been abandoned and ships cannot make their way from Lake Superior to Lake Huron.

The fires are still burning about the city, but they are being fought by hundreds of men who took the places of those who battled with the flames all night and it is thought the city has been saved.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 16.—Metz, the town entirely surrounded by the great forest fire in the northeast part of Michigan in what is known as the Lower Peninsula. The towns of Metz and Millersburg are in the county of Presque Isle. Allen is on the bay southeast of Lake Huron and a railroad from Alpena to Cheboygan on the Straits of Mackinac passes through Bolton in Alpena county, Metz and Millersburg.

Sault Ste. Marie on the strait of that name and the St. Mary's river, is in the eastern extremity of the upper peninsula in Chippewa county. The city is the commercial doorway to Lake Superior from Lake Huron. Calumet, which sprang into fame as a great mining camp is in the northwestern part of the upper peninsula in the county of Houghton on the Keweenaw peninsula. It is connected by a railway with Keweenaw in the county of that name.

By far the most important industry of the state is lumbering and great forests of conifers cover the northern portion of the lower and the entire area of the upper peninsula.

The best musical comedy that has visited Salem in the last year played to a full house at the Grand last night.

"A Knight for a Day" was the play, and Bobby Barry's inflexible legs and mannerisms and his Romeo and Juliet scene was his best work, although he and Miss Gertrude Hutchenson shown brightly in the song of the evening, "The Little Girl in Blue." A chorus that could sing and dance, splendid costumes and fine electrical effects filled the comedy to overflowing. The finales of the two acts were exceedingly pretty.

Barry was scheduled as the star, but Miss Esie Herbert bid fair to snatch the stellar honors from him. Her song, "I want Another Situation Just Like That" was the cream of the show.

RAISING CHEAP GRAIN DOES NOT PAY

It never pays to raise poor crops. It never pays to use good ground for the growing of inferior varieties of grains. The American farmers are finding this out. A great many of them have in recent years been induced to turn to the growing of poor varieties of wheat simply because these very inferior kinds can be grown more easily than others of a larger yield per acre can be secured. The United States government has engaged in exposing the fallacy of this movement. In the monthly circular and trade reports, issued by the department of labor and commerce for July, the government prints a report made by Special Agent M. H. Davis, who has been sent to Europe to study the British flour trade. In this report it is shown that there has been a great falling off in the total of American flour exports to Great Britain, the total trade now being less than half what it was. This is due to a number of causes but Mr. Davis brings out one strongly, as follows:

"It may be stated that the introduction and large production of an inferior wheat in the northwest, known as macaroni or durum wheat, has had much to do with loss of trade in American flour. To a considerable extent the confidence of foreign buyers has been shaken by the thought that possibly a considerable percentage of the durum wheat might find its way into our flour. So far it has not appeared to any marked extent, but this fear is among the buyers and every means to reassure them should be taken by exporting millers."

"The durum wheat craze seems to have had its day and done its work. A much better way to have helped the American farmers would have been to demonstrate how the better grades of wheat long well known could be raised with certainty. Durum wheat is one of these 'dought-resistant' discoveries about which so much has been said."

SHERIFF

Hearst said that her husband had gone to the station to send a telegram.

The sheriff announced that he would force his way into the state-room if the door were not opened. There was no response. The officer then, using his shoulder as a battering ram, forced the door and almost fell into the room.

Mrs. Hearst, partially dressed, rushed screaming into the aisle of the car.

The officer was not dismayed by the sight of the frightened woman or her screams but, still convinced that Hearst was in hiding, he made his way to the toilet room adjoining the state room and began kicking violently against the door. He probably would have broken this down in a few seconds if Hearst had not appeared and accepted service of the papers.

After the exciting scene, which nearly caused a panic among the passengers of the train, Hearst said that the summons was unexpected and that he had no idea what the man wanted. He said that he had refused to admit the officer because he and his wife had retired and they were not prepared to receive strangers in their private apartments.

Mrs. Hearst quickly recovered her composure but remained in the state-room. Hearst said that he had no idea of avoiding service and asserted that the aggressiveness of the officer was entirely unwarranted.

The suit was filed at 10 o'clock last night and the papers were immediately issued and put in the hands of the officer. It was known that Hearst would pass through Omaha on his way from Seattle to New York. The deputy sheriff went to the station two hours before the train arrived and waited in order to be certain not to miss Hearst.

The suit is based on the statements of Hearst that Haskell was and is the agent of the Standard Oil company.

The sensational scene on the train was quiet to the thrilling events which led to the resignation of Governor Haskell as treasurer of the national democratic committee and caused the biggest sensation of the present presidential campaign.

Hearst today declared that Governor Haskell is a scoundrel and said:

"I welcome the suit against me and will show in court that my statements were true. This manner of serving the papers was outrageous. I would have accepted service by mail with pleasure."

The case is set for November 16. The complaint alleges that on Sept. 19, because of "hatred, malice and ill will against the plaintiff," the defendant maliciously and wantonly delivered a speech attacking him at Memphis, Tenn. It also charges that on Sept. 20 Hearst printed in his newspapers a "false, defamatory and libelous article concerning the plaintiff."

Under the laws of Nebraska an officer has no right to break down a door to serve papers in a civil suit and some action may follow the work of the deputy sheriff this morning.

Haskell has been campaigning with C. J. Smythe, former attorney general of Nebraska, making speeches in the state for Bryan.

JACKSON GUILTY OF BATTERY

The jury in the circuit court yesterday brought in a verdict against E. E. Jackson of guilty of assault and battery after being out 1 hour and 45 minutes.

The indictment handed down by the grand jury against Jackson charged him with mayhem, but the court ruled the jury could reduce the charge to assault and battery.

Jackson is rather fortunate in this case as the charge upon which the jury found him guilty calls for a maximum fine of $50. Attorneys Kaiser and Holmes for the defendant had the case under hand very well and their examination of witnesses displayed to the jury every slight point in the case. C. E. McNary for the state made good cross-examinations and succeeded in gaining all the information he desired from the witnesses.

The jurors in this case were:

WATER DRINKERS SELDOM HAVE BAD KIDNEYS

"The people here do not get enough water to keep healthy," claimed a well known authority. "The numerous cases of kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected."
Stop leading your system with medicines and cure-alls; but get the water wagon. If you are sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common sense treatment, which will not alter the nerves or ruin the stomach. To cure rheumatism you must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must have these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. In these conditions you can do no better than take the following prescription: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. Don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often.
This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted in each household and read at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, to matter how slight.

Chauncey Bishop, Chas. Calver, Chas. Van Wagner, Alex Clark, W. Mize, foreman, John Shanks, Henry Beck, W. L. Cummins, A. Cloxton, Richard Carlson, A. Brown and Oliver Beer. Jackson's time for sentence was set for Monday next.
