A LAW ASKED FOR BY FEDERAL LABOR

An Act.
Providing for the protection and safety of persons engaged in the construction, repairing, alteration, or other work, upon buildings, bridges, viaducts and other structures, or engaged in any work upon or about electrical wires, or conductors or poles, or supports, or other electrical appliances or contrivances carrying a dangerous current of electricity; or about any machinery or in any dangerous occupation, and extending and defining the liability of employers in any or all acts of negligence, or for injury or death of their employes, and defining who are the agents of the employer, and declaring what shall not be a defence in actions by employes against employers.

Be it enacted by the people of the state of Oregon:

Sec. 1. All owners, contractors, sub-contractors, corporations, or persons whatsoever, engaged in the construction, repairing, alteration, removal or painting of any house, building, bridge, viaduct, or other structure, or in the erection or operation of any machinery, or in the manufacture, transmission and use of electricity, or in the manufacture or use of any dangerous appliance or substance, shall see that all metal, wood, rope, glass, rubber, gutta percha, or other material whatever, shall be carefully selected and inspected and tested so as to detect any defects, and all scaffolding, staging, false work or other temporary structure shall be constructed to bear four times the maximum weight to be sustained by said structure, and such structure shall not at any time be overloaded or overcrowded; and that all scaffolding, staging or other structure more than 20 feet from the ground or floor shall be secured from swaying and provided with a strong and efficient safety rail or other contrivance, so as to prevent any person from falling therefrom, and all dangerous machinery shall be securely covered and protected to the fullest extent that the proper operation of the machinery permits, and all shafts, wells, floor openings and similar places of danger shall be enclosed, and all machinery other than that operated by hand power shall, whenever necessary for the safety of persons employed in or about the same or for the safety of the general public, be provided with a system of communication by means of signals, so that at all times there may be prompt and efficient communication between the employes or other persons and the operator of the motive power, and in the transmission and use of electricity of a dangerous voltage full and complete insulation shall be provided at all points where the public or the employes of the owner, contractor or sub-contractor transmitting or using said electricity are liable to come in contact with the wire, and dead wires shall not be mingled with live wires, nor strung upon the same support, and the arms of supports bearing live wires shall be specially designated by a color or other designation which is instantly apparent and live electrical wires carrying a dangerous voltage shall be strung at such distance from the poles or supports as to permit repair-men to freely engage in their work without danger of shock; and generally, all owners, contractors or sub-contractors and other persons having charge of, or responsible for, any work involving a risk of danger to the employes or the public, shall use every device, care and precaution which it is practicable to use for the protection and safety of life and limb, only by the necessity for preserving the efficiency of the structure, machine or other apparatus or device, and without regard to the additional cost of suitable material or safety appliance and devices.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of owners, contractors, sub-contractors, foremen, architects or other persons having charge of the particular work to see that the requirements of this act are complied with, and for any failure in this respect the person or persons delinquent shall, upon conviction of violating any of the provisions of this act, be fined not less than $100, nor more than $1,000, or imprisoned not less than three months, nor more than one year, or both, in the discretion of the court, and this shall not affect or lessen the civil liability of such person as the case may be.

Sec. 3. If there shall be any loss of life by reason of the neglects or failures or violations of the provisions of this act by any owner, contractor or sub-contractor, or any person liable under the provisions of this act, the widow of the person so killed, his lineal heirs or adopted children, or the husband, mother, or father, as the case may be, shall have a right of action without any limit as to the amount or damages which may be awarded.

Sec. 4. In all actions brought to recover from an employer for injuries suffered by an employe the negligence of a fellow servant shall not be a defence where the injury was caused or contributed to by any of the following causes, namely: Any defect in the structure, materials, works, plant or machinery of which the employer or his agent could have had knowledge by the exercise of ordinary care; the neglect of any person engaged as superintendent, manager, foreman, or other person in charge or control of the works, plant, machinery or appliances; the incompetence or negligence of any person in charge of, or directing the particular work in which the employe was engaged at the time of the injury or death; the incompetence or negligence of any person to whose orders the employe was bound to conform and did conform and by reason of his having conformed there to the injury or death resulted; the act of any fellow-servant done in obedience to the rules, instructions or orders given by the employer or any other person who has authority to direct the doing of said act.

Sec. 5. The contributory negligence of the person injured shall not be a defence, but may be taken into account by the jury in fixing the amount of the damage.

Sec. 6. In all actions for damages for death or personal injury, the jury shall be the judge of the law as well as the facts.

Sec. 7. The manager, superintendent, foreman or other person in charge or control of the construction of works or operation, or any part thereof, shall be held to be the agent of the employer in all suits for damages for death or injury suffered by an employe.

Sec. 8. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

ALL BECAUSE OF AN ELECTION BET

C. A. Rockhill and A. A. Englebart appeared before Judge Burnett yesterday morning with their respective attorneys Frank Holmes and J. G. Heltzel, and tried an appealed suit from the justice court. The suit was instituted by Rockhill against Englebart, alleging that Englebart had in his possession $20, turned over to him by the plaintiff for safekeeping until after a certain election the sum being bet on the proposition, and Rockhill and a man by the name of Frost being the parties putting up the money. It appears that Rockhill won the wager, and, upon demanding the money from Englebart, was refused it on the grounds that he (Englebart) had no knowledge of the whereabouts of the $20, and that his clerk took possession of it, and placed it in his safe. Attorney Heltzel, for Englebart, made a motion to dismiss the case on non-suit, but Judge Burnett ruled that sufficient evidence was at hand to warrant the jury considering the case at the first instance, which it did, and a verdict was brought in favor of the defendant, after the jury had been brought back and given more instruction.

Notwithstanding the matter involved in the suit being small, the legal points argued by the attorneys, were important and many. One of the features was that after the $20 wager had been turned over to Englebart's clerk, as alleged by the defendant, and placed in the safe belonging to Englebart, someone entered the store in which the safe was situated, and robbed it, taking along the election wager.

It took the jury six hours to reach a verdict.

Nerve Sick

If weak, worn-out, nervous, cannot sleep; have indigestion, headache, neuralgia or periodic pains, it is because your nerves are weak. It is the lack of nerve force that makes the stomach, heart, lungs, etc., work imperfectly—become sick. Dr. Miles' Nerve cures the sick when it restores nerve strength, and puts the power behind the organs to do their work.

"Almost three years I suffered from nervousness, indigestion, and palpitation of the heart. I could not eat or sleep with comfort, or walk or talk without suffering. Altogether I was in a bad condition. My doctor did not seem to do me any good. I had tried so many remedies that I did not have much hope of any of them doing me any good. Dr. Miles' Nerve was suggested by a friend. I got relief from the first, and after a few days I felt like a new person. It not only relieved my heart and nerves, but has invigorated my whole system. I am very grateful because since I have stopped using it, I have had absolutely no return of my old troubles."
