SCORES ROASTED

reports indicate that there were terrible suffering, many of the victims being pinned in the wreckage and literally roasted while they were conscious but unable to move.

The accident occurred on the Bombay-Baroday railway at a point not near a station.

Later reports tend to increase the horror of the catastrophe. It is now believed that scores were roasted to death.

Until the wreckage is cleared away the list of the dead will be unknown and even then it will be difficult to find traces of the bodies.

Relief trains have been sent to the scene with doctors and surgical and medical supplies. One telegram says that 30 seriously injured victims are being cared for by others not so badly hurt. Many of the injured are mangled and probably will not recover.

The trains were running at a high rate of speed when they crashed together and none of those killed had the slightest chance of escape.

Three of the eight cars destroyed were shattered to splinters.

There Is a Lot of Unnecessary Eye Trouble

In this world. We allow ourselves to become nervous and fretful. Weeds of care overrun the garden of the heart when they should never be allowed to take root.

A GREAT DEAL OF THE PRESENT EYE TROUBLE is caused by people selecting Glasses for themselves that are unsuited for their eyes.

Fakirs Ordered Away.
A small army of souvenirs venders and various kinds of fakirs arrived here this morning from New York to meet the crowds attending the Cleveland funeral, but they received a disappointing reception.

The police had received instructions in advance that no fakirs of any kind were to be permitted to work in this city today. As each fakir stepped from the train, he was met by a blue coat who served notice that he would be given just 20 minutes to leave town. When they got a glimpse of the soldiers and the numerous special officers, most of them obeyed promptly and went sadly back to the metropol.

Exchange Close.
New York, June 26.—With the exception of the cotton exchange which is unable to close on account of its July notice day, all the exchanges in the United States closed after 1 o'clock today out of respect to the memory of Former President Grover Cleveland.

Few View Remains.
It was announced this morning that the casket containing the body of Former President Grover Cleveland will be placed in the reception room on the east side of the residence where callers usually are received first.

Only Mrs. Cleveland and the most intimate friends of the family will be permitted to see the face of the deceased president.

The casket was opened upstairs this morning in the room where Cleveland died and there the widow looked for the last time upon the features of her distinguished husband.

It will be closed and the cover fastened before it will be taken down to the reception room where the simple services will be performed.

A representative of the United Press associations and a representative from each of the other two press associations will be the only newspaper men present at the funeral services and the interment.

Viscount Kaneko of Tokio today cabled his sympathy to Mrs. Cleveland.

Prepared for Outbreak.

The Monmouth mounted troops, ordered out by Governor Fort, arrived here today to aid the four companies of militia in policing the line of the cortege of the Cleveland funeral this afternoon.

It is only about half a mile from the Cleveland home, Westland, on Bayard Lane, to the old Princeton cemetery, where the body of the former president is to be buried, and the troops are sufficient to police the way in such a manner as to prevent any display or interruption of any kind, it is thought.

Major John McCullough, in command of the infantry companies, comprising 300 men, and Captain Edwin Field, who is in command of the mounted troops, held a conference and arranged the plans for guarding the cortege. The infantry will be stationed at intervals all along the route of the cortege and the mounted men will form a patrol in such a way that instant assistance can be given if the foot soldiers at any point have any trouble in keeping the crowd back.

A squad of secret service men arrived here last night and have been busily at work laying their plans to prevent any possible attack on President Roosevelt or any government officials who are expected.

The Funeral.
There was no demonstration when the special train bearing President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived. They were met by Prof. Hibben and other members of the university faculty.

As they drove through the town to the Cleveland residence, every blind at every window of stores and residences was down and all business was suspended.

As soon as the President arrived, the ministers began the simple service from the Presbyterian book of prayers.

There was an anthem, no music and the ministers pronounced no eulogy. It was perhaps the simplest ceremony ever carried out over the body of a man who had been the head of a great nation and died when that nation was still in the height of its power and his memory still honored and beloved.

The casket was placed in the hearse by the pall bearers and the cortege formed without incident. There was no escort other than that formed by the pall bearers who walked beside the hearse.

Only a few were allowed to approach the grave. The little group was made up of Mrs. Cleveland, a few of those particular friends asked by her to be present, President Roosevelt, the undertaker, the ministers and three newspaper men. At the grave the simple burial service was read and the body of the man, who twice held the greatest honor within the gift of his people, was lowered into the earth and the name of Stephen Grover Cleveland passed into history.

Family Well Provided For.
Cleveland Bacon, on behalf of the family, denied a report that the estate of the former president had been so depleted that Mrs. Cleveland and the children would be impoverished.

SCHMITZ

Schmitz' guests were Attorney George D. Collis, bigamist, whose temporary address is the county jail, Attilio Carta, convicted of forgery, and also registered at the jail, a deputy sheriff in charge of Collis and Carta and several well known members of the Italian colony who are old cronies of Schmitz.

When the county jail authorities learned that several of their guests had gathered in a popular restaurant for a banquet and that a deputy sheriff joined in the feast, they were astonished and the matter is being investigated today.

GIGANTIC MOVING OF BUILDINGS IN CHICAGO

(United Press Licensed Wire.)
Chicago, June 26.—In order to make way for the new $21,000,000 station of the Northwestern Railroad, all of the buildings on the site are being moved and this section of the west side looks today like a city in migration.

A five-story brick and steel building weighing 6000 tons will be moved nearly a block. It will take three months to accomplish the undertaking as it can be moved only a few feet each day. The job will cost $50,000.

More About the English Bathing.

When I lived in Dieppe I came to be regarded as the chief house agent of the place. Not because I laid myself out in that capacity, but because it was known that I took no fees for introducing a client if I happened to hear of any one or be applied to by some one needing a residence. And absolute strangers used to come to me and, in the sweetest possible manner invite me to find them tenants. One elegant French woman arrived at my house one morning and told me, with many polite phrases, that she had just finished her house for the season—"Would I come and look at it, as she particularly wished to let it?" But she would much prefer to let it to her own compatriots rather than mine, I said, "Why?" She said: "Because English people paid a big price, and their money was usually quite safe, but that their habits were so dreadful that they ruined every house into which they went." I asked for further explanations, and I found that the English families baths were the particular bête noir of this good lady. "And," she added, "English people must be very dirty to need so very much washing."—John Strange in "The Hour of Leisure."

PROGRESS OF PAPER BOAT.

George W. Johnson of the Nonpareil Boat club, New York, who is making a 1200-mile trip from St. Augustine, Florida, to this city in a single scull row boat made entirely of newspapers, arrived in Annapolis June 16.

The boat is composed of newspapers published all over this country, from Maine to California, and from Alaska to the Bahamas. There are about 2 1/2 thicknesses of paper, the headlines having been clipped separately and placed along the outside.

The oarsman left St. Augustine on May 6 and expects to reach New York by July 1.
