WOULD STOP PRINTING OF RACING ODDS

(United Press Leased Wire.) New York, Jan. 6.—Legislation to prevent newspapers of this state from printing and publishing racing odds is being prepared today by Senator Agnew for introduction before the lawmakers here. The action of the legislator follows a decision of the appellate division of the supreme court of New York, which held that the selling of advance information was not a violation of the Hart-Agnew racing law.

The senator, however, will frame his supplementary bill in such a way as not to interfere with the rights of individuals to make verbal bets.

TURKEY'S EXPERIMENT MAY FAIL UTTERLY

Constantinople, Jan. 6.—Just as was anticipated, the Turkish parliament, so far as it can be said to be divided along partisan lines at all, is splitting into factions dominated on one side by the allied Turks and Armenians and on the other side by the Greeks.

Of other nationalities represented in the national legislature a sufficient proportion are ranging themselves under the Turko-Armenian banner to give the allies a comfortable majority.

The division represents not alone racial but political differences of opinion. While making it clear, in every thing done and said, that they want no one to suspect them of reactionary tendencies, the Greeks may be considered as representing the Conservative element in the assembly.

For all of its members' protestations, there is an undercurrent of feeling that the Greeks are unfriendly to the new Turkish regime. They have never quite abandoned the hope of some day dominating the country, with conditions so shocking as in pre-revolution days they were so constantly anticipating an upheaval which would put them in power. Reform robs them of any such chance and it is at least hinted by their opponents that they would be glad, on this account of a return to despotism.

Religious feeling is hardly apparent. The Greeks indeed are Christians but the personnel of the Turko-Armenian party represents so many different creeds as to deprive it of a distinctly Mohammedan tone.

The senate should show an even larger reform majority than the chamber, appointments of its members having been dictated to the Sultan by the young Turkish committee and cabinet. There is a lurking suspicion that Abdul outgeneraled his advisors in some instances however and a fear that the upper chamber may develop a distinctly reactionary group as time progresses.

Among the reformers the conviction is becoming daily more firmly fixed that upon the right solution to the country's financial problem depends the success or failure of their experiment with constitutionalism.

Following years of official oppression the provinces have passed through three seasons of poor crops and so very frightful is the people's condition in many localities that the advisability of importing grain for sowing purposes is under discussion.

WIFE THINKS SULLIVAN DID NOT KILL HIMSELF

Coroner Clough received a letter this morning from Mrs. Tom Sullivan, wife of the Tom Sullivan who suddenly disappeared several days ago, and who, it was thought, committed suicide by jumping off the steel bridge here, in which she stated that she was not convinced that her husband had taken his own life, and that a probability exists that he may still live.

The letter made urgent requests to Coroner Clough to give the writer a clear description of the clothing which was found on the bridge where Sullivan is supposed to have jumped off. A description of the overcoat and the derby hat was given by Mrs. Sullivan in her communication which tallies with the garments now in the possession of Coroner Clough, and which are without doubt the clothes worn by Sullivan upon the day before they were found on the bridge.

Mrs. Sullivan's suspicion that her husband was not a suicide was based apparently on what she knew of Sullivan's actions while in Portland after leaving his home, although what he did there is not stated in the letter.

The coroner has learned nothing concerning Sullivan's disappearance but will send the wife all the information she asks.

Don't Blame Your Stomach

When Without Exertion Or Cost You Can Enjoy Meals And Cure Dyspepsia.

Don't blame your stomach or your luck when your meals declare war on your system.

When the stomach won't do its work it is because it cannot.

When foul smelling odors come from your stomach, when the head aches and the sourness of mouth every morning makes you hate your breakfast, when dreams and nightmare assail you, don't give up the fight.

This is the appeal of nature, and it should be heard.

Over-eating, late suppers, poorly chewed food, too rich pastries and underdone cooking are some of the causes of the stomach's ill health.

When the stomach is busy, it presses and churns all the liquid matter from food and with its juices dissolved into liquid form or pulp everything which comes into it.

If such food be poisonous it effects the juices attacks the stomach, goes into the blood and weakens the entire system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest a full meal easily without material assistance from the stomach. They will restock the gastric fluid with all the elements needed. They build up the blood, destroy sour taste, bad breath, belching, stomach and bowel trouble and quickly restore natural conditions.

One grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food in the stomach or in a glass vial without aid of the human digestive apparatus.

The method of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the methods of Nature.

They contain every requisite for the stomach and digestion. After a meal one of these little tablets when it enters the stomach mingles with the juices, attacks the food and digests it. It removes the fermented and decayed mass, lying stagnant there and eases the stomach at once.

It is wholly a question for you to solve. Your druggist will furnish Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets 50c the box, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.
