BIG SUM

MRS. FRANK STROEBE

I was a nervous wreck. I felt no desire to live.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY, THANKS TO PE-RU-NA.

Mrs. Frank Stroebe, R. F. D. 1, Appleton, Wis., writes: "I began using Peruna a few months ago when my health and strength were all gone, and I was nothing but a nervous wreck, could not sleep, eat or rest properly, and felt no desire to live. Three bottles of Peruna made me look at life in a different light, as I began to regain my lost strength. While my recovery took nearly four months, at the end of that time I was better than I ever had been before. I had a splendid color and never weighed more in my life. "I certainly think Peruna is without a rival as a tonic and strength builder, and it has my endorsement." This lady entirely recovered from a nervous breakdown. She did not go away to a sanitarium, and spend hundreds of dollars for a cure. She just staid at home, took Peruna, and in four months weighed more than ever in her life, had a splendid color, life looked bright to her. Peruna did all this for her. What more could be expected of any remedy?

WOMEN

(Continued From Page 1.) being taken from the court to jail. The prisoners were placed in a big police van in the court yard. The women outside were waiting for it to appear and as soon as the gates were flung open, they charged. The army of furious women, half insane and wild from the effects of the sustained enthusiasm in their continued demonstrations, seized the horses and surrounded the van. Some of them climbed upon the wheels and tried to get up to the driver's seat, but they were mercilessly beaten back. The force of the female mob was so great that it was sweeping the van and horses out of the roadway and probably would have turned the wagon over, if the reserves had not arrived. One hundred police had been stationed within the court yard in anticipation of the attack. The blue coats rushed out and fell on the crowd of women using their clubs and their hands to force them back. The women offered resistance, but after many of their number had received rough treatment, they retired. It was the bloodiest encounter the London police have yet had with the suffragettes. Twenty-nine were arrested last night. When arraigned today they were given the option of signing bonds to keep the peace, ranging from $20 to $250, or going to prison for terms of from one to three months. All but one chose the prison sentences, preferring to play the role of the martyr. Five thousand extra police have been ordered to prepare to control tonight's demonstration, which is expected to exceed all previous displays. Mary Leith, a suffragette, when sentenced to prison for two months today on the charge of breaking windows in the house of Prime Minister Asquith, exclaimed in court: "I threw stones this time, but the next time it will be bombs." Her outcry caused a big demonstration in the courtroom and the judge threatened to increase her punishment. Several attendants seized her and she was dragged out, as she vowed vengeance. Great excitement prevails in the ranks of the suffragettes this evening and the authorities are using every possible means to restore order.

WOOD MAY REPLACE CEMENT SIDEWALK Washington, June 30.—There is a boom on now for wood pavements. Three-quarters of a century ago our ancestors tried wood street pavements, but were handicapped for some preservative treatment to prevent quick decay. Wood paving was therefore abandoned, and its revival nowadays is due to the fact that experiments with creosoted wood have proven the practicability of its general use. Among the advantages claimed for wooden pavements are greater smoothness, resiliency, ease of repair and more rapid cleaning. Through selection of suitable woods, cutting the blocks into rectangular shape so that their edges may lie close together, and treating them chemically to increase their durability, wood pavement is better in many respects than any other in common use. The cost of creosoted, or "preserved" wood, is greater than that of macadam, brick, or asphalt, but not so great as granite or sandstone. On the other hand, it exceeds any of the first group in wearing qualities. Wood paving costs from $2.40 to $3.50 per square yard. Cedar has been extensively laid in the middle west, and oak, cypress, white pine, and other conifers in various cities of the country. A pavement of Australian eucalyptus

SOUTHERN PACIFIC READY TO FIGHT INDICTMENTS

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, July 1.—The Southern Pacific company's attorneys are busy today preparing to fight two more indictments returned against the Harriman line by the federal grand jury, just before it was discharged for the year by United States Circuit Judge De Haven. The two additional indictments charge the company with having granted rebates to Miller & Lux on shipments of wool from California points to Boston, via Stockton, Cal. The officials of the shipping concern were not indicted because of the freedom with which they testified before the grand jury. The wool was relayed at Stockton and it was contended by the Southern Pacific that the rebate was granted on the first part of the shipment which was wholly within the state. Eight other firms that made shipments of wool on the same days mentioned in the indictments were required to pay a higher rate than Miller & Lux.
