BREAK RECORD FOR LONG RUNS

An important event in musical comedy will be H. H. Frazee's original production here next Thursday night of the latest comic operatic sensation—"A Knight for a Day" now being seen for the first time in our city. It was announced as "Born and raised in Chicago, one year old and never from home before." Last Sunday's Chicago Tribune says: "Years ago when a production of the kind of a run of 100 nights in Chicago or New York it was looked upon with wonder and astonishment. It remained for a Chicago show to break all records for consecutive performances in one theater and for a touring business. Before many days 'A Knight for a Day' will celebrate its five hundredth performance at the Whitney opera house and certainly the career of this musical comedy reveals some astonishing facts about those outside of the pale of the theatrical world might find it difficult to believe. 'A Knight for a Day' opened at the Whitney opera house, March 29, 1907, so that it has almost rounded off its complete year. During that time it has been seen by 375,000 people. This estimate is a conservative one, gleaned from a report of the office statements. The cash receipts taken in at the box office will amount to the $350,000 mark. It is impossible to give an actual figure as to the profits which have been gathered in by the managers, but it is estimated to be well over the $100,000 mark. Three entire new sets of costumes have been used since the production was first seen in Chicago. The laundry and cleaning bills of the company represent a total of nearly $5000—and this is separate from the individual laundry bills of the various members of the company. "Nearly 600 pairs of stockings have been furnished to the 26 girls of the chorus by the wardrobe mistress. Nearly 200 pairs of gloves have been used in the year's run."

The defense is now conducting its case in the Martin murder trial in Portland, the prosecution having closed yesterday.

CRANBERRY PRODUCTION

(By C. L. Lewis, Professor of General Horticulture and Pomology at Oregon Agricultural College.)

Considerable interest is being taken in our state in cranberry culture, and it is well that this industry should receive some of the attention that is being given to the various horticultural pursuits. Probably no line of horticulture pays better profits than cranberry growing, and in localities where the yield is good it is practically impossible to buy the well-prepared bogs for $1000 an acre.

There are two reasons for the high price of cranberry bogs. The first is that the yields on good bogs pay very good interest on the investment; and second, cranberry land is very scarce when compared with other agricultural lands. The cranberry is very exacting in its requirements. Nevertheless, there seems to be considerable land along Oregon coast that is naturally adapted to this industry. True it is that most of the bogs are wild and only a few have had any artificial preparation, and in many cases these were not properly prepared.

Valuable Tillamook Bogs. What promises to be a very valuable bog for the Pacific northwest is one recently acquired by the Tillamook Cranberry company near Oregon. This seems to have the necessary requirements, such as soil, drainage, a good water supply and comparative ease with which a bog can be prepared. The company has determined to spare no pains in establishing this bog properly. The reports of Oregon yields are almost unbelievable, and the government statistics give the average yield as being the highest in the country. That the yield would run considerably above the average seems highly probable, for we have no insect pests as yet, neither do we have frosts to contend with. With the return of say, 100 bushels to the acre, a very handsome profit can be realized on a valuation of $1000 per acre.

Requirements for Cranberries. In order to grow the berries successfully, certain conditions must prevail. First, we desire peat soil and especially a decomposed peat. Clay, or heavy muck soils are undesirable. Second, an abundance of good, coarse sand should be available within easy hauling distance. When this sand becomes mixed somewhat with the peat it seems to make the ideal soil. Third, the drainage is a very important factor and during the growing season one should be able to keep the water at least a foot below the surface. It should not be allowed to get much lower than this. Cranberries will not stand stagnant water. Fourth, a good water supply furnished by some living streams or reservoir, is very desirable, for, in case insects should appear, flooding could be easily resorted to.

In addition to the above requirements, it is also well to choose a bog in which the work can be carried on easily. It will cost from $100 to $500 an acre to prepare a bog. First, all trees, shrubbery, etc., must be removed, so that no grass roots are allowed to remain. Then a layer of coarse sand, three to five inches deep, must be applied. After this the young plants are set out, generally in rows about a foot apart, the plants from six to nine inches apart in the row. The first few years special care must be taken to keep out all grass. After the plants become once firmly established the danger from the grass will not be so great. By the third year a good crop is realized, and from that on for a great many years the bog should prove profitable.

SKYSCRAPERS AND TRAFFIC CONGESTION

A novel basis for attack upon the skyscraper has been found. Objection has been made to tall buildings because of the difficulty of fighting fire in their upper stories, because they shut out light and air from the streets and because of an uneasy feeling that at the present rate of increase the limit of safe building would soon be found and passed. The architects have men that form of criticism by drawing up and securing a city ordinance which will practically limit the height of future office buildings in Manhattan to 20 stories from the foundation up, but with a provision of central towers to be carried to any practical height which the demands for rental might call for. Now come Queensborough with an argument which, if it should ever be accepted and acted upon, would prevent the "City of Towers," which architects have been talking about, from coming to realization. This argument is that the congestion of traffic from which New York suffers is due to the concentration of so many thousands of workers in the tall buildings, and that if those buildings continue to increase in numbers the city will never be able to build subways and bridges enough to overcome the increasing jam. Accordingly President Booth of the Queensborough Real Estate exchange is securing support for a bill limiting the height of buildings in future. He claims that support enough has been secured to justify sending the bill to the next legislature. Of course, there is no chance of the legislature passing such measure, but the idea will naturally attract support from the outlying boroughs, and in a few years when the population of Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx has increased, the support of the sections might make the measure more difficult to defeat than it will be now. Mr. Booth's argument is that Brooklyn already offers a field for the erection of large office buildings, that Queens will do so in a few years, and that the business of New York can be properly provided for without driving any more of it up into the clouds over Manhattan Island. At present that is merely an ingenious suburban theory; and if traffic augmentation persists after the added transit facilities of the next few years, the limitation of the cause of congestion may come to be regarded as the most available remedy.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Why Colds Are Dangerous. Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by a cold, but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgment. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to cure a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade over a large part of the world. For sale at Dr. Stone's drug store.

The Multnomah county branch of the State Grange yesterday placed themselves on record as opposing a union of the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural college.

Cold Weather Advice. To all is to beware of coughs and colds on the chest; as neglected they readily lead to pneumonia, consumption or other pulmonary troubles. Just as soon as the cough appears treat it with Ballard's Horehound Syrup the standard cure of America. Use as directed—perfectly harmless. A cure and preventive for all diseases of the lungs. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all dealers.

The Oregon Electric has resumed the work of laying the extension track from Hillsboro to Forest Grove.

For Chronic Diarrhoea. "While in the army in 1883 I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says George M. Felton of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief, until Mr. A. W. Miles, of this place, persuaded me to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, one bottle of which stopped it at once." For sale at Dr. Stone's drug store.

The whole Willamette valley is glad the rain is here. Fall plowing now begins.

$100.00 Reward. would gladly be paid for a cure by many people who are crippled with rheumatism, yet if they only knew it, they can be cured by a few bottles of Ballard's Snow Liniment, and the price is only 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all dealers.

The Farmers and Traders bank at La Grande has closed its doors, but is expected to soon open again, a run having been started on a run-off of the cashing of a $2000 forged check.

Would Mortgage the Farm. A farmer on Rural Route 2, Empire Ga., W. A. Floyd by name, says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured the two worst sores I ever saw, one on my hand and one on my leg. It is worth more than its weight in gold. I would not be without it if I had to mortgage the farm to get it." Only 25c at J. C. Perry's drug store.

Washington county sportsmen are planning to make 1919 a closed season for pheasants and shorten 1910 season.

For Chapped Skin. Chapped skin whether on the hands or face may be cured in one night by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It is also unequalled for sore nipples, burns and scalds. For sale at Dr. Stone's drug store.

Never Worry about a cough—there's no need of worry if you will treat it at its first appearance with Ballard's Horehound Syrup. It will stop the cough at once and put your lungs and throat back into perfectly healthy condition. Sold by all dealers.

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Sold by all dealers.
