MARION COUNTY TAXES ANYALYZED FOR READERS

The Capital Journal has taken the pains to separate the expenses of governing Marion county from the money required by our educational system and city governments, and has compiled the items of county expenditure proper for the past year.

It will be seen that the fixed charges for legitimate county expenses are only a small part of the taxes collected by the sheriff on the property of the people.

The taxes levied by the state and which the county court has no discretion about levying amount to more than twice as much as the taxes required to pay all the expenses of county government.

The tables below will give the fixed charges of the county, aside from roads and highways, and it will be seen that about as much was spent on roads and highways as for all the other county expenses put together.

It must also be stated that while a large sum was levied the past year to make improvements on the court house, the money was all used up for roads, as no road tax was levied.

Hence, if the county had gone ahead and made the repairs intended on the court house, the county would by this time be heavily in debt. We want our readers to examine the following figures:

Fixed Charges Marion County.

For the past year the warrants issued for the various departments of Marion county were as follows:

County court and com..	$ 2,493.20
Circuit courts	7,260.25
Justice courts	3,530.70
Sheriff's office	4,090.46
Clerk's office	4,754.72
Recorder's office	2,826.96
Treasurer's office	1,200.00
Coroner's office	647.80
School superintendent	1,699.30
Stock inspector	375.00
Assessor's office	4,402.00
Ass. and collection of taxes	2,242.35
Current expenses	5,013.61
Court house expenses	7,379.17
Jail	1,329.19
Poor	8,759.99
Indigent soldiers	789.00
Insane	330.45
Bridges	5,571.49
Ferries	900.00
Health officer	769.00
Rebate of fees	422.60
Truant officer	155.10
Juvenile court	34.80
Street sprinkling	95.00
Surveyor	219.00
Exporting books	450.00
Fruit inspector, exhibits, etc.	2,026.02
Total fixed charges, '08	$69,779.18

Items Not Fixed Charges.

Roads	$66,157.86
Elections	7,898.45
Paving	6,744.86
Exporting	420.00
Steel bridges	1,341 04
Canada thistles	21.00
Special bridges	2,500.00
Total not fixed charges	$85,083 21
Net fixed charges of county without roads	72,092.75

On valuation of $31,000,000 this would require a levy of less than two and three-tenth mills.

Taxes Under State Laws.

Marion county's share of taxes, 1908	$70,495.00
County school tax levied by state law of $7 per capita	74,424.00
State library tax under state law	1,256.86
Total state levies	$146,175 86
Special school tax levied by districts, local	49,326.93
Total	$195,502 84
Total county expenses, 1908	157,175.96
Taxes levied by cities, local	49,727.07

To raise the taxes called for by state laws be levied by the county court on a valuation of $31,000,000 would require a levy of four and seven-tenths mills, or more than double the fixed charges of the county.

The Road Taxes.

The expenditures this year for roads and highways amounted to $66,15786, or more than two mills on an assessment valuation of thirty-one millions. The above sum included $14,786.26 of road taxes raised by special levies in districts that built permanent highways.

All fixed charges have increased on the county. Labor, materials, stationery, postage, express, telephones and lights cost double what it did ten years ago. The county officers have more expensive records and employ more machinery.

The county work is increasing and all officers have more help and more expenses.

Where one man cared for the court house ten years ago now it takes three. Employes only work eight hours.

civil government to make the native politician differentiate between liberty and license is candidly admitted by every official connected with the civil administration.

Committed to the carrying out of the "McKinley policy" in the island, says Taft's former official associates, he was unable to change at the time he was governor-general, although he realized that the policy was one of mistaken kindness.

The parting of the ways between Taft and his turbulent protege came, it is stated, when, after being granted an autonomous government, the first Philippine assembly, which was opened by Taft, voted for immediate independence. This ungrateful fult, it is said, jarred the last jot of patience out of the big secretary of war. His comments at that time on the mental capacity of the Filipino politician are said to have been both fervid and lurid.

When, as President, he will be in a position to dictate some insular policies of his own, it is confidently believed that the preachment of treason, which has marked the meetings of the Philippine assembly, will come to a sudden stop through the removal of some of the offenders to Bilibid prison, where the acoustic properties of the 6x10 stone cell will put a muffle on their garrulous valves.

That too late these slingers of the journalistic vitrol have deciphered the hand writing on the wall is shown in the editorial lament, which appeared the day following the arrest of the offending staff. In part this reads:

"Is this the inauguration of the 'era of sorrows?' Is it the first manifestation of the policy of the 'mailed fist?' There are positive symptoms that this is so, but it would be better to silence the organ of public opinion, and oblige them to applaud all of the measures adopted."

This paper, which has been unwhipped of justice during a treasonable existence of several years, never publishes the story of a serious crime in which natives are implicated. Its one policy has been to engender hatred against Americans, and the fact that it has been allowed to continue on its dangerous way is a typical evidence of the policy of vacillating weakness, which has marked the civil administration.

The policy of giving native agitators positions of trust to quiet their attacks on the government is charged with the responsibility for the recent epidemic of cholera in Manila. The dreaded disease found its way to this city, is is claimed by the American health officers, through the failure of the native officials in the provinces to take any precautions to prevent its spread. One provincial health officer was found attending a wake over the body of a cholera victim, and he displayed some peevishness when he was led away from the joyous function, and immersed in a carbolic bath.

It is pointed out that the American policy of taking a semi-savage people and preparing them for autonomous government in five years has been a case of attempting the impossible.

The development of the institutions has been greatly retarded, owing to men of capital refusing to invest until a stable and secure government is established, and until restrictions are placed on the ever-increasing authority being vested in incompetent and criminal natives.

Every American resident of the archipelago, irrespective of political affiliations, celebrated the election of Taft as the promise of a much needed change of policy. The framing of this new policy is expected to be entrusted largely to General Luke Wright, who is expected to continue to hold the war portfolio. General Wright was the one governor-general who held a tight rein on the Filipinos, and it was his opposition to the administration's policy of valuation, which resulted in his being transferred from Manila to Tokio.

An optimistic spirit has taken possession of the American colony since the election, and many new enterprises are being launched. A number of the leading merchants state that, but for their belief that President Taft will make radical changes in the government's policy, they would withdraw from the islands. It is generally believed that Governor-General Smith, who, in recent addresses to business men, has told them that the future would bring the relief they asked, has already received from Taft an outline of the new policy.

Mrs. McRaney's Experience.

Mrs. M. McRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes: "I was confined to my bed for three months with kidney and bladder trouble, and was treated by two physicians, but failed to get relief. No human tongue can tell how I suffered, and I had given up hope of ever getting well until I began taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. After taking two bottles I felt like a new person, and feel it my duty to tell suffering women what Foley's Kidney Remedy did for me." J. C. Perry.
