INDIANS CANNOT BE UNITED STATES CITIZENS

(Dallas Chronicle.)

Justices of the circuit court in a decision comprising Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana have instructed not to receive declarations of intention to become citizens nor petitions for naturalization from Hindoos.

When Hindoos have taken out their first papers, declaring their intention of becoming citizens, from Clerk Angle during the last few months. None have received their second papers, and under the ruling they will never be able to secure their full credentials, at least in the foregoing named states.

The following is the communication received by Mr. Angle from the assistant United States attorney in naturalization matters at Portland, Ore., dated August 15, 1908: "I, F. R. Angle, clerk of the circuit court, The Dalles, Oregon,

Dear Sir: This office is in receipt of a letter from the chief, division of naturalization, Department of Commerce and Labor, requesting this office to instruct clerks of court within the territory comprising the states of Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Washington, not to receive declarations of intention to become citizens nor petitions for naturalization from Hindoo. You are hereby requested to comply with such request, respectfully,

(Signed, Andrew J. Ballet.)

Until recently many Hindoos have been seen in the city. These foreigners worked during the summer clearing land in this vicinity and spent much of their time in town.

Many people noticed their peculiar manners. While all of the Hindoos wore turbans for a head dress, one of the foreigners, who were seen here, wore a white turban, the others wearing black or dark ones. Whenever any of the Hindoos of the black head dress were walking along the streets with their countrymen wearing a white turban, the former always walked a few feet behind the white-topped Hindoo. Whenever he would stop, they would do likewise, never going to his side or ahead of him. It is thought that the white colored turban was indicative of rank, its wearer being held in the highest respect by those of the black turbans and that the others had to walk behind the white turbaned Hindoo out of respect.

In viewing the records at the county clerk's office, another peculiar thing is noticed, regarding the Hindoos. The naturalization books at that office show that the surnames of the 15 Hindoos, who took out their first papers, are the same, being "Singh," "Bhoia Singh," "Esor Singh" and "Son Singh," etc. The foreigners could not speak sufficient English to explain the reason why their last names are all the same, though they stated that they were related in no way.

SOUTHERN OREGON PIONEERS GATHER

(Medford Tribune.)

The 32d annual reunion of the pioneers of southern Oregon is being held at Jacksonville today. A large number gathered early this morning. A most enjoyable day was spent.

The president of the Pioneer association is Mrs. Elizabeth Kenney, a pioneer of Jacksonville of 1852, and a daughter of the late W. T. T. Vault, who founded the first paper in Oregon and on the Pacific coast, the Oregon Spectator, in the '40s. He also founded the Table Rock Sentinel at Jacksonville and the first paper published in southern Oregon. The secretary of the association is Judge Silas J. Day, a pioneer of Jacksonville of 1852.

The address of welcome was made by Dr. W. Robinson, mayor of Jacksonville, and the annual address by Attorney C. L. Reames, a native son of Jacksonville. Biographical sketches of the lives of Mrs. Minnie A. Niel, Mrs. Rebecca McDonough, Mrs. Hulda Colver, Samuel R. Taylor, Frederick Barneburg and William Taylor were read.

The pioneers were the guests of Jane Mason McCully cabin of Native Daughters and Sons, of which Miss Amelia Britt is president.

Farming in India.

Agricultural practice in southern India from strat to finish requires religious rites. In the Tamil districts the agricultural year commences about April. On April 23d the cultivators of a village consult a "Valluvan," who fixes for them the kind of wood that they should cut and take away. He is supposed to settle the question as the result of astrological observations made on the commencement of the Tamil New Year's day, which falls about April 13th. Each cultivator then takes a little camphor, some incense, a few plaintains and coconut, and, with others assembled for the purpose, he proceeds to the forest, where he works the tree he is about to cut by burning the incense and the camphor and offering the plaintains and the coconut. Then he tops of the first branch on the right side. In each year the side is different. Prosperity to himself and his cattle is firmly believed to depend very much upon this. He then cuts away the required quantity of wood and takes it home.

Another day is then selected, soon after the early rains of the same month, by the "Valluvan," and then the greatest event of the agricultural year occurs. Each ryot takes the wood he has selected for the plow, which is newly fitted up and taken to the field, where the bullocks are tied to it, and behind it stand other plows with teams of oxen tied to them, while large crowds assemble around the teams.

The principal plowman then daubs the pair of oxen tied to the new plow with aniline powder and turmeric paste; he lights camphor and burns incense before it, breaks a coconut, and with it makes an offering of a pot of jaggedy water and parched grain and Bengal gram. Then he drives the plow across the field, preceded by the other plowmen and after a few rounds the oxen are unyoked and the offerings distributed to those present.—Madras Mail.
