

TURKS TO GET RIGHTS IN CONSTITUTION

SULTAN WILL GRANT DEMANDS OF REBELS—FEARS INTERVENTION OF RUSSIA AND FRANCE—NO GERMAN AID.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Constantinople, July 22.—Against the advice of his counsellors, Sultan Abdul Hamid today decided to grant a constitution to the people of Turkey. This is understood to be the only means of checking the Macedonian revolt which has spread until it has effected the whole northern portion of the Turkish empire. The sultan is said to fear the intervention of Russia and France which was decided upon yesterday in St. Petersburg.

It is reported that when the sultan's counsellors made objections to the granting of the constitution, Abdul Hamid replied:

"It will be easy to annul the constitution when order is restored."

Abdul Hamid held the consultation with his counsellors early today and it is reported that the session at the imperial palace was stormy.

The sultan's counsellors pointed out that Turkey is the only remaining despotism in northern Caucasus and that the sultan should put forth a strong effort to maintain this form of government and thus give moral support to the shah's fight in Persia.

Abdul Hamid is ill and peevish, and he is said to have flown into a rage and asserted Russia and France were planning to interfere in Macedonia. He said that he feared also England's attitude and did not want to risk a general war that would worry his old age and deplete his coffers.

A note from Germany, discouraging Turkey's overtures for an alliance with the kaiser is said to have been responsible for the decision of the sultan. It is said that Emperor William wants an alliance with the sultan but is afraid of an open treaty with the "bloody Turk." The sultan counted on Germany's aid to repel the advances of Russian Macedonia and the note caused him the keenest disappointment.

It is understood that the sultan issued orders today to his general, Djevat Bey, to cease his operations on the Turko-Persian border and to use all attempts to pacify the people.

Abdul Hamid is convinced that he has not long to live and wants to pass the remainder of his days in peace. He has announced his intention of appointing his third son Mohammed Burhan-Ed-Din successor to the throne although this is contrary to all precedent.

The sultan's rightful successors are his three brothers in order, according to the tenets of the Turkish custom, which dictates that the throne shall descend to the male descendants of the imperial harem of Othman, and the founder of the empire.

FATE OF ANUBIS UNKNOWN

MANY ARE ON BOARD

NOTHING HEARD FROM WRECKED STEAMER—SIXTY-THREE PASSENGERS STILL WITH THE BOAT—HELP IS ON WAY.
(United Press Leased Wire.)

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 22.—No word has been received from the scene of the wreck of the German line steamer Anubis, which at last accounts was pounding to pieces on the jagged reefs near San Miguel Islands. Of the fate of the sixty-three men who were left aboard of the freighter nothing definite is known. Up to the time the first and second mate of the Anubis left the wreck with nine members of the crew in a life boat, no lives had been lost, but the big steamer then was rapidly breaking up, her after-deck being awash and the waves that rolled over her hammering her hull upon the rocks.

The vessel at that time was in a most perilous position and the rising of the wind might cause her to disintegrate before the finish of heavy seas and render escape of the 19 passengers and the members of the crew difficult if not impossible.

Tugs from several ports along the coast are hurrying to the assistance of the doomed steamer and word is expected from the scene of the disaster before night.

Early this morning the launch Charm, with Captain Pillsbury, head of the marine underwriters of San Francisco, on board, left for the wreck from the oil port of Gavote. The tug Redondo, of the Redondo Railway Company, departed from Redondo last night and should be at the scene of the disabled steamer this morning.

It is thought possible that one or more of the coastwise steamers whose schedule would bring them in the vicinity of the wreck may be standing by to render aid to the Anubis. In this event those on board if rescued, would likely land at one of the Los Angeles ports or at San Francisco.

The reef where the Anubis struck bears a sinister reputation on this coast. Several ships have been wrecked there within the last three years, notably the schooner Coleman, lumber laden, which became a total loss on San Miguel three years ago.

Late Bulletin.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 22.—Sloop Ynez arrived in the harbor today from San Miguel island, where the Kosmos line steamer Anubis went on a reef early Monday morning, and reports the rescue of all hands on the stranded vessel. They left the wreck at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

CHARM OF MANNER.

(By Elbert Hubbard.)

Once in tramping along a country lane in England I stopped to admire some very wonderful roses that grew in clusters over the door of a little stone cottage.

As I stood there a woman came out of the cottage carrying a baby, and there were two other babies tugging at her dress. And this woman said to me in the sweetest and gentlest manner, "Would you mind if I should give you one of the roses?" and she clipped off one with her scissors and handed it to me.

The action of the woman was so gentle, generous and gracious that I was surprised, and when I tried to express my thanks I only stammered and said it was a fine day and looked like rain.

Then I bethought me I was in the land of tips and I felt in my pocket for silver. But the woman stopped me and said, "Oh, I would never take money for a rose—but you are an American and my brother lives in America and perhaps you will see him and tell him that you saw me and the children."

Then she gave me her name and her brother's name, but he lived in Illinois or Colorado, she could not say which—it was surely one of these.

I promised to hunt up her brother. Then we shook hands and I patted her three babies on the head and went away.

I've forgotten the woman's name and the name of her brother, but the incident of meeting her and the big red rose with the morning dew upon it I will never forget. Why? Because she had Charm of Manner, and that is the rarest and finest thing in the world.

To have Charm of Manner, you do not have to be rich, educated nor handsome—for certainly this woman I have just mentioned was neither. But she was just honest, gracious and considerate and so natural in her actions that she was impressive.

Once in Wanamaker's I wished to buy a cake of soap. The saleswoman showed me a kind at 15 cents a cake, that I rather liked. She told me the price and then said, "But here is a kind that we can sell two cakes for a quarter—you see it is a little larger cake, and while not certain, I believe you will like it better or just as well—I am sure you want the best."

"Give me four cakes of that last," I said, and slapped down a half dollar.

I really only wanted one cake of soap, because I had forgotten to put a cake in my valise, and I would be back home in two days, anyway, but that girl's Charm of Manner caught me. She was so gracious, so kindly and so interested in pleasing me and worked in such a delicate little compliment that, in some way, I felt as though she had taken her scissors and snipped off a big red rose, the dew still on it, and handed it to me.

Not all the people in Wanamaker's have Charm of Manner—this charm that is born of concentration and consideration.

To have Charm of Manner you must have both respect for yourself and for the other person. Had the Wanamaker girl been in the slightest degree bold, it would have dissipated her charm—she was simply natural, earnest, easy, smiling, kindly.

At another time in Wanamaker's I was waited on by a young man who was chewing gum and talking with a girl across the aisle about where he had been the night before, and how he had had such a lovely time. He looked it.

The secret of successful salesmanship lies in Charm of Manner. The person who has it is in possession of a key that will unlock all hearts—and pocketbooks.

If you have Charm of Manner, you can't keep it secret—you will have to ask for a "raise"—it will gravitate to you every little while.

Taking Up Track—

The rails of the electric car line from State street to the Southern Pacific depot are being taken up, and it is the intention to handle the travel to the station by way of the Yew Park line.
