FRED FOGEL AGAIN IN THE LAWS TOILS

Fred Fogel, the man who was arrested in Mt. Angel several weeks ago, for threatening the life of Theresa Ackerman, and who, afterwards filed a complaint in the circuit court here against Marshal Poeppin, of Mt. Angel demanding damages for his alleged unwarranted arrest, is again in the toils in Portland.

Theresa Ackerman the young lady whom Fogel threatened to kill at Mt. Angel, if he did not marry him, filed the complaint in Portland for his arrest on the charge of threatening to kill, and Fogel was hauled before the court and compelled to put up bond to appear for trial next Tuesday before Judge Van Zante. The plaintiff, Theresa Ackerman, filed the complaint in the Portland courts owing to the fact that there was the first place the trouble began between her and Fogel.

In conversation with Attorney Brown, attorney for Poeppin, he said several threats had been made by Fogel since his return to Portland to the effect that he would kill Miss Ackerman and then himself. Fogel is a Hungarian, and has been boarding at a hotel in Portland in which several Hungarians are living, and, according to Attorney Brown's statements, he has been declaring his intentions toward the young girl to his countrymen.

It appears that Fogel became acquainted with Theresa Ackerman in the Hungarian hotel in Portland, at which place she was employed, and, becoming violently in love with her, tried in vain to win her consent to marriage. He then is said to have made threats against the girl's life, causing her to return to her home in Mt. Angel, where she could have the protection of her parents. Fogel followed her to Mt. Angel, where he again made violent threats, according to Marshal Poeppin's statements in the reply made to the complaint filed by Fogel after his arrest, but was prevented from carrying out his intentions. Fogel returned to Portland, where he was arrested last week by the police in that city, on Miss Ackerman's complaint.

MASQUERADE BALL AT ROLLER RINK

The most successful masquerade ball of the season took place last night at the Auditorium Roller rink and the attendance was large and enthusiastic. Many elegant and comical costumes were worn by the merry roller artists, and each one carried out his or her part to the best of their ability with the intention of winning one of the grand prizes. There were tramps galore on the floor, which would, had they not skinned so evenly and fast around the room have represented a perfect hobo camp with all the equipments carried by the knights of the box car. Beautiful Mexican señoritas attended by gallant princes; Happy Hooligan, members of royalty, grotesque devils in red and black; and many other characters were represented, all flying about the large floor with an occasional bump to live up the sport.

At 9 o'clock the judging of the contestants began. For the best and most comical costume, Irwin Lewis was given first prize, he representing a very natural beer barrel. His costume consisted of a large white barrel over which Salem beer bottle labels were plastered, and hanging down from the upper hoop was a beer bottle. Above the barrel was a large round box in which the beer man's head was thrust.

The first prize for the finest costume was given to a lady wearing a pretty costume and representing "Evening."

After the prizes had been awarded the racers who were to compete in the Tri-City races during the coming month, were introduced, they are Williams, Parker, Irvine, Reese and Welch.

The merry Christmas party was continued until 12 o'clock, and everyone was apparently satisfied and tired when the closing hour came.

Stock Safe and Birds Tame

Tom Caulfield and son, Earle, and Dick Kirk left today for Eugene where they will spend a few days with friends. Tommy and Dick are planning a monster duck hunt while at that place with Jay McCormick at his duck pond a few miles from Eugene. Due notice has been given to the farmers and their dogs in the vicinity of McCormick's duck lake of the arrival of the mighty hunters and all the loose stock will be gathered up and put under lock and key until after the gun and rod artists have had their hunt out. McCormick has sent information to his two Salem friends that he has been taking great pains with his feathered visitors and now has them tame enough to allow salt to be placed on their tails.

Out Next Christmas

Oscar A. Grim, of Baker City, was brought to the penitentiary this morning by Sheriff Ed Rand. He will serve a term of one year for obtaining money under false pretenses.

HUNGRY WORKINGMEN PARADE THE STREETS

(United Press Leased Wire.)

London, Dec. 26.—Stirred to action by the prevalence of poverty resulting from great numbers of unemployed workingmen in the metropolis and other large cities throughout Great Britain, charitable societies are planning today to call upon the city councils to provide relief.

The destitution of the unemployed was brought forcibly before the people by the Christmas holiday. Thousands of men paraded the streets of London, Glasgow and shipbuilding cities under a motto: "We want work." They were escorted by the police to prevent disturbances.

The Thames embankment last night was filled with homeless men seeking food and shelter from the Salvation Army, and the newspaper today print many acts of men being sentenced for stealing bread for families that are starving.
