FAMOUS COMEDIANS IN SALEM

KOLB AND DILL AT THE GRAND "NIP" CED

Although Kolb and Dill are "east-erners"—that is, east to Californians, as they were born in Cleveland, Ohio, they had to come west to make their reputation. They made their first real hit in San Francisco by the wonderful manner in which they staged the Weber and Field plays.

When they started upon their theatrical careers they had no money to speak of—a measly four dollar, while their only other asset were make-up and a cheap trunk. But they had what proved to be even better than money—nerve and plenty of it. By persistent effort they gradually climbed the ladder rung by rung until they eventually reached the top and today they are considered to be the greatest German dialect comedians on the American stage. Now they have an elegant sufficiency of the yellow stuff which keeps the wolf away from the door; a big reputation both for ability and living up to their promises; as well as an extra bunch of nerve, gained through constant and growing success.

PIONEERS WHO WERE HERE OVER FIFTY YEARS Geo. S. Downing, of this city, was in a reminiscent mood yesterday. He remembered that he arrived in Marion county, Oregon, 55 years ago yesterday, and has lived here ever since. That is a good while. Everybody in Oregon knew everybody else in Oregon in those early days. It is not so now. There are too many new folks. Mr. Downing looks like he is good for 55 years more in Oregon.—Salem Statesman.

WRECK VICTIMS NUMBER TWENTY

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Butte, Mont., Sept. 26.—The death of Samuel Slonowits, a prominent citizen of Billings, Mont., today brings the number of wreck dead in the Northern Pacific wreck of yesterday at Young's Point up to 20.

Of the 15 who were seriously hurt it is believed today that three cannot recover. They are: F. Dyer, of Mt. Carmel, Ill.; Susan E. Cordia, of Flathead Mission, Mont.

Benjamin S. Westbury, who a address is unknown.

The body of Charles E. Johnson, of Denver, district passenger agent of the Northern Pacific line, was taken from the wreck yesterday in such a crushed condition that it bore no resemblance of a human form.

Col. H. Hudson, a prominent resident of Utah, had been talking to a friend in the dining car and left him just before the collision. Hudson had just entered the smoker when the crash came, and was killed instantly.

Mrs. Robert Anderson, of Harding, Mont., who was compelled to ride in the smoker on account of the train being crowded, had just left her husband, having gone out of the smoker to wash her face and hands before eating breakfast. A minute after she had gone the crash came and her husband was ground to small bits.

The miraculous escape of Frank T. Silvers, of Seattle, was one of the most remarkable features of the wreck. He was sitting in a double seat with three other men. The other three were killed instantly, but Silvers escaped with only a slight abrasion. The wreckage was piled up all around him, but when he was dug out he was found to be almost entirely unharmed.

The investigation thus far seems to place the blame for the wreck on the crew of the freight engine, who, it appears, must have tried to "shoot time" on the passenger, by making the siding at Young's Point, six miles ahead of the meeting place designated in the orders. The freight was just reaching the siding when the crew heard the whistle of the limited which was approaching at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

The brakeman who rushed forward with the signal for the approaching train was not seen in the blinding snow storm, although he hurried the flag against the window of the cab of the passenger engine.

Dundleton is in the throes of a terror; the restricted district has been removed from the center of town.

they soon made the theatrical world sit up and take notice and it was not long before their work was favorably compared with the famous New York dialects. Today they are deemed even better than were the old-time favorites of the "long" and "short" idea of German comedy to their prime. "Fiddle Dee Dee," "Ho'ly Toity," "In Paris," "Pou' Cafe," "Barbara Fidgety," "I. O. U." are a few of their big hits, but "Lonesome Town" the play in which they are now touring the country, and which created such a furore in New York, where it played an engagement extending over a period of 100 days at the Circle theater, is their biggest success, from an artistic as well as a financial standpoint.

Kolb & Dill have an international reputation as fun-makers as their trip to Australia with "Fiddle Dee Dee" gained for them the admiration and respect of the Antipodeans. Their invasion of the island possession of King Edward was a huge success but as they are able to play to capacity audiences in America, they are content to amuse the playgoers of this country during the next few years.

It is their intention to make a semi-annual tour of the country, introducing new and up-to-date plays, which will be staged in the most approved fashion and presented with an all-star cast. At the Grand opera house Monday night, September 28.

One negro has already been indicted by the grand jury at Pendleton for violating the prohibition laws, and many other indictments are expected.
