FIFTY THOUSAND JAPANESE IN MEXICO READY TO CROSS

(United Press Lensed Wire.)

Galveston, Texas, Aug. 8.—From eight Japanese captured while attempting to cross the border from Mexico, details of a great smuggling plot were learned today by the immigration agents.

The Japanese declare that there are now 50,000 of their countrymen in Mexico, and that most of them are awaiting an opportunity to enter this country. They say an organized band of smugglers is working on the border, running a tug from a point about 100 miles north of Tampico to a landing place below Corpus Christi, Texas. From 25 to 50 Japs are smuggled across the line each trip of the tug, it is alleged.

OREGON WOOLMEN WERE DUPED OUT OF $700,000

(United Press Lensed Wire.)

Pendleton, Or., Aug. 8.—Oregon wool men have been duped out of about $700,000 in wool sales this year, is now the belief of the leading sheep men of the county and the officials of the Oregon Wool Growers' Association.

While the wool clip of Unadilla Mills City, Mont., at from 16 to 18 cents, early in the spring, the quality of wool was recently sold at Mills City, Mont., at from 18 to 20 cents, this going from 4 to 5 cents more than the sales in this county and in other parts of Oregon.

On a total clip of 17,000,000 pounds in Oregon this year this loss to Oregon sheep men would mean about $700,000. It is believed that a combination of buyers and commission houses was formed to keep down the Oregon prices, as Oregon sales were among the first on the coast, and naturally set a pace.

CHINESE NOBLEMAN PRESERVED

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—After remaining in the preserving tank of an Oakland medical college for nearly a year, the body of Wong Hing, son of a high Chinese of Los Angeles, was discovered and brought to this city, where it is held in state by Consul-General Hsu Hsi, pending its return to China.

The young nobleman became involved in an uprising against the Dowager Empress, and was driven from China. He took refuge in this country, and for several years served as a domestic cook in this city. Not daring to reveal his identity for fear of spies, he became a charity patient, and died friendless in Oakland.

Recently the Wong family returned to favor with the imperial court of China, and permission was given the fugitive son to return. A year's search for Wong ended by finding his body among the cadavers awaiting dissection in the Oakland school of medicine.

BOY MURDERER WANTS JURY TRIAL

Portland, Or., Aug. 8.—Demand for a jury trial in the juvenile court for Jackson Reid, the 11-year-old youth, who shot and killed Gerry DeMar at Guik's Lake, was formally made to the circuit court this afternoon by C. M. Idleman, who appeared as attorney for the boy.

Provision is made in the juvenile court for a jury of six, but nothing is said about a special jury, nor is any provision made for drawing a jury in any other way than from the regular panel of the circuit court. From a reading of the law, however, it appears that, before the youth can be remanded to the circuit court for trial on a murder charge, or committed to the reform school, he must be adjudged delinquent by the juvenile court.

WHEAT IS HIGHER

Portland, Or., Aug. 8.—In the face of the slump in wheat on the Chicago exchanges, prices at the Portland wheat pit today reached the highest point of the year, with traders bidding in vain for September at 91 1/2 c. The market closed stronger than ever. The decline in Chicago was a cent and a quarter, but that affected the local market not a whit.

The condition of the market is accepted by local traders as a gratifying indication that Portland and the Northwest are entirely independent of the Eastern market, as far as fluctuations there are concerned.

PORTLAND WHEAT IS HIGHER

Portland, Or., Aug. 8.—For the first time since arriving in camp last Monday the men of the Oregon regiments were allowed to leave camp today. Individually, after being paid, they were given leave of absence good until tomorrow night at 10 o'clock.

Owing to a change in orders Colonel McDonnell and Colonel Moran were not placed in the position of extending generals, but instead each led a brigade maneuver in battle formation.

Parties of scouts and skirmishers were sent forward toward a point where an imaginary war was located. They were followed by the support and reserves until the limits of the grounds were reached, and here it was assumed that the enemy had been routed, and the troops returned to camp just in time for guard mount.

OFFICIAL FLIGHT IN DIRIGIBLE BALOON

Washington, Aug. 8.—Captain Thomas R. Baldwin announced this afternoon that he is ready to make the official test flight in his dirigible balloon before the special board of signal corps, who went to Fort Meyer to witness the flight. Baldwin's success yesterday led him to predict today that he will win the prize of $12,500, by making a speed of 24 miles an hour in the dirigible. Captain Baldwin expects to fly from Fort Meyer to Alexandria, where he will alight, and then make return flight. He expects to start late in the afternoon, when the atmospheric conditions are most favorable.

The government will buy the balloon, paying $8000 for it if it makes 16 miles an hour, under perfect control, including the price in accordance with the speed to the maximum of $12,500.

Harriman is on his way to Klamath Lake with his family for an outing.

"BAKER CITY" MAY BE PLAIN "BAKER"
(Baker City Herald.)
Shall "Baker" be the name of eastern Oregon's metropolis, without the "city" attached, or shall the old form or the name prevail? That is a question that is being agitated by several business men. Carl Adler, a man of wide experience, said to the Herald this morning: "I think the word city should be discarded. All over the country large municipalities have ceased to use it, and there is no reason why Baker should not do likewise. The word Baker is enough; it tells the story briefly and well; it has a pleasant ring, easy to say, and all who know the place will pronounce the one word with much pleasure."

Adler's opinion is shared by several who have said they are willing to start a campaign for a change of name. In the postal guide it will be noticed that all postoffices of the nation must be one word, according to departmental rulings. This means, however, that it is not necessary for cities to change their names to one word, but where a city has two words in its name the department writes it as one word. For instance, the name of this city appears in the postal guide written thus, "Baker-city."

UNKNOWN

He was about 40 years old, and was stealing a ride when the accident happened.

How It Happened.
The only eye-witness of the accident was T. Rhodes, who was standing near when the train passed. The hobo was standing on the top of a car, about midway between the rear of the train and the engine, and was walking forward when the train passed under the wire. The wire caught the man under the chin, hurling him backwards, and causing him to turn a complete somersault. He struck on the top of the car and rolled to the edge, then pitched forward to the ground beneath.

Paper found by Sheriff Minto on the person of the injured man indicate that his name was Craig. In his pocket was found a receipt from an employment agency of Vancouver, B. C., issued for employment as a circular sawyer with the Abotsford Lumber Company. The ticket was endorsed by M. Craig, the name on the back of the paper being spelled differently from the one in the body of the certificate. A lady's small silver watch was the only other article found in the man's clothing.

Reports from the Salem hospital received late this afternoon state that the man is still unconscious, but that there is a chance for his recovery. Notwithstanding the terrific force with which Craig was hurled from the train no bones were broken. Several ugly cuts and bruises disfigure the man's head, but the skull was not fractured. It is very probable that he is injured internally.
