1200 DOLLARS AN ACRE

Apples bring $2400 per acre. Douglas county orchard bears a record crop.

Located at Winston's, on the South Umpqua river, six miles south of Roseburg. Reports have come to us frequently of late of a remarkable crop of Spitzenberg apples grown by Jas. B. Smith this season at his fruit farm a few miles south of this city. These reports were fully verified this morning by Mr. Smith, who was in this city. He is now picking his apples, and from a measured quarter of an acre of ground will pick over 300 boxes of choice marketable Spitzenberg apples. In fact the fruit is of such excellent size and fine color that he has been offered $2 to $2.50 per box for it at the orchard, this being a return of $2400 per acre for this one crop.

So far as we have ever heard this is a new record in the fruit business, far outclassing Hood River, Rogue River or anywhere else, so far as we have ever had any information. Such a record is simply astonishing, and it is hard to realize, even by our own people, that such a record has been achieved. That it actually has been done, a large number of people who have visited the orchard and seen the fruit on the trees are ready to testify. It was a revelation to experienced fruitgrowers from elsewhere. Among others who visited the orchard was Mr. J. W. Perkins, the Medford orchard man, who recently located here, and he unhesitatingly pronounced it the finest he had ever seen anywhere. In fact that verdict has been unanimous by all who have gone out to see this fruit for themselves.

These apples are to be carefully packed and shipped east. Doubtless they will bring a top price in the markets wherever sold.

Other Douglas county orchards are also showing splendid results. Samples of fruit from a number of them may be seen in the windows of the real estate offices about town. C. B. Cannon had a limb two feet long from a Spitzenberg tree which bore over 40 merchantable, four-tier size of apples. A Beltzheimer apple from the orchard of Joseph Wharton in west Roseburg weighed 2 1/2 ounces. Many Bartlett pears were on display here this year that weighed from 20 to 24 ounces each. Four peaches from F. D. Owen's Edenboro orchard, placed side by side measured over 12 inches, a cut from a recent photograph of them being recently published in the Review.

As to prune crops it is yet a little early to get definite crop reports. W. T. Emery was in from Coles valley this afternoon and tells us that his prune harvesting will be completed in another week. From 40 acres he will have fully 8000 bushels of the fruit. At the prevailing prices he will realize from $125 to $150 per acre for this season's crop, although the fruit has ripened very slowly and is weighing out much lighter than last year.

With Douglas county orchards yielding annual crops bringing from $100 to $500 per acre, right along, and often far exceeding those figures, and in the instance above mentioned reaching the enormous figure of $2400 per acre, it is really no wonder that Douglas county fruit lands are being purchased every day by far-seeing investors.

HIGHER TEACHERS SALARIES

A pointer for the teachers of Benton county comes in Supt. Ackerman's address at Princeton the other day. Speaking of a way in which teachers might increase their salary he said:

"I would advise every teacher when seeking a contract to teach in any school district in Oregon, first to ascertain the exact amount of the district's general school fund, 85 per cent of which under the law must be spent for instruction. I would further advise every Oregon teacher then to demand in his or her contract 85 per cent of this fund as salary; in other words, if the fund amounts to $500, do not accept a penny less than $425. Using these figures, these are some school boards which deem it a smart business trick to pay the teacher, say, $400, turning the $25 over and above, but within the lawful 85 per cent, back into the general fund, thus lessening the taxes of the district just that much. This is poor policy for both parties; district's general school fund, 85 per cent or refuse to sign the contract."

Another noteworthy part of Mr. Ackerman's address was:

"All over this country there are old bachelors; close around every school house, hundreds of them. Understate it, I am not speaking of old men; there aren't any, or very few in Oregon. These old bachelors in most instances have spreading acres and more money than they know what to do with. Go to them, tell them you want a better school library and ask them to contribute.

I know they will; they'll help you get more and better books for the children; they've got the money; go and see them.
