

RIVALRY A COMEDY SUCCESS

To any one possessing a fondness for a literary gem or a liking for a thoroughly artistic dramatic performance, the mere announcement of Joseph and William Jefferson to present Richard Brinsley Sheridan's classical masterpiece "The Rivals" is most welcome news. Such an announcement could not be construed otherwise—for it possesses a double value—inasmuch every one of the council's artists which go toward making the "The Rivals" a famous literary classic are daintily utilized in plotting the histrionic genius of the present representatives of the most of all theatrical families. "The Rivals" holds an exalted place in the world of literature. In its one little comedy may be found limited quantities of true wit and sentiment. It is all faultlessly read with a series of amusing, yet perfectly sane and logical situations intermingling with a story that really fascinates one's soul. It is the essence of beautiful word painting, and its fame will be lasting as that of any other work of literature. Its dramatic possibilities are just great—otherwise it never could have been honored by the talent and insight of every really famous comedian from the era when Garrick reigned supreme until today. "The Rivals" is inseparably linked with the disaifed fame and illustrious name of Jefferson as it was a century ago. This forms a combination of exceptional merit in which the artistic work of the present Jefferson representatives, Joseph and William W., is permitted its fullest display in the delightful theatrical possibilities in "The Rivals."

These two young actors have inherited the same histrionic talent as possessed by several generations of ancestors. Their characterizations have the advantage of the great experiences of their forefathers and their finished results are as near perfection as acting will permit.

Joseph Jefferson portrays the part of Sir Lucius O'Trigger—a role which demands a delicacy in handling that none, other than a true artist such as he, can give it. He succeeded W.

J. Florence in his late father's company and profited by the ideas of two of our greatest comedians. This wonderful advantage in conjunction with his own brilliant talent, permits a performance that scintillates with all the exquisite beauties of thoroughly artistic histrionic interpretation.

The younger brother, William W. Jefferson, virtually lives the character of Bob Acres. The greatest dramatic or literary builder in the world could not have more closely fitted his talent and temperament with a vehicle for their fullest exploitation, than did Sheridan, who wrote the play in 1774, which William W. Jefferson continues to help make famous today.

WORKERS IN OUR COTTON FACTORIES

In the United States, as a whole, today 21 women out of every hundred are working. But in Fall River it is 45 women out of every hundred. And if you restrict the count to women between the ages of 21 and 25 it is sixty-seven out of every hundred. And if you consider only the women between the ages of 16 and 20, you will find that in Fall River 78 out of every hundred are earning their living. Moreover, American women have worked in factories for approximately a century, and in Fall River the accumulated consequences of that century can be studied. Indeed, the first three persons to operate power looms for weaving cloth in Fall River were women—Sallie Winters, Mary Healy and Hannah Borden. Hannah's father was quite a man, financially, in Fall River. He owned a lot of stock in the old "Yellow Mill," which was then introducing power looms. Through his influence with the manager of the mill Hannah got a chance to operate one of the new machines.

This brings us to the first change which has happened to the American factory woman. It is a social change. Physical toil, except in games of sport, is no longer regarded as appropriate for the daughters of prominent citizens in New England mill towns. Mill girls no longer number in their ranks daughters of clergymen, doctors, lawyers and well-to-do farmers. And the change has been racial as well as social. The mill has ceased to attract not only the daughters of prominent citizens but the daughters of native New Englanders of all kind.

The Public Endorsement of Our Mining Properties

If You Have Not Read It Then Do So

The report of the committee appointed by the Salem Board of Trade is printed in your daily papers. It will post you on what the committee found at the mines. Now we have their endorsement we are in position to urge you to SIGN UP AT ONCE FOR ALL THE STOCK YOU CAN HANDLE. DO IT NOW. DON'T WAIT. We will try and call on you, but don't wait; come to our office and we will put you in a position to make some money. By this time with all the proofs we have furnished no one can question our mines being all we have claimed for them. Now, remember we are talking for the Gold Creek Mining & Milling Company's property. Our stock is selling at 10 cents. We have 17 claims in our group. We have a saw-mill, electric light plant, electric drill in our equipment and we have A MINING ENGINEER WITH US WITH A REPUTATION OF DOING THINGS IN CHARGE. We have spent $20,000 more on our property than all the other mines on the creek combined. We have the ore opened up to show for it. There are five great ledges across our properties. We have 1300 feet of work done showing the ore. The smelter people ask us to supply ONE-HALF THE ORE REQUIRED FOR THEIR SMELTER. As much as all the others are required to furnish. Why? Because it was there. Our engineer told the smelter people that within 90 days from the time the road was completed he would furnish the full 100 tons per day they required, and he knew he could do it. Now don't it look as though our mines were the ones to invest in—we are boosting Marion county's resources, and want you to help us succeed.
