the prosecution in the graft cases that he turn state's evidence against Abe Ruef in return for immunity.

Graney says he was approached by agents of the prosecution who made this proposition which he quickly rejected. Incidentally, the offer of immunity discloses the fact that Ruef will next be tried on the indictments growing out of the charges that he paid the supervisors $20,000 to pass the omnibus prize fight ordinance. Testimony given before the grand jury shows that Graney was in Ruef's office when the $20,000 was passed under the table to Ruef, who was to hand it to the supervisors.

It Reached the Spot.

Mr. E. Humphrey, who owns a large general store at Omega, O., and is president of the Adams County Telephone Co., as well as of the Home Telephone Co., of Pike county, O., says of Dr. King's New Discovery: "It saved my life once. At least I think it did. It seemed to reach the spot—the very seat of my cough—when everything else failed." Dr. King's New Discovery not only reaches the cough spot; it heals the sore spots and the weak spots in throat, lungs and chest. Sold under guarantee at J. C. Perry's drug store. 50c. and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

FALLIERES AIMED AT ALLIANCE

London, May 29.—It became known today that the real object of the visit of President Fallieres of France to England was the establishment of an Anglo-French alliance and that the purpose has failed, so far as any formal action is concerned.

President Fallieres before embarking this afternoon for Calais spoke freely of his designs, saying:

"I deeply regret that my visit to England has failed to result in the establishment of a formal Anglo-French alliance or at least in preparatory steps leading to one."

"The hospitality of the English people has been most thoroughly enjoyed by me and my visit has been delightful, but it was my hope that the two nations could be brought closer and more firmly together by the formation of an alliance."

"The English and the French have much in common and the feeling of the French people is most friendly toward the English. I am sure that it is the pleasure of the French people that such an alliance be formed and I am convinced that it would result in much mutual good to the two nations."

It is believed that the French president and King Edward and the high officers of state have discussed the proposition at length and that, while the English hold the best feeling for the French and are most friendly toward them, the king and his counselors could not arrive at any means of entering a formal alliance at this time, which would be satisfactory to all interests. The matter, it is understood, stands much as it did previous to the visit of Fallieres but not the slightest suggestion of anything but the best of feeling exists between the king and the president, who enjoyed each other's company immensely.

Is Government Economy Popular?

Since December, 1905, or in barely two years and a half the liberal ministry in England has held office. During that period it has reduced the national debt by $225,000,000, counting the present budget, whereas its "imperial minded" predecessors added $1,000,000,000 to the unfortunate British taxpayers' burden. Except for election purposes, it cannot be said that the administration is less efficient. It is probably more so. What are called grants-in-aid by the imperial government for local purposes, especially in connection with the poor law, have doubtless been reduced. So far from that being a reproach, it is to be hoped that a vicious system will some day be abolished altogether.

And yet the popular ministry has steadily lost popularity since the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman took office. The question arises whether the public appreciates economy, or even understands it. There is an irresponsible extravagance about legislation everywhere. There is a vague feeling that any entity called "government" is an inexhaustible milch cow, that can continue forever to pay for fads and luxuries, while nobody is the poorer for such expenditures. Look at our own congress. We are spending more or wasting more on administration every year and we are facing a large deficit.

There is a cure for extravagance, but the statesman who introduced it here would risk his popularity, or lose it altogether. In Belgium the state pays the expenses of the election, allowing a prescribed number of meetings and a prescribed quantity of literature for each voter. The elected candidate must show an absolute majority of the votes in his district. If he does not do so, there is a second election, paid for by a special levy on the voters of that district. There are very few second elections in Belgium and few voters who don't vote.

When a municipal officer in England is found short of some of the city's funds, the local government board, which superintends such matters, will not permit the defalcation to be concealed in that city's budget or met by the issue of municipal securities. The money is replaced by a special rate levied upon the taxpayers of that city. As in the case of the Belgian election, the lesson is brought directly home. There are few cases of dishonesty among municipal officials in England. The rate payers, in fact, see that their accounts are properly kept and audited.—Wall Street Journal.

Lard Eaters Should Stop and Think!

There must be something in all this Pure Food Talk. We hear the term "Pure Food" on every hand—Pure Food Shows, Pure Food Laws and Pure Food agitation of all kinds. It simply means that people are awakening to the fact that they cannot be too careful about the purity of their food and the ingredients which enter into its making.

One of the most fruitful sources of indigestion in the past has been the use of lard. Nine times out of ten, the lard which you buy is not fit for any human stomach. Its source is suggestive of uncleanness and unhealthfulness. It makes greasy, indigestible food, and food which is bound eventually to interfere with digestion.

COTTOLENE is the only rational frying and shortening medium. Wherever exhibited in competition with other cooking fats, it has always been granted highest award. It contains no hog-fat, but is a pure vegetable product, made from the choicest cotton seed oil, and is every bit as pure and healthful as the purest olive oil.

For frying and shortening, you should use nothing but COTTOLENE. It is more healthful than lard, it will go farther than lard, one-third less being required, and it will make your food more appetizing and digestible.

Buy a pail of COTTOLENE to-day, use it according to directions, and you will never go back to lard.

Cottolene is Guaranteed

We hereby authorize your grocer to refund your money in case you're not pleased after having given COTTOLENE a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk

COTTOLENE is packed in pails with a patent air-tight top, to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome; also to prevent it from absorbing the disagreeable odors of the grocery, such as fish, oil, etc.

THAW MUST

Dr. Albert W. Ferris, chairman of the state lunacy commission, here today.

"Thaw undoubtedly is an incurable paranoiac and he is liable to have an outbreak at any time, in which event he would be dangerous," said Dr. Ferris. "The Matteawan asylum is the only place in the state where the criminal insane can be properly cared for and he must return there. He cannot be transferred to any other asylum."

"I have observed Thaw carefully and so have the doctors at Matteawan and my opinion is not guess work. I am positive that his case is incurable and it would be a great error to permit him to be at large or to have partial freedom."

Thaw alleges that Dr. Baker, the superintendent at Matteawan, "has it in for him" and that he was persecuted there by the attendants as well as the officials. Dr. Ferris says he has investigated these accusations and believes that they are the results of some of the delusions which Thaw, according to his opinion, continually harbors.

Thaw's attorneys are preparing to make a hard fight before the supreme court Justice Morschauer at Poughkeepsie, where Thaw now is detained in the quarters of Sheriff Robert W. Chanler, a multi-millionaire who lives over the jail. They allege that Thaw cannot receive fair treatment at Matteawan under the present conditions and that there is no evidence which warrants his being held with the criminal insane.

The World's Best Climate.

Is not entirely free from disease, on the high elevations fevers prevail, while on the lower levels malaria is encountered to a greater or less extent, according to altitude. To overcome climate affections, lassitude, malaria, jaundice, biliousness, fever and ague, and general debility, the most effective remedy is Electric Bitters, the great alterative and blood purifier; the antidote for every form of bodily weakness, nervousness, and insomnia. Sold under guarantee at J. C. Perry's drug store. Price 50c.

Three men were killed last night when the $500,000 dam across the Current river at Port Arthur, B. C., broke and carried away the railroad track nearby piling the cars on top of the train-chew, all of whom were killed.

Poison Oak Poisoning.

Ballard's Snow Liniment cures it. Mr. O. H. P. Cornelius, Turner, Ore. writes—My wife has discovered that Snow Liniment cures "Poison Oak Poisoning," a very painful trouble. She not only cured a case of it on herself, but on two of her friends who were poisoned by this same ivy.
