

We Did Not Close to Mark Up Goods

Beginning Today We Will Conduct the

Greatest $39,000

CLOTHING SALE

Not Because We Are Broke Not Because We Need Money

BUT TO PROTECT OUR CUSTOMERS

Against itinerant sale-people who drift about the country inveigling honest merchants into a proposition to conduct a fake sale, and give them 20 per cent of the proceeds.

We will be our own brokers and give you the 20 per cent.

We have been solicited by such brokers for the last five years. They claim that they can get more for the goods than we can. That the unsuspecting public will buy during the excitement, and when they discover they have been duped just blame the brokerage company, who by that time are GONE to search for another merchant who can't run his own business.

You Have Seen It Done Right Here In Salem Don't Let It Happen Again

We will give you all we promise, and at the same time assure you that we do it willingly. To lose a few days' profits in the interest of our customers and Salem in general will be a worthy sacrifice. Depend on us, believe us, we live with and are your neighbors, and cannot afford to let you go elsewhere when you have been our faithful customers.

Today! Today!

We did not close to mark the goods up. The same tags, marked in plain figures, will be used, but the prices will be shamefully slashed.

ROOSEVELT

They scoff at the idea that the people would look on this as an attempt on the part of the government to dictate to the people, and point out that Roosevelt has never faced an audience that he did not conquer.

"SPECIAL" MAY BE ABANDONED

New York, Sept. 30.—In an effort to keep the "Rep Special," with E. A. Tamm, on the track, members of the Roosevelt party here are making a determined effort today to renege the campaign funds of the special party.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEEMAN EXPLAINS POSITION

Sept. 30.—Charles N. Anderson, national committeeman from Missouri, today issued a statement, replying to charges that he was an employe of the Standard Oil Company, as an attorney, in part as follows:

"I answer questions as to whether I received instructions from the Standard Oil Company. I want to know who gave me the instructions. I accepted employment with the Standard because I hold certain economic views, and I do not believe that my connection with the Standard will interfere with the progress of the Republican campaign in Missouri. If I am to be the victim of attacks by certain persons, I will retaliate. I know their recourses, and they know mine, and I will retaliate."

COMMERCE

ette valley in Oregon to San Francisco.

The Southern Pacific attorneys were given until tomorrow to attack the rate on other grounds.

The decision is the first of the kind that has been handed down since the passage of the rate law bill, and the victory won by Luther M. Walter, the special attorney for the Interstate Commerce Commission today means that the railroad company cannot attack the new rate on Oregon lumber shipments on any legal grounds.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's demurrer and the testimony given by the railroad attorneys at the hearing of the demurrer has shut off any legal attack on the fixing of the rate, unless the railroad desires to appeal to the supreme court of the United States. Meanwhile the injunction has been issued, and the low lumber rate will be in effect.

The decision today was the demurrer interposed by Special Attorney Walter, for the Interstate Commerce Commission, U. S. District Attorney Robert Devlin and Joseph N. Teal, attorney for the Western Oregon Lumber Manufacturers' Association to the suit for injunction filed by the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company. The railroad company, through its own attorney, W. W. Cotton, of Portland, and through Peter F. Dunne, attorney for the Southern Pacific, asked the court to restrain the enforcement of the low lumber rate, on the ground that the commission had no authority to make the rate.

The commission's attorney demurred on the ground that the complaint did not state sufficient cause for action, and the whole case was thrown upon the decision in the demurrer proceedings.

The decision of the court virtually decides that the federal courts of the United States cannot be burdened with rate making.

The railroad attorneys admitted during the course of the argument on the demurrer that the commission had proceeded in the way laid down by law, when the new rate on lumber was made, and the attorneys for the commission held that this admission shut off any inquiry into the method of the commission.

The decision of the court today favors the smaller lumber men of Oregon in their fight against a rate of $5.10 on lumber from Willamette river points to San Francisco bay points. The O. R. & N. now must continue, at least for the present, the rate of $3.40.

INOCULATE

the foremost scientists in the world.

The object of the daring experiment, which has aroused considerable comment, is to determine the value of a new method of diagnosis advanced by Dr. Detre. A committee of six of the most distinguished delegates has been appointed to pass on the result of the experiment to-night.

According to the experts, the experiment will determine whether the original infection in the children was from bovine or human bacilli, and will demonstrate all the biological properties of the tuberculous organism, that will enable physicians to determine in the future at once whether the infection in a patient is from human or bovine sources.

The physicians here declare that the experiment is not inhuman, because the children were already infected with the disease.

Dr. Detre today said: "My method consists in the inoculation of the patient's arm at three points at the same time: first with Koch's tuberculin, second with a filtrate of broth culture of human bacillus and third with a filtrate of broth culture of bovine tuberculous. Within 24 hours or a little more, the result of the three methods may be noticed. It can be read instantly whether the bacilli caused a reaction in the patient's blood; whether the new infection awakened a dormant infection in the patient, or is a recent contraction. It can also be shown whether the human organism can resist such an attack; in short all the biological properties of the infected organism will be demonstrated."

Seven hours after the inoculation of the children, Dr. Burke, the physician at the hospital, said that already some of the effects of the three tests could be discerned. "In the case of one of the children the puncture where the bovine tuberculin was injected showed slight traces of inflammation," said Dr. Burke.

Inhuman Practice.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—Declaring that the experiments being conducted by Dr. Detre at the Children's Hospital, at Washington, are unnecessary, Dr. Adolph Gerbman, bacteriological expert, today branded the inoculation of the little children with tuberculous bacilli as inhuman and unjust. He denounced as cruel experimenting with little children, who are unable to know or understand what is being done.

United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas, characterizes as absurd the rumor that he would resign.
