YASHITA IS FORMALLY CHARGED

BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

District Attorney John H. McNary filed a complaint charging menace to the public in the justice court this morning against C. Yashita, the Japanese who was arrested last Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Esch for having on his person a bottle of nitroglycerine and three sticks of dynamite. Sheriff Minto brought the prisoner down to the justice's court at 11 o'clock this morning, when he was examined by the district attorney. Yashita was asked by the state's (Continued on page seven.)

PRESIDENT NOT AT ALL FRIGHTENED

BY ATTITUDE OF CONGRESS

Washington, Dec. 12.—President Roosevelt told a number of callers today that it was of no consequence to him what action was taken by the house and senate in regard to the censoring the language of his message regarding the secret service. He stated that he stood flatly for every word which he had written. Moreover he said if the house failed to take favorable action on the recommendation concerning the secret service he would then send one or more additional messages to congress showing the right of his contention.

BRIBERY CASE UP TO JURY

ANOTHER 'FRISCO GRAFT CASE

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Dec. 12.—The evidence in the trial of Attorney Frank J. Murphy charged with offering a bribe to a prospective Ruef juror went to the jury this morning at 11:45 o'clock. The morning session was occupied by District Attorney William H. Langdon in summing up for the prosecution. Langdon dwelt upon the value of the evidence of E. A. S. Blake, a contractor convicted for participation in the crime in connection with which Murphy is charged. Langdon defended the credibility of Blake as a witness and denied the charges of Murphy on the witness stand that the graft prosecutors had "bought" the district attorney's office. At the close of Langdon's speech, Judge Murasky delivered his charge to the jury which immediately retired for deliberation.

RUEF IS GIVEN A RESPITE

SENTENCE PUT OFF ONE WEEK

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Dec. 12.—At the request of the defense Judge Lawler today postponed until next Saturday the sentencing of Abe Ruef for offering a bribe. The counsel for Ruef said they were preparing a number of motions they wished to offer. The prosecution agreed to the postponement. Attorney Thomas B. Dozier represented Ruef in the courtroom today, Henry Ach still being absent. Dozier explained that the defense desired to interpose motions before judgment was passed on Ruef, and he said in an interview after court adjourned, that he expected to use the record in the case, which he considers, "well clogged with errors." Ruef, before his attorney was allowed to address the court, was ordered by Judge Lawler to stand up and hear the formal reading of the history of the proceeding in his trial. The convicted man stood with his hands brushing his pockets letting his gaze wander around the court room, winking at his friends and stealthily whispering to his lawyers. As has been his custom throughout the trial, he chewed gum incessantly. At the conclusion of the morning's proceedings, Ruef denied the published story that Henry Ach would retire from his case through any misunderstanding with him. "Ach has been a faithful friend to me," said Ruef. "He has taken up my defense at great personal sacrifice. It has taken practically all his time, and it has meant an enormous drain on his strength. He has lost thousands of dollars through his inability to keep up his private practice. "It can be safely stated that, unless his present sickness forces him to change his plans, he will see me through this case from its beginning to the very end." Ruef claims to be indignant over the alleged effect on the jury of the visit to the courtroom of Francis J. Heney last Thursday may have had. He says that the room, in which the jury deliberated, was in the front part of Carpenter's hall, where the sounds of cheering in the street could be plainly heard. He says one juror saw a wagon advertising a meeting of the League of Justice at Lyric hall, and he alleges these circumstances all might have had the effect of intimidating the men who voted on his fate.

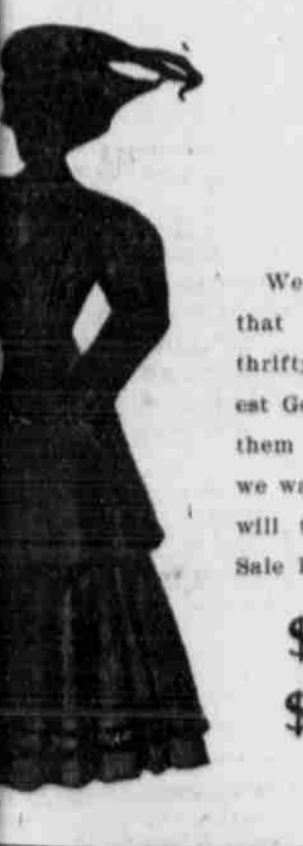

FIGHTING SENATOR PERKINS

HAS CORPORATION CONNECTIONS

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Dec. 12.—The fight against the re-election of Senator George A. Perkins was opened today by Assemblyman-elect E. J. Callan, in an open letter replying to a request by the senator for support on his record. He reviews the record of Perkins' votes on matters of importance. Callan calls attention to the recent fights in Oregon and Washington, saying in part: "A few weeks ago, in a number of our neighboring Republican states, United States senators were up for re-election. I find that in nearly every case their record, though brief, is very similar to yours. United States Senator Fulton went before the Republican voters of Oregon upon his record, but the Republican voters were convinced that the senator did not represent the people. He was defeated. United States Senator Ankeny of Washington, for similar reasons, met the same fate. Though a Republican, he received but 17,000 votes in the great state of Washington. In North Dakota, United States Senator Hansbrough met a like fate for like reasons. In South Dakota United States Senator Kittridge likewise was defeated by the Republicans because he represented special interests. In Kansas United States Senator Long, whose record is strangely like yours, was defeated by the Republicans of his state. In Illinois United States Senator Hopkins, with 20 years federal patronage to back him, received but one-third of the Republican votes of that state. The people were convinced that he did not represent them. "I am unwilling to believe that the Republicans of California are unlike the Republicans of other states. And while a few of my straight-laced party friends are apprehensive fearing that in this line of action I am violating party ethics, I believe, with President Roosevelt, that the crime lies in the toleration of the wrong, not in making it public. If my vote concerned you alone, Mr. Perkins, I would give it gladly, for while I do not know you personally I have every assurance that you are a most estimable man, whose personal integrity no one doubts. But the issue involved is greater than any man or state. It is 'shall predatory wealth control the machinery of government or shall our laws be enacted, interpreted and executed in the interests of all the people?' The evidence before me as to your temperament and affiliations prove conclusively that you represent the former."

RAILWAYS STAND BY INCREASED RATES

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Dec. 12.—No promises of relief from the burden of advanced freight rates to and from California terminals have been received from the railroad presidents who were recently memorialized by the executive committee of the recent convention of California business men. E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific replied that he hoped a conference between the committee and the traffic managers of the two roads would be held in the near future and "trusted that a satisfactory conclusion would be reached." E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe was more explicit. He said that his representatives would be quite willing to listen to arguments against the advance in rates, but he warned the shippers that in the case of transcontinental tariffs, applying to and from all points in the United States east of Colorado, a large number of eastern railroad were parties interested and would have to be consulted if changes should be found proper. Ripley made the following significant observation in his dispatch to the committee: "It is imperative that we increase our revenues. In doing so, it is not our intention to prevent the free movement of California products to eastern markets nor of any west-bound freight, and I do not understand that the slight advances made will have such an effect." The California shippers consider these two messages from the heads of the two railroads as sufficient indication of a disposition on the part of these lines to force the merchants to evolve their own relief. A busy day was spent yesterday in discussing plans which, it is understood, will pave the way for a far-reaching traffic war between local shippers and the two railroads. It is generally believed that the transportation companies are delaying the conference over these rates until after they go into effect, and hope of bringing about a compromise has now practically died out.

"HOLY ROLLERS" MUST FACE MURDER CHARGE

(United Press Leased Wire.) Kansas City, Dec. 12.—James Sharp, self-styled "Adam God," one of the leaders of the Holy Roller sect together with three of his followers, were arraigned today under charges of murder in the first degree. The prisoners are accused of killing Patrolman Dalbow in a pistol fight recently between the band and the police. Because the defendants were not represented by counsel, the hearing was continued until this afternoon by the court.
