Educate Your Daughter at
St. Marys Academy and College

PORTLAND, OREGON

Students attending St. Mary's Academy and College, besides enjoying the refined and wholesome atmosphere of an ideal home are assured of the advantages of life in a metropolitan city.

Ready access is had to the Public Library of 70,000 volumes, to the Gallery of Art and to the City Museum with its extensive geological and zoological collections.

Dramatists, musicians and singers of international reputation are heard. Such artists as Schumann-Helink, Nordica and Nelson give special audiences to the sisters and students.

Lecturers of note, both local and eastern, supplement the class work in Literature, Art, Philosophy, History, Science and Economics.

Not only, therefore, is the regular school work kept at the highest point of efficiency, but those additional advantages are given which a broad and liberal culture require.

The institution has two distinct departments, the High School and Collegiate, each equipped for thorough work. The State Board of Education recognized St. Mary's as an accredited school in 1893. Both day and resident students are received. 537 registered last year. The fiftieth year opens in September. NO INTERFERENCE IN MATTERS OF RELIGION. A handsome booklet giving full information will be sent free on application. Address
