Meeting— About fifteen boosters went up to Turner last night to help boost for Taft and Sherman, and report a jolly time. The orator of the evening was introduced by Hon. Willis Dunaway of this city, who had been invited to the large audience by Ed. L. Martin, state committeeman for this county. Both made ringing Republican speeches, and as part of the evening program a mule had been dressed up to represent Bryan and was brought into the hall and trotted out again. Judke Lowell went to Silverton today where he closes a campaign that has practically covered the state.

SALEM TEAM PROVES SUPERIOR TO ASTORIA In the football game here yesterday between Astoria and Salem high schools, the local team won by a place kick and a touchdown but failed to kick goal, making the score 9 to 0 in Salem's favor. The Astoria men seemed in poor condition, being frequently required to take out time. Salem played the whole game without calling time once and with not an injury to a player. Although Astoria was somewhat lighter than Salem they played a snappy game and pulled off some pretty end runs and were good on defensive work. Captain Farger player their star defensive game.

For Salem, Johnny Parsons at halfback was the particular star making big yardage throughout the game. Parsons is an elusive sort of player and one of the kind that isn't stopped until clear down. Hunt was good at running in kick-offs and Captain Richardson made a neat place kick and played good defensive ball. In the second half Kay recovered a punt and placed it within two feet of the line where one buck put it over. The whole line played very well putting up a stiff front and holding perfectly on punts. Several new men were tried out in the game.

The scoring was made by a place kick in the first half and a touchdown in the second. Coach Bishop was well pleased with the showing of his team and no expects to eliminate the weak points and be in good shape for the big game against Eugene high school here a week from next Saturday. All reports say that Eugene has the swiftest team in the valley and it is bound to be a close game.

STATEMENT

In the first public statement of the Hains brothers, this statement today appears:

"This statement, signed by Jenkins, furthermore throws light in the celebrated case and denies enemies who charge him with being a 'sea-faring bully,' and tells of his literary work he has done in the past."

In his statement, Hains defends his brother, and bitterly assails Mrs. Hains' attorney. He accuses his brother's wife with attempting to poison the public mind against him and his brother.

"I have never been a beach-comber," he says. "I don't even know what a beach-comber is. It is useless to deny that I am amazed at being judged on a charge of murder. I am amazed at the wonderful description of myself given by Mrs. Hains and her attorney."

"My friends are astonished at the turn of affairs and are lost in wonder at the depth of crime which is possible to be committed by a desperate attorney under the name of the law. My family is just a little proud of me. I have never done a single thing in my life that they have not approved."

"During the past 15 years, I have contributed more marine and nautical stories to literature than any living man in the United States. My life has been that of a recluse and a student. My works have been adopted in the public school of many states and most of them are regarded by the U. S. Navy as standard. Much of my work has been translated into other languages." It is reported here today that Captain Hains is to be examined by a lunacy commission.

EXPORT OF BLACK FOREST CLOCKS

According to Jewelry and Horology Exportation, published in the interests of the German export trade, the Black Forest clock industry, dating from the beginning of the eighteenth century, has held its place in the markets of Europe and America for over 200 years. This success is ascribed to the wood carvings, cuckoo clocks and similar specialties.

At one time division of labor and the introduction of modern factory methods in the United States threatened not only to drive the German clocks from the American market, but the American clock even entered into competition in Europe with the German product. The Black Forest people introduced modern methods, however, and not only regained their former state of prosperity, but have greatly increased their output. Since 1880 the clocks exported have increased over 300 per cent. Within the past six years France has more than doubled her imports of Black Forest clocks, the Argentine republic has tripled her imports, and the United States has more than quadrupled hers. However, Great Britain is the heaviest purchaser, taking one-third of the total exports.
