DARRIN

MUST REMAIN

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Flushing, L. I., Dec. 31.—Leaning on the arm of her husband, General Hains, Mrs. Hains, mother of Thornton Jenkins Hains, entered Judge Crane's court room late this afternoon to give testimony that may save her son from an ignominious death.

Mrs. Hains, small and old and gray, was led to the witness chair by the general, who stood silently facing the curious throng in the court room.

She was dressed in black, and her face showed plainly the days and nights of anguish she has spent since the shooting of Annis by her son, Captain Peter C. Hains.

Tears streamed down her face as she recounted the boyhood and youth of the captain and the defendant, his brother. At times it was feared she would collapse, and only then did the general relax his rigid gaze to look wistfully toward his wife.

The mother testified to the mental condition of the captain, saying she believed him insane, and before the shooting had placed him in the care of Jenkins Hains.

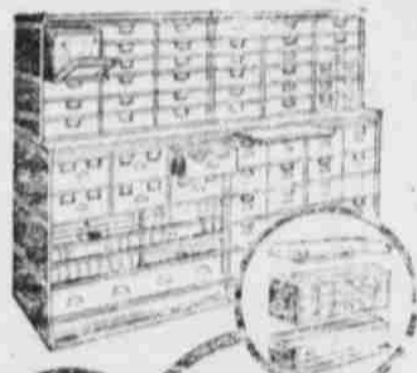

She said the captain had been a delicate youth and suffered from it. When in Washington last June she said, she feared he was crazy.

General Hains, after escorting Mrs. Hains from the stand, testified to the same effect, corroborating his wife's testimony.

At this juncture Judge Crane granted a continuance of the hearing until Monday on a plea of sickness urged by Attorney McIntyre of the defence. McIntyre promised to finish his case by next Monday.

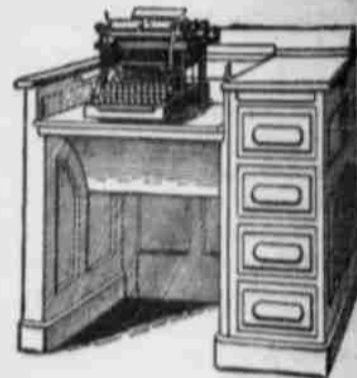

Before final adjournment Judge Crane admitted in evidence the written confession alleged to have been signed by Mrs. Claudia Haines which admits misconduct between herself and Annis.

At the close of the session Judge Crane emphatically told District Attorney Darrin that he could not withdraw from the prosecution at this juncture. Darrin, whose term

No Trace of Americans.
Rome, Italy, Dec. 31.—The American consulate here received dispatches today saying that no trace had been found of Arthur S. Cheney, the American consul at Messina, or of Mrs. Cheney. The report that 90 Americans were killed in the Hotel Tricacera at Messina is not true. There were only 90 guests in the hotel—all told. So far as is known only the proprietor and one guest escaped. The American embassy is endeavoring to find a trace of the American travellers who were in the stricken city but the officials at Messina wired this afternoon that it is impossible to trace anyone. Public Library Hours—After January 1st the city public library will be open from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m., except from 6 to 7.
