TENTS FOR TREATMENT OF TUBERCULOSIS

A method for the treatment of tuberculosis which has met with great success in many of the older Eastern institutions, is to be put into effect at the Oregon State Insane asylum. This method is the open air treatment, under which the 26 patients at the asylum who are afflicted with the disease will live practically out of doors.

The plans have been completed for a series of four open air pavilions and the work of construction will begin at once under the direction of engineer A. E. Strang and Ed Zeysa, the chief carpenter. The pavilions are to be built in the four recesses of the infirmary. They will be two stories in height, and will be covered by glass roofs. The floors are to be made of concrete, and the framework of steel, making them absolutely fire proof. Each room will be about 35 feet square, one side of which will be entirely open, save for the thin steel lattice work.

The four pavilions, having eight rooms in all, will accommodate 30 patients. Here the consumptives will have all the splendid sunshine and fresh air that our wonderful climate affords. The effect will be the same as the tent treatment in Arizona, with this additional advantage, that the steel and glass pavilions will be much more sanitary and convenient than any tent can be made.

It is the intention of Dr. Steiner, the superintendent, to make this department one of the strongest in the institution, and hereafter the equipment at the Oregon asylum for taking care of the patients afflicted with tuberculosis will be equal to the best state institutions in the country.

PEPPER FAILS TO SAVE MILITARY PRISONERS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Walla Walla, Wash., June 12.—After peppering their trail to prevent the bloodhounds from following them Ray Baker and Robert J. McMannamy, military prisoners at Fort Walla Walla, were overtaken about half way to Milton, Or., late Thursday night and recaptured by 20 mounted men.

Edward Hinnerwadel and Clifford Polan, who escaped shortly after the other two got away, are at large, though soldiers are searching for them with bloodhounds.

The escape was peculiar. The first two men were doing police duty and attacked the sentry with a razor. The sentry threw up his gun to protest himself and the prisoners took his gun and belt away from him. While the troops were searching for them the other two men escaped.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC EXERCISES

A delighted audience that packed the university chapel to the doors gathered last evening to listen to the closing post graduate recital of the college of music. The brilliant and difficult program was rendered by Miss Mernie Hug, vocalist, and Miss Lily Stege, violinist, and the performance of each of the young artists left nothing to be desired.

The climax in Miss Hug's part of the program was her splendid rendering of the Rec. Aria and Cabaletta from Traviatta. Miss Stege's best number was probably the Ninth Concerto by De Beriot, which she played in a manner that would do credit to many an older artist of reputation. The program follows:

- When the Heart is Young... Buck Mernie Hug.
- Canzonetta... D'Ambrosio Lily Stege.
- At Length a Brilliant Ray... Rossini Mernie Hug.
- Ninth Concerto... DeBeriot Lily Stege.
- Sweet the Angelus Was Ringing... Oberti He Comes No More... Matter Mernie Hug.
- Humoreske... Dvorak Lily Stege.
- Rec. Aria and Cabaletto (Traviatta)... Verdi Mernie Hug.
- Scherzo... Goens Lily Stege.
- Ave Maria, 2nd Prelude... Bach-Gounod Mernie Hug and Lily Stege.
- Arthur von Jensen, accompanist.

PARADE

High School Commencement.
The annual graduation of the Salem high school takes place this evening, at the assembly hall, which has been lavishly decorated. This event comes but once a year and but once in a life time of the students. The class is large and handsome, and their program is unique in oratory and music and songs and string music by the high school orchestra. The programs were unique also, from the press of N. D. Elliot, job printer for educational institutions generally.

MEXICAN COLLECTOR TO FIGHT EXTRADITION

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Los Angeles, Cal., June 12.—Salvador Malacara, the former collector of internal revenue for Guanajuato, who was arrested here by request of President Diaz of Mexico, is preparing today to put up a stiff fight against being carried back to Mexico for trial on the charge of embezzling $50,000 from the Mexican government.

On information from the Mexican secret service it was learned that Malacara was in hiding in this city and after a search he was found in an obscure location. In his rooms were found vouchers and receipts that the amount of money involved probably reaches $50,000. Malacara, who comes from a prominent family in Mexico, lived here under an assumed name and mingled with the revolutionists.

SHOOTS WOMAN THEN KILLS HIMSELF

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Sacramento, Cal., June 12.—Because Eva Williams, a beautiful woman of the demimonde, refused to forsake her wayward life and marry him, Charles Stevens, a prosperous San Francisco liquor dealer, this morning shot and wounded the girl while she slept in a local lodging house and then, while the police were on the stairs, turned his weapon on himself and shot a bullet through his brain. Stevens dropped dead instantly. The Williams woman was taken to a hospital and it is believed she will recover.

Stevens visited Miss Williams' room at 7 o'clock this morning, entering while the girl slept. He fired four bullets into her body, two inflicting flesh wounds in her arm, one in her shoulder and the other lodging in her neck.

He then turned and fled down the hall, but seeing a policeman coming up the stairs, he ended his own life. At the hospital Miss Williams said her home was in Seattle where her mother, Mrs. Margaret Thompson, lives.
