MAY NOT PICK HOPS IN WASHINGTON

In the state of Washington where beer is still manufactured in over 100 breweries, it is doubtful if the hop crop is gathered this year. In the Yakima valley where several thousand acres of hops are cultivated, farmers are seriously considering the matter of allowing the crop to remain on the vines.

If this condition prevailed in prohibition territory the brewers would have many reasons to give for the unprofitableness of the crop, but as Washington is a wet state no reasons have been assigned. The Yakima Republic says of the matter:

Hop growers of the Yakima valley have to determine within the next week or 10 days whether they will pick this season's crop. The outlook at present is a poor one all along the line and the hop industry, which in the past has been a big thing for Yakima, is at present enjoying dreary prospects.

Instead of 3200 acres being under cultivation in this valley this year as was the case last year, there are 1800 acres which have been brought to the picking point. This means that the community has lots the benefit of the money which would other wise have been expended in cultivation, or at least a portion of it. Some of it has been expended in other channels.

No Inducement to Harvest.

The 1600 acres cultivated having brought their crop about up to the picking stage, and by the way, the crop is said to be generally excellent and at least an average, if not better, there is now no inducement to harvest. The best price offered here, which is the only offer, the grower will not more than get his money back. The sentiment is all knocked out of the owners of hop yards.

Nothing more will be done along that line and there will be no harvesting of the crop because of recollections of what has been produced in the way of a return in the past. Last year took the crimp out of most of the bunch and this year has ended the treatment.

Lower Prices for Picking.

Prices paid for picking this year will not be what they have been in other seasons. Last year the price was $1 a box, and a box was presumed to weigh about 85 pounds of hops. This year the price will be 75 cents a box and each box will contain 100 pounds of hops before the ticket is issued.

There will be no picking in a great many yards unless something unusual happens between this and about September 10. There is no money available for the purpose. The banks have got beyond the point where they will advance it, which is in marked contrast with their attitude in times past. The growers for the most part have not the ready money to put to the purpose and the dealers are the last resort.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should Be Answered Easily by Salem People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

W. J. Carlton, of 1446 Third St., Salem, Or., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Dr. Stone's drug store, not only strengthened my kidneys, but they speedily removed the backache and lameness, a remedy that acts with such prompt and beneficial results as Doan's Kidney Pills is worthy of all confidence. I can conscientiously recommend them to others for I know I never had any medicine of the kind equal to them for curing backache and kidney trouble."

ELBERT HUBBARD ON STEAMBOATING

A big business is a steamship bound for a port called Success. It takes a large force of men to operate this boat. Eternal vigilance is not only the price of liberty, but it is the price of every other good thing, including steamboating.

To keep this steamship moving, the captain requires the assistance of hundreds of people who have a singleness of aim—one purpose—a desire to do the right thing and the best thing in order that the ship shall move steadily, surely and safely on her course.

Curiously enough, there are men constantly falling overboard. These folks who fall overboard are always cautioned to keep away from dangerous places, still there are those who delight in taking risks. These individuals who fall off, and cling to floating spars, or are picked up by passing craft, usually declare that they were "discharged." They say the captain or the mate or their comrades had it in for them.

I am inclined to think that no man was ever "discharged" from a successful concern—he discharges himself.

When a man quits his work, say, oiling the engine or schubbing the deck, and leans over the side calling to outsiders what a bum boat he is aboard of, how bad the food is and what a fool there is for a captain, he gradually loosens his hold until he falls in to the yeasty deep. There is no one to blame but himself, yet probably you will have hard work to make him understand this little point.

When a man is told to do a certain thing and there leaps to his lips or even to his heart, the formula, "I wasn't hired to do that," he is standing upon a greased plank that inclines toward the sea. When the plank is tilted at a proper angle, he goes to Davy Jones' locker, and nobody tilts the fatal plank but the man himself. And the way the plank is tilted is this: the man takes more interest in passing craft and what is going on on land, than in doing his work on board ship.

So I repeat: no man employed by a successful concern was ever discharged. Those who fall overboard, get on the greased plank and then give it a tilt to starboard.

If you are on a greased plank, you better get off from it, and quickly, too.

Loyalty is the thing!

The Lincoln-Douglas Semi-Centennial.

In broad outline the consequences of the Illinois senatorial struggle of 1858 may be set forth thus: That contest helped to swing the Republican party center of gravity from New England and the old middle states over into the Mississippi valley, started Lincoln on the road toward the presidential nomination, split the Democratic party in the Charleston convention of 1860, putting a southern and a northern ticket in the field, with Breckinridge at the head of one and Douglas at the head of the other, and thus rendered certain that Republican success in that year which would have been probable even if the Democratic party had remained united. The Republican victory brought secession, civil war, the abolition of slavery, an indestructible union of indestructible states, an emancipated and progressive south and a new and greater nation.

The people of the seven cities of Illinois in which Lincoln and Douglas had their memorable tournament of half a century ago, and the Illinois State Historical society, which suggested the celebration and which has been active in an advisory capactiy in promoting it and in bringing it to the country's attention, deserve praise for giving the observance of the anniversary of this epoch-making event an adequate historical setting. This celebration will serve to remind the country of the Lincoln birthday centennial, which will come on February 12, 1909, in which the entire country should participate.—Dr. C. M. Havrey in Leslie's Weekly.

A Sure-enough Knocker.

J. C. Goodwin, of Reidsville, N. C., says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve is a sure-enough knocker for ulcers. A bad one came on my leg last summer, but that wonderful salve knocked it out in a few rounds. Not even a scar remained." Guaranteed for piles, sores, burns, etc. 25c at J. C. Perry's drug store.

REPORT FABULOUS GOLD MINES NEAR BURNS

(Harney County News.)

For several months there have been mysterious whisperings of rich ore findings on Gold Gulch, in the Idle City district about 16 miles northeast of Burns, where there was at one time in the past a prosperous mining camp, and it has been hinted that important developments would soon materialize there.

The discovery of the main ledge was made while placer mining in Gold Gulch. A large amount of "float" rock was found, which set the prospectors to investigating and at one point a pile of rock was discovered that had fallen over into the gulch. Upon cleaning this up and sinking a hole to bed-rock, the ledge was revealed, first about 18 inches in thickness, but with deeper tunneling it broadened out to four feet. In going below the bed of the creek water was encountered, which they are not at present able to control until proper machinery is obtained and drainage is established lower down the gulch.

The ledge, however, extends into the mountain on either side of the creek and a tunnel which has been excavated reveals a breast of rich rock which is ever widening and apparently without end.

Several assays of the different kinds of rock have been obtained, the highest showing over $4200 to the ton and then running down to lower values. Mr. C. F. McKinney brought some samples of the rock to town recently, picked up and broken by hand from the breast of the tunnel and every particle of it is pronounced the most promising by those who are familiar with mining appearances. It is rich in gold and silver and easily mined.

The present work is being done by O. J. Darst, who has been prospecting there for several years and he has full faith that he has a fortune in sight. The mine is located about a mile and a half from the McKinney sawmill and a wagon road goes within half a mile of it. Mr. Darst has sacked some of the ore and sent it to Boise for accurate estimates. It is his intention, as soon as he is sure of his ground, to proceed with development work as fast as possible and the reader need not be surprised to see in the near future a prosperous mining camp of 100 men turning out valuable ore right in the door-yard of Burns.
