P. W. Reynolds—

Adds a brand new fixture to his store. That Salem merchants are not only quick to take advantage of new and approved methods of doing business but are bound to warrant the confidence of their customers to the fullest extent is shown by the recent purchase of Mr. P. W. Reynolds. He has just received a brand new weighing machine which almost thinks for itself. It not only weighs, but computes the cost, showing the exact amount of the purchase in dollars and cents without any hand or mental operation whatever. You just place the commodity on the platform and the scale does the rest. Customers always like to see just what they are getting; and on this scale the amount is plainly indicated on the customer's side of the device. The subject of scales has occupied a great deal of the time and attention of city officials and city dealers in all parts of the country. Many scales have been found unreliable and condemned. The spring scales especially have been found to be inaccurate, for as we all know a spring will not "spring" the same after it has been used for some time. Springs are also affected by heat and cold, and scales that contain springs cannot be relied upon.

This scale is springless and cannot wear or change. It has been found to be absolutely accurate and is recommended by officials everywhere. This fixture will make a handsome furnishing for Mr. Reynolds' store and he is to be commended for his enterprise and for the open, above-board weighing which allows his customers to "see the wheels go around for themselves."

Rural Delivery Extensions.

Congressman W. C. Hawley has been notified by the postoffice department that an additional rural postoffice has been ordered established at Cauby, November 2, and that on the same date rural free delivery service will be established at Woodville, Jackson county, and Lorane, Lane county, with one carrier at each place.

Recommended the purchase of the Baldwin dirigible balloon for $5737.50.

QUESTION OF GRADE DEBATED

As a result of the long-drawn-out debate over the Broadway grade question at the council meeting last evening, it was decided to hold a special meeting tomorrow evening, at which Vice President Talbot, of the Oregon Electric company, will be present. The city and the company will at that time endeavor to get together and bring the petty rag-chewing that has been indulged in for the past several months, to a close. The matter of granting the new franchise to the Portland Railway, Light & Power company was referred to the committee on ordinances. It was the general opinion of the city fathers that the Twelfth street line would have to be re-established before the company could hope for favorable consideration at the hands of the council.

Council Low, Millard and Stockton were appointed a committee to confer with a like committee from the Board of Trade to devise ways and means for the entertainment of the visitors during the state fair.

The city engineer was instructed to draw and submit plans for a foot-bridge across North Mill creek on Commercial street.

The determination to thresh out the matter of the Broadway grade at a special meeting came after a long communication from Talbot had been read. If the city and the company are not able to settle the question by Broadway will be left to a board of arbitration, probably consisting of H. B. Thielson.

Robert M. Wood was found dead on his farm near Hillsboro last night. Foul play is suggested by a hole pierced into his heart by a sharpened stick found nearby.

A small part of the city of Marshfield water front has been home-steaded by C. L. Kidder. Several dwellings and stores are on the property.

When the doctor is called he asks: "How are the bowels?" They are generally wrong. His visit might have been saved by a timely dose of Lane's Family Medicine.

The Hood River university has begun work with a membership of 10, under the head of E. H. Shepard as president.

There is nothing else "just as good" as Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure, and the other kinds cost just as much as this famous remedy.

PIONEER OF 1851 DIES AT EUGENE

(Eugene Guard.) Henry Coleman, a pioneer of 1851, and for many years one of the leading men of the upper Willamette valley, died Friday morning at the home of Jesse Seals, on the donation claim that his father took up when he and his family crossed the plains. At the time of his death he was nearly 84 years old, having been born in Bunker county, Pennsylvania, on August 31, 1824. The cause of death was old age. He was never married.

He was the son of Nathan Coleman, who settled near Lorane in 1851 and raised a family, many members of which have once held important places in the development of the state. One of his sisters was the mother of J. N. Teal, a leading man of affairs in Portland, and several brothers were prominent in this county, including Inaley who now survives the deceased. He himself made several fortunes during his life time. At all times he was equally generous with his property toward helping the needy, being one of the most philanthropic men in this section.

Interment will be made at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Lorane.

Selling Municipal Bonds at Retail

The city of London, Ont., Canada, has recently sold bonds "over the counter" at the suggestion of Mayor Stevely and is well pleased with the experiment. In referring to this the mayor states: "When the money stringency was most acute and it was difficult to secure the necessary advances from the banks, I conceived the idea of a popular loan whereby the citizens might reap the benefit in the way of increased interest on their money. I found, however, that we had not the power to ask for subscriptions, but got over the difficulty in this way: We had $100,000 of local debentures to dispose of. Instead of disposing of them on bloc to brokers, we called for tenders in amounts of $100 and upward. As a result the issue was oversubscribed about three times and the entire amount taken up by our own citizens only one tender being received for an amount less than $1000. The debentures bear 5 per cent interest, and run from one to ten years. The tenders were all at par, or above that figure."

This method of selling bonds is somewhat more expensive and troublesome to the city than disposing of the entire issue to one or two brokers, but this and similar experiments appear to have demonstrated that the people are glad to obtain them directly and thus save either to themselves or to the city the profit which the brokers invariably make in purchasing wholesale and afterward retailing to probably the same purchasers who, when permitted, would buy them directly from the city.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

HOLLAND SENDING WARSHIPS

(United Press Leased Wire) The Hague, Aug. 18.—As a result of the plan to awe President Castro into submission without an actual declaration of war, the Dutch admiralty and Utrecht were ordered to prepare for speedy dispatch of the fleet to the Caribbean.

They are expected to arrive in Curacao October 25 when the Dutch will have five formidable ships in the Caribbean waters.

The decision to send the fleet was the result of a stormy session of the Dutch ministry of the navy and other officials. It has been decided to awe Castro by a display of naval strength.

The officials believe that the Dutch cruisers have been ordered to go prepared for war and will be to fight if it is found to be necessary.
