Boost Sign Completed—
The big sign which was erected by the Salem Board of Trade east of the Southern Pacific depot advertising Salem, is now completed, and is a credit to the city in appearance as well as an advertising move. Salem Oregon's capitol is painted near the top of the sign, followed with "Cherry City of the World—Cherries, Prunes, Apples, Pears, Berries." At the bottom of the sign is, "Painted with Oregon Sienna Mineral Paint." At the south end of the sign on a black background is, "Stock, Grain, Hops, Gardens, Walnuts and Poultry." And on the other end is painted a cherry limb showing several large cherries on it. There is no object in front of the board to obstruct the view of passengers passing on the trains, and the lettering is large and easily read from the depot.

The company says in its letter to the commission that the overcharge was a mistake, and it voluntarily asks permission to remedy it.

PERSONAL MENTION

And Movements of Salem People.

W. M. Mahony of Fairfield is home from a flying trip to San Francisco.

Miss Mabel Broyles is stenographer at the L. H. McMahan law offices in the absence of Miss Marguerite Putnam, who is enjoying a vacation at Newport.

Breese Gibson has gone to Newport, and the winds will not blow away all the strawstacks in Polk county for awhile, but will lift the fogs that come in off the ocean once in awhile at Yaquina bay. He was on the land fraud jury at Portland that stood ten to two for conviction, but 30 hours hanging like a dog to a root brought the rest around. "I was among the Tiers," said Breese. "They were guilty all right but two of us wouldn't come over and let the rascals off. But they mustn't do it any more. I got $60.80 for serving on the case and I will stay at Newport as long as the money lasts, unless I run up against too many widows in trouble and then my money may not last. If there is a woman or girl in Polk county I have not treated right I want to know it, and I'll fix it up. My mother and sisters were that kind of women, and I include them all in my line of conduct. Treat every woman as if she were a princess of the royal blood and you'll make no mistake, boys."

Dr. W. H. Byrd and son are home from Cascade Springs, and report all the rest of the Salem colony there as being convalescent.

TO WAR ON THE TYPEWRITER TRUST

New York, Aug. 6.—Typewriter prices are expected to be cut 30 per cent in a war that has been started on the "trust" makers of the 100 standard machines, by Allan A. Ryan, with the support of his multi-millionaire father, Thomas F. Ryan. Ryan is president of a new typewriter company, and has put his machine on the market for $65.

Circulars issued by his company recite that the cost of making the average typewriter is about $28 or less, and that the price of $100 allows an enormous profit to the producer.

Ryan will gather to his aid the support of all the typewriter concerns not in the trust.

It is said that his father will back him heavily in the war to put down prices.

There will be a basket picnic at the Fair Grounds, Thursday, at 2 p. m. All the old soldiers and W. R. C. are invited.

UNIONS TO RALLY TO STRIKE

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 6.—It was announced at the headquarters of the striking machinists that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, organization of firemen and the Order of Railway Conductors are negotiating to aid the strikers, and it is hinted that they may strike in sympathy.

This announcement caused considerable comment, but it was not taken seriously at the office of the railroad. If the engineers and conductors should follow the machinists would mean a clean tie-up following on the system, and block transportation of crops.

It is evident that the strikers are receiving financial aid from the federated unions.

General Manager Bury declined to discuss the report that other unions were considering striking, intimating that the officials think the statement was given for effect.

It is reported that the railroad company will be assisted by roads which will lend rolling stock to take the place of cars rendered useless by the strike. This attitude on the part of other railroads, Bury said, is due to the disposition shown by Vice-President Whyte to prevent the strike if possible, even being willing to compromise.

So far no disturbances have been reported.

CANNIBAL REBELLION IS FEARED

Lisbon, Aug. 6.—The cannibal population of Portuguese Guinea is on the verge of another insurrection, according to news brought here today by a vessel from the southwest coast of Africa. The insurrectionists are demanding from the governor of the province an extensive grant of land in the interior, permission to keep their arms, exemption from the hut tax and free access to Bissao, the provincial capital.

Reports indicate that Bissao is now practically in a state of siege, as the maneaters have marshaled a threatening force outside the walls awaiting the governor's decision. It is feared the authorities finally will be forced to yield, although the governor has steadfastly stood out against the enraged natives for several weeks.

Should the natives take the town, pillaging and bloodshed would inevitably result. Every preparation has been made to resist the impending onslaught of the black hordes, but the situation is admitted to be serious.

Detailed reports of the rescue of European inhabitants of Bissao by the French cruiser Casnard are beginning to be brought in. The town had been sorely beset by the warring natives for many days, ammunition was running low, civilians, and even women, were fighting alongside the small garrison of 200 Portuguese soldiers. Just at this crisis the Casnard happened to stop at the port, and under her guns the natives were forced to fall back.

The natives have recovered from their fright at the guns of the warship, and are again surrounding the city.

President Falliers, of France, was to be in the church, but that is all, as the wedding of his daughter, he having been excommunicated for participating in the movement which separated the government and church.
