

Valuable Information in Advertising Maps.

It has long been the custom of English railways to display in the stations and inside of the railway coaches a large and varied selection of pictures, usually photographs, showing the scenic attractions of their respective lines. So acceptable have these proved to the public, and to such an extent has it undoubtedly contributed to increased travel, that the Midland railway of England has recently introduced still another feature, designed to inform the traveler and to assist him in determining his routes.

Fixed in frames in the booking hall or passage where the ticket offices are located or in some equally convenient place, are large ordnance maps of the neighboring country, drawn to the scale of one inch to the mile. Each map is composed of one-inch ordnance sheets, the entire area covered being 24 miles from north to south and 36 miles from east to west, thus giving some 864 square miles of territory in detail. The maps are of the contour series, so that it is quite possible for intelligent travelers to locate the hills and dales on the route. In most cases there is a note on the map indicating the exact height above sea level (ordnance datum) of the railway tracks at the particular stations. These maps are attracting much attention, since they are not only visible to persons traveling by the railways, but are often of equal value to cyclists and even pedestrians. Cyclists, in particular, frequently get their data for a trip from these new advertising maps, often proceeding part of the way on their bicycles and continuing or returning by the railway trains.—Consular Report.

It Can't Be Beat.

The best of teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, and all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at J. C. Perry's drug store. 50c.

Motor Boating on French Streams.

"No words can describe the picturesque and ever-changing beauty of the entire route," says Henry C. Rowland in Appleton's for July, relating his experiences while crossing Europe by motor boat. "No road or by-path which we had ever seen in France could compare with the intimate charm of this winding waterway. It creeps through wooded valley, skirts the edges of wild, bracken-covered hills, where one may look for miles across the intervening country and see the mountains blue with distance. At times the canal will lead for the entire day through stately avenues of grand old trees whose interlacing foliage screens the heat of the mid-summer sun. Often, from some high slope, one may look down into a verdant valley where a broad river winds away through forest-covered hills, with here and there the Gothic towers of a stately chateau or the ruined ones of some mediaeval fortress thrust above the luscious foliage. There are such views to be had and others more pastoral of the valleys of the Marne and the Meuse and the Moselle. The latter two are crossed by the canal on high stone bridges similar to those built for a railroad. Also there are tunnels where the canal bores through the heart of hill and mountain.

"Most interesting of all are the quaint experiences which come to one during this sort of a journey. In our mechanical costumes of blue dungaree we were invariably accepted as three professionals engaged to transport the boat to the Rhine for some rich American. As a result we were received by the canal folk upon terms of friendly equality, and many a long and interesting chat we had with them."

Boy's Life Saved.

My little boy, four years old, had a severe attack of dysentery. We had physicians; both of them gave him up. We then gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy which cured him and believe that saved his life.—William H. Strolling, Carbon Hill, Ala. There is no doubt but this remedy saves the lives of many children each year. Give it with castor oil according to the plain printed directions and a cure is certain. For sale by Dr. Stone's drug store.

Model Home of Tomorrow.

A house of cement; a house without a chimney; a house with plenty of artificial light and heat and yet without a bit of fire; a house without coal; without ashes; without dangerous gases; such is to be the house of tomorrow.

This is indeed an ideal house, and it is not impossible to have, for, with little trouble, one has just been completed at Carrolton, Ill. While this wonderful home is the only one of its kind in the world, it is a good example of what the average American home will be in a few years from now.

Wood is fast becoming too scarce and too high in price to be used as common building material, and the time is already here, when, for economy's sake, architects and contractors are figuring to construct all buildings of steel and concrete. As the supply of coal diminishes the cost is advancing so that everything possible is being done to husband the supply and to see that none of the precious stored heat is wasted. Electricity, generated by water power, is even now taking the place of coal as a source of power and the time is not far distant when it will rank first as a source of heat.

This model 20th-century home at Carrolton is 34x39 feet, two stories high, with attic and basement, and has eight rooms on the two main floors. While Edison's idea of a concrete house to be poured into one big mold was not carried out in its construction, yet the principal building material was of concrete. The foundation and walls are of concrete blocks. These blocks were molded right on the ground as they were required, so there was not waste of material. The floors are of hardwood and the interior is finished in plaster and oak. Such a house requires but little wood in its construction. The style of architecture is of plain, substantial mission type, this idea being carried out throughout the interior. The house is fronted with a large porch, and the whole construction or, rather, the entire cost, was less than $350.—Frank N. Hauskett in Technical World Magazine.

The New Remedy That Does.

"Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mr. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa. "It is curing me of throat and lung trouble of long standing, that other treatments relieved only temporarily. New Discovery is doing me so much good that I feel confident its continued use for a reasonable length of time will restore me to perfect health." This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at J. C. Perry's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Marvels of the Lynno-scope.

The marvel of the Lynno-scope, the invention by means of which, it is claimed, any one can see round the world, were explained to an Express representative by the inventor.

All the old difficult problems of making people invisible, seeing through a brick wall and corresponding direct with friends in New York are solved if the Lynno-scope fulfills all its promises.

John Wellesley Lynn, the inventor, claims that he has proved by actual experiments that his instrument will—

- (1) Allow people in London to see any one in America instantaneously
- (2) Reflect any written message at once to the most distant places.
- (3) Enable any person to see right through any human being or solid substance as if they were not there.

He says Sir Thomas Lipton and other gentlemen have interested themselves in the invention and have written expressing themselves perfectly satisfied with the experiments. "I have been at work on this invention for nine years, and was working all the time on a preconceived scheme. A curious accident, however, helped me to the solution.

"I was working in my study with my apparatus, and, looking through, saw what appeared to be a hole in place of the floor. I found to my surprise that I could see right through the carpet and floor to a transmitter in the cellar.

"I have been awarded a diploma at the Inventions Exhibition for optical discoveries, and am willing to show what I can do before any committee of scientific experts."—London Express.

Building Laws in Manchester, England.

The by-laws of Manchester are a great advance upon those now in operation. In the judgment of the committee the new by-laws are an important and much-needed step forward. They will secure to the houses of the future more air space, wider streets, and an absence of long, monotonous rows. The main object is to prevent the spread of slums and promote the health and comfort of the people. In future no new street will be less than 14 yards wide, an increase of two yards on the minimum width. Main roads must be 50 feet wide instead of 35 feet, the present minimum. And, as far as possible, one street will be planned so as to fit in with other streets. The long rows of houses, all of one pattern, will not be sanctioned. No block of houses must contain more than ten nor cover a frontage of more than 100 yards. At the back of each cottage there must be an area of not less than 250 feet, an advance of 100 feet. No blind alleys will be allowed in the future, and all passages must lead to main streets. The committee also made provision for staircases in all houses to be fitted with hand rails. These are the main points of the new by-laws. They will not, however, affect the houses that have already been built, but in future all plans that come before the committee for sanction will have to conform to the new regulations.—Consular Report.

Poison Oak Poisoning.

Ballard's Snow Lintment cures it. Mr. O. H. P. Cornelius, Turner, Ore., writes:—My wife has discovered that Snow Lintment cures "Poison Oak Poisoning," a very painful trouble. She not only cured a case of it on herself, but on two of her friends who were poisoned by this same ivy. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by all dealers.

DO YOU WANT TO Make or Lose Money THIS SUMMER?

HERE is no good reason for any "summer dullness" in the stores of this city. That's a strong statement—but it's not nearly so strong as the one to follow.

No store in this city ever suffered from summer dullness that was not directly traceable to its advertising policy—that was not INEVITABLE on account of its advertising policy. This is a strong statement—but not so strong as the one to follow.

You—if you who read this are a merchant in this city—HAVE THE ABSOLUTE POWER TO DECIDE WHETHER, during THIS summer, YOUR STORE SHALL LAG AND LOSE GROUND, through ENCOURAGING THE NON-BUYING HABIT IN THE PEOPLE—or shall keep as busy as in the so-called "busy seasons." You decide the matter one way or the other when you decide on how much or how little you will advertise during these summer months.

To really "gain ground" at a time when some stores are lagging and falling back is not only possible—it is an aspiration worthy of an energetic merchant—worthy of a man who has the habit of accomplishing his purpose.
