FAIR PLAY

that can claim credit for a great deal of growth of the trans-Mississippi region. A pioneer in this region, Utah has been a leader in all movements for its development. One of the most important to be is for and growth of this splendid organization, the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress.

"I accepted with pleasure the invitation of your president, Honorable J. B. Case, to address the congress on the subject of the conservation of resources, because I had seen the vast importance of the policy of preserving the natural wealth of the country for the benefit of our children. I feel that there is little use for me or any other man to defend or justify this policy of the government before this representative body of foremost citizens of the trans-Mississippi regions. Opposition based on a lack of understanding or on short sighted selfishness; and I can not attribute either of these to the ladies and gentlemen I see before me today.

"Opposition based on these two principles usually descends to calling names, applying epithets, or attacking with ridicule or misrepresentation the measures proposed and the men advocating them. It is therefore not at all surprising that most of the opposition to President Roosevelt's policies looking to the conservation of the great national resources of the country, has been of the sort referred to. Such epithets as 'autocracy,' 'tyranny,' 'grandstand play,' 'King Lear policy,' 'insincerity' and many others equally final and convincing, have been used over time, in season and out of season, by the opponents of this policy.

"And yet there has been no good argument against it, unless you can apply the term to the statement that we have these resources, and if we choose to exhaust them have right to do so, leaving our children and our children's children to shift for themselves. But this is but an act of selfishness and tyranny, for it is equal to the claim that the power to do a wrong thing justifies the doing of it. With such a doctrine I cannot agree; nor do I think any of you can entertain it.

"As to the 'King Lear policy,' I will merely pause long enough to say that King Lear gave his kingdom to his daughters while he was still competent to administer. He ought to have retained it until he became incapacitated, and then given it to his children. We are to use with economy and prudence and judgment the wonderful resources we possess. But we are to give the resources, not only unimpaired and undiminished, but increased and improved, to our children, to be so transmitted to coming generations: If inducing us to do this is tyranny, let its opponents make the most of it. Anything less is downright injustice to unborn generations, and an acknowledgment that we are not the advanced and intelligent people we claim to be."

Governor Cutler then detailed the work being done in Utah both in conserving the forests and irrigating the arid districts.

STEWART WILL SHOW HE WAS NOT DISQUALIFIED

(United Press Lensed Wire.)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—Colonel William F. Stewart today said that on Thursday he will present to the members of the army retiring board testimony to show that he was at no time detached from active service in the Nez Percés Indian campaign because of heart trouble. Opponents of Colonel Stewart declare that in 1875 he was disqualified from participation in the campaign, and that it is on the records of the department. Colonel Stewart will answer by declaring that there can be no such record. Colonel Stewart wears a medal given him by the department in token of his services at the battle of Cold Water, Idaho, for which he was breveted captain. The general opinion here is that the verdict of the board will be against the war department.

SUPREME JUDGE SAYS PUBLICITY IS BEST PREVENTER OF CRIME

(United Press Lensed Wire.)
New York, Oct. 6.—Parties to divorce suits are not anxious today to have their cases set for hearing before Justice Aspinall, of the Brooklyn supreme bench. Justice Aspinall yesterday refused to seal the papers in the divorce of E. Bartol Hall, Jr., a wealthy man, and his wife. The sealing of the papers was asked for on the ground that, while the respondent, Rev. Benjamin Denham, former pastor of the Church of the Disciples of Christ, of this city, had eloped with Mrs. Hall, "he had a good reputation otherwise."
"I am not in favor of sealing papers in these suits," said Justice Aspinall, "I am in favor of full publicity in all court proceedings. It is an outrage that millionaires can have their divorce papers sealed from public view while people of small means cannot."

The attorney begged for the judge to seal the papers, saying that the Rev. Dr. Denham is still preaching in Miami and might be held up to disgrace in the glowing newspapers, if the case became known.
"I hope," said the court, "that the preacher will get all the disgrace and publicity that is coming to him. New papers do not get over a case of this kind. It is a pity for newspapers to advocate the disgrace. The fear of being written up in newspapers is more potent in the prevention of crime than the fear of the court. I shall seal no papers while I am sitting on the bench."

MCGILCHRIST DIDN'T KNOW TURKEY FROM PHEASANT

The first real joke of the hunting season occurred last Sunday when Will McGillchrist, the popular restaurant man, Henry Wiprut and several other friends, sallied forth with gun and pup in quest of the elusive Mongolian chicken. The party began their search for game on the McLaughlin farm near Independence, going in different directions in twos and threes, and McGillchrist and Wiprut taking to the fields together with the intention of getting the limit. The party returned to the house after several hours had been spent in the fields and the results of the hunt were laid upon the porch. Among a few birds of different description which had been handed out, McGillchrist and Wiprut dug down in the interior of their hunting refrigerator and brought out what they supposed to be a magnificent china bird, but their mistake was soon made known by the ranch owner who was there at the show turn, and the would-be pheasant turned out to be one of Mr. McLaughlin's fine young turkeys which had tried to make himself safe from the guns of the two mighty men.

PARALYZED AND BLIND BY OVERDOSE OF QUININE

Portland, Or., Oct. 6.—Strickland, blind by a dose of 21 grains of quinine and a pint of whiskey that he taken to cure a cold, L. C. Black, years old, has applied to the city hospital for treatment. Black's sight is practically destroyed, the Assistant County Physician McManack says there is a chance that may be cured.
Black was a saw filer and a deputy game warden near Forest Grove. About a month ago he contracted severe cold, and, on the recommendation of a friend, took a dose of grains of quinine and a pint of whiskey. The supposition is that the dose affected the optic nerves, and paralyzed them that Black is almost totally blind.
