"CHECKERS," ONE OF MOST POPULAR PLAY AT GRAND TONIGHT

"Checkers," the rattling character comedy which will be seen at the Grand Opera House tonight, is known to the theatrical profession as one of the luckiest plays on the boards. In this season, snow storms and floods of train wrecks played havoc with more than one company, but "Checkers" playing over a route which leads from St. Paul and Minneapolis to the Pacific, to Texas and New Orleans and back to New York, did not suffer a single performance. In one town the record was nearly broken, and the train the company was in on was so late that it looked like a time as if there would be no performance. The audience, however, refused to be dismissed, and the unique pleasure of seeing the play's scenery brought into the theatre and set up with a raised curtain. On every other night of the route the curtain rose precisely on time.

For other companies have had so unfortunate a record, and still fewer companies have retained for so many years an almost unchanged record. Most of the actors in the "Checkers" company have played the same roles since the play was first produced five years ago. Hans Braham, who plays the title role is in his fourth season with the company. David Braham, the inimitable "Push" Miller, has been with the company since the first performance. So have Lydia Dickson, Geo. Eberhard and Joe Wilkes. Lydia Dickson has her old part of Cynthia, and Geo. Eberhard is Aunt Deb again. Hans Ormsbee will have the leading man's part this season of "Port," the sweetheart of "Checkers."

LATHROP CASE IS PROGRESSING

The Lathrop perjury case was resumed this morning at 9 o'clock in the circuit court, and two new witnesses testified regarding Lathrop's relation with Mrs. Savage.

Judge Galloway was recalled to the stand at the opening of the case this morning and related to the jury how Lathrop was sworn in to testify in the former divorce proceedings leading up to his indictment of perjury.

Edward Wolf, who was served with a bench warrant late yesterday afternoon for non-appearance, took the stand next and told the court how he boarded the train at Albany bound for Mill City, and saw Lathrop and Mrs. Savage on the train.

Mrs. Nellie M. Savage was then called to the stand and testified to the effect that she was not in Shelburn, as stated by J. H. Van Blaricon, proprietor of the Shelburn hotel, in his testimony yesterday, and that she was in West Stayton at the time. When asked as to what house she stopped at while in Stayton Mrs. Savage was unable to tell, or in what direction it was from the depot.

The attorney for the state then addressed the court and retold a large portion of the testimony delivered by witnesses yesterday. He also defended himself in the attack made by Attorney Jeffries relative to Mrs. Lathrop being called to the stand yesterday. The counsel for the defendant was somewhat bitter in his speech to the jury and claimed Mrs. Lathrop was called to the witness chair in order to prejudice the jury against his client.

The court adjourned until 1 o'clock, and the jury received their instructions at that time.

The most important issue in the case seemed to be whether or not Mrs. Lathrop was in Shelburn on the 14th of March; whether Mrs. Savage was there, and whether Lathrop was in company with any other woman but Mrs. Lathrop at the time.

Reading of the testimony made by Lathrop in the divorce proceedings of Savage vs. Savage was the first steps taken yesterday afternoon in the case of State again Lathrop on the charge of perjury.

The court stenographer read to the jury parts of Lathrop's statements made while on the stand in the divorce case which pertained mostly to his actions while in Brownsville, Stayton and Aumsville relative to his intimacy with Mrs. Nellie Savage.

Judge Galloway then took the stand and testified regarding the statements made by Lathrop while a witness in the former divorce suit over which he was presiding. Judge Galloway's testimony was based principally upon Lathrop's conduct with Mrs. Savage in the above mentioned towns.

Albert F. Savage, the former husband of Mrs. Nellie Savage, then took the stand and told of how he had seen Mrs. Savage in company with Lathrop at Shelburn, a small place south of Salem, and that how the two had acted at the hotel at that place in company with each other.

Wm. Surayer and Mark Spear, both of Aumsville, testified then in turn, of seeing Lathrop in Aumsville. The former stating he had seen the defendant and Mrs. Savage together early in the morning.

Edward Wolf when called, not being in court, the judge issued a bench warrant to be served on him and permitted the other witnesses to be examined by the counsel.

Inez Kitzel, of Shelburn, took the witness chair first and told of how Lathrop and Mrs. Savage stopped at the hotel in Shelburn, of which her brother-in-law was the proprietor, and how they (Lathrop and Mrs. Savage) appeared so affectionate at the breakfast table and how they both took the train after breakfast and left the place.

J. L. Van Blaricon, proprietor of the hotel at Shelburn was then called, and he told the jury how Lathrop appeared at his place and asked for lodging for himself and wife, and how his wife showed them to the room where they remained all night. Mrs. J. L. Van Blaricon testified in the same manner as that of her husband and also commented slightly on Lathrop's action toward the lady he claimed to be his wife as being every affectionate. Attorney Jeffries in his cross examination of Mrs. Van Blaricon, inquired to what extent the defendant showed his affection and she replied that both Lathrop's and Mrs. Savage's actions were affectionate to the extent she believed that very few married men were in the habit of displaying in public.

After a short testimony given by Ida Steinbach regarding Mrs. Lathrop's health, and the calling of Mrs. Lathrop to the stand and permitting her to refuse to testify owing to her being the defendant's wife, the court adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.
