

CAPITAL CITY LADS DEFEATED

BOTH TEAMS DID PUNTING

Salem High school football team won new laurels at Portland Thursday, although defeated on a close game. A Portland press report says:

The East Portland High school football team defeated the Salem High school team yesterday because the lads coached by Rev Paul Rader played the better defensive game. The locals also took advantage of a fumbled catch of a punt on the visitors' five-yard line, which resulted in a touchdown, making the score of the game 5 to 0 in favor of the home team.

The Salem team proved the stronger aggregation in the matter of yardage gained, yet the East Side team outclassed them completely in running in punts as well as in getting down the field on kicks. The game was spectacular to a large degree, for the players of each team worked into many star plays.

The first half was marked by frequent punting, as both teams were unable to make yardage steadily. In this half Jones, of the East Side team, excelled the Salem lad in kicking, but the visitors had the advantage in ground gaining on straight football. They frequently resorted to the use of the forward pass, in numerous instances for good gains. On one or two occasions they lost the ball on fumbles after the pass had been caught, but this disadvantage was overcome by fumbles on the part of the East Side players.

In the second half the Salem lads tried their regular plays, and for a time worked them successfully, but the East Side lads finally held them for downs and Jones kicked to safety. A fumbled forward pass gave the East Side the ball on Salem's 40-yard line, and after two unsuccessful bucks Jones punted. He kicked to Salem's 10-yard line, where the ball was fumbled and Everest, of the East Side, recovered the ball on the Salem five-yard line.

Salem put up a determined resistance, and it was only by means of three hard bucks that the Portland boys managed to get the ball over the line. When the third down was made and the touchdown was announced by referee Blanchard, coach of the Whitman college team, the East Portland enthusiasts went wild with delight. The goal was missed and the score stood East Side 5, Salem 0.

Salem Makes Big Gains.
After this score had been registered the Salem boys secured possession of the ball, and by the use of forward pass

...recovered passes made material gains. They soon had the ball on the East Side five-yard line, but the local team displayed its real strength by holding the visitors for downs. This play was repeated three times, and each time Salem lost the ball on downs with but five yards between them and the goal. Jones, on each occasion, kicked out to the 45-yard line.

Captain Cornell proved a host in himself, for the little fellow was everywhere, and in running in punts, far excelled the Salem lad. The leader boys, Kellogg, Jones, Everest and Stannard also played splendidly for the East Side, while the honors of the Salem team were shared by Hollingsworth, Kay, Krebs, Parsons and Richardson.

The teams lined-up as follows:
E. S. Position Salem
Barzee L. E. R. Krebs, Smith
Elmer Leader. L. T. R. Hollingsworth
Flaherty L. G. R. Savidge
Moreland C. Eyre
Houck R. G. L. Hofer
Ed Leader. R. T. L. Bellinger
Cason R. E. L. Kay
Cornell Q. Palmer
Everest L. H. R. Parsons
Jones R. H. L. Richardson
Stannard, F. F. Hunt, Krebs

SING SONGS RECEPTION IN CHINATOWN

AMERICAN BEAUTY CHORUS IN "LITTLE JOHNNY JONES."

"LITTLE JOHNNY JONES" CAUSES CONSTANT MIRTH

As "Little Johnny Jones" is to the American theater, and judging by the vociferous reception accorded George M. Cohan's whirlwind musical comedy, there will not be many vacant seats during the balance of the engagement, which will come to a close next Saturday night. This is easily the best play that the diminutive playwright has ever penned and stands the test of time better than any similar production. This year the cast is up to the usual standard, as most of the principals who were here with the show last year are still with the company, while Charley Brown, who plays the title role, is far superior in every respect to any comedian who has essayed the part since Bobby Barry appeared at the Columbia.

As usual, William Keough was the real hit of the show. In the role of 'The Unknown' this clever character actor never failed to carry his point and he had the spectators in a constant state of mirth from the time he reeled on the stage until he made his exit. His inimitable work as the inebriated detective couldn't be improved upon, and a role that could easily be made offensive in poor hands is made a scream by the manner in which Keough acts it. The other principals also played their parts well. Ada Gifford, as Florabelle Fly, the newspaper correspondent, became a prime favorite shortly after her entrance and her popularity increased during the course of the evening. She is chic, dainty and, above all, handsome. Any Mortimer shouldn't be given the overlook in passing out the bouquets for being pretty and winsome and at the same time versatile. As above stated, Charley Brown makes an excellent Johnny Jones, while Dan Simmons as Tim McGee is as funny and as good as ever.

"The many song-bits contained in 'Little Johnny Jones,' which have been sung and whistled here so often, were enthusiastically received, and the entire show went with the usual Cohanesque whirl. The comic effects are particularly pleasing, the prettiest being the departure of the steamer Hurrah, showing the ship at sea by moonlight, with Johnny Jones standing on the pier watching for the rocket to appear. There will be a special election day matinee tomorrow and arrangements have been made to receive the election returns, which will be read from the stage."

expected to make its report this afternoon. The committee was in session until long after midnight this morning at the Albany hotel and the proponents of both sides in the dispute made their last stand.

Toronto, St. Louis and Rochester are contestants for the next convention. Each city is backed by a strong contingent and it is not certain which one will be honored.

PRIZE WINNING APPLE DISPLAY COMING TO SALEM

The prize winners at the Albany Apple show are to be brought to Salem and placed on exhibition in the Burea & Hamilton show windows on Court street. There were 52 boxes in the Marion and Polk county exhibits, and nearly as many more in the Linn county exhibit and an effort will be made to bring them all to Salem and show our own people what this valley can produce in the way of world-beaters in the pomological line.

When it is remembered that one box of these apples was sold at Albany for $10 cash, the whole exhibit will be worth about $1000. It will attract the attention of thousands to have the three exhibits brought to Salem, and each box sold at auction.

AUSTRIA ASKS AID TO PACIFY SERVIA

St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—The hopes for peace or the chances of war in the Balkan region depend on the text of a note that is expected here today from Vienna. The relations between Austro-Hungary and Servia have become so strained that Franz Josef has asked Russia, France and Great Britain to attempt mediation at Belgrade. The exact position of the dual monarchy with regard to the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and just how far the powers may go in attempting to pacify the belligerent Servians, is what the expected note contains.

The strained situation between Servia and Austro-Hungary cannot last long, say diplomats. Unless something be done very soon, there will be war and this war will probably drag other powers into the dispute. Franz Josef fears that Russia will attempt to aid Servia in her quarrel and it is stated that if necessary Kaiser Wilhelm will come to the aid of Austria.

The attitude of Servia and Montenegro toward the annexation by Austria of Bosnia and Herzegovina and their appeal to Russia for aid has complicated the situation.

FEDERATION

Gomper and is supposed to have been acting as the spokesman of the labor leader and the executive council when he made his address today. He advised the delegates to get together and formulate a political policy and stay with it. They should decide what they want to do, he said, and stay with it to the bitter end.

War between John Mitchell and Thomas Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, is still in progress.

Mitchell announced today that he is a candidate for the presidency of the Mine Workers' Union. It is believed that he is running against Lewis in retaliation for Lewis' action in trying to oust him from the second vice-presidency of the federation. Lewis wants Mitchell out of the executive council and seeks to succeed him as second vice-president of the federation.

Since Mitchell retired from the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America several months ago, the organization has been torn with internal strife and it is believed that Lewis will be defeated for re-election.

The fight between the two factions of the Electrical Workers of the World is expected to be finished today. The special committee appointed to pass upon the merits of the arguments of the contending factions is

Mill Makes Repairs—
The Spaulding mills in this city have closed down some of their machinery for repairing purposes on the big saws and are operating only the planers now. The mill will probably be set in motion again next week.
