SALEM SHOWED ITS LOVE FOR LINCOLN

"WHERE THE JAP COMES THE WHITE MAN MUST MOVE AWAY"

GERMAN=AMERICANS HONOR LINCOLN AT OPERA HOUSE SPLENDID PROGRAM OF SONGS AND SPEECHES--BROWNELL'S BEAUTIFUL WORD PICTURE OF LINCOLN'S LIFE

The German-American Society honored the Lincoln Centennial with an elaborate program of speech and music. The opera house was crowded to the galleries with Salem's most substantial citizenship. Standing room was taken in the foyer as the curtain went up. Prof. von Jensen had prepared an elaborate variety of song and the Gesang Verein made its first appearance. 17 voices strong. They sang some of the grand old German songs and were recalled every time they appeared and closed with singing of "America" in which the entire audience joined in English. Mrs. Hinges got a recall for singing a patriotic song. She responded with the "Star Spangled Banner" that threw the audience into raptures of applause. F. G. Deckabach sang the Star

Song from Wagner's Tannhauser and was given an encore, responding with a sweet German love song that was again warmly applauded. Mr. Deckabach and Mrs. Hinges are the popular soloists of this city and would do honor to any city of much greater pretensions.

The German address by Rev. Hopf was a treat to lovers of the German language. He dealt with the fundamental trait of German character, the principle of freedom, that, as he beautifully and poetically pictured reached its highest apotheosis in Abraham Lincoln.

A large number of the audience understood every word, and the first public assemblage addressed in the German language in this city was several times brought to manifestations of applause as the splendid points of Lincoln's character were eloquently portrayed.

Rev. Hopf said it would be wrong to rest upon the blessings of freedom secured to us by the valor of the men who fought with Lincoln. He deplored the tendency to enact sumptuary laws regulating what people might eat or drink or wear. He was roundly applauded at the close.

The chorus singing was all without accompaniment and the voices blended in fine effect. The audience responded with generous applause and each of the songs was finely rendered.

Hon. Geo. C. Brownell captured the crowd at the start by saying that in 12 years' service in the Oregon senate he had never voted against any bill that the people of Salem wanted. (Applause.)

He pictured the humble circumstances of Lincoln's childhood, the hardships and adversities of youth the development of his character, by education, by conscience and liberty. That was why he was great. The orator touched the hearts of his audience from the start to finish. He said he was delighted to take even the slightest part in paying this honor to the great man of the '60s, who has won a place in the hearts of the whole world.

He described the great struggle for free soil in Kansas, the debate for control of Illinois, the struggle for the nomination for President in Chicago in 1860, and how his heart went back to the poor mother's grave on Pigeon creek in Indiana.

Brownell does not go in to win applause so much as he does to win the hearts of his hearers. He pictures things as his hearers like to hear them and have them presented, not from the standpoint of vanity and personal egotism.

His eulogy of Lincoln as the ideal of the common people from Plymouth Rock to the Pacific ocean. Reading telegrams suspending sentences against private soldiers, sweet words of sympathy for wives and widows, fathers and brothers who had dear ones to the front.

The German-American Society feels proud of its first public gathering and proud of the event that called it forth. Germans unite with all loyal and broad-minded Americans in doing homage to the great champion of the Republic. There was a large attendance of English-speaking citizens in the audience. On the stage sat the senior vice-commander of the Grand Army Post at Oregon City, Mr. J. F. Tufts, and Hon. E. M. Croisan and several other prominent citizens, and at the close many shook hands with the orators and congratulated them on their splendid addresses. Mrs. Brownell and their little son, accompanied the Oregon City lawyer and political leader from Clatskanie county, who returned to their home this morning.

CALIFORNIA CONGRESSMAN SAYS "BEWARE"

ASKS THE EAST TO STAND IN WITH THE COAST IN SHUTTING OUT JAPANESE

[United Press Leased Wire.]
New York, Feb. 13.—Members of the Lincoln Club of Brooklyn today are discussing a speech made before them last night by Congressman Julius Kahn, of California, in which the Californian appealed to his hearers to aid the Pacific coast in its fight against the inroads of Orientals. Kahn said in part: "We in the West appeal to you in our efforts to help us in this matter. If ever a narrow strip of land should be given over to the Orientals the white man, as sure as fate, would have to retire to the Mississippi river.

"Wherever these people (the Japanese) come, the white man must move away. The two races do not mix."

THIRTY BODIES WASHED ASHORE

Wellington, N. Z., Feb. 13.—Coast guards today patrolled the coast in the hope of picking up more bodies from the wrecked steamship Penguin which foundered last night off Cape Terawhiti. There is no hope that any of the 96 passengers and crew escaped drowning.

Thirty bodies were washed ashore during the night. One raft improvised by the crew was washed ashore and on it were a number of corpses.

JOHN T. MORGAN GETS WHAT J. P. SHOULD HAVE

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Pittsburg, Feb. 13.—Sixteen years in the penitentiary and fines amounting to $20,000 was the sentence imposed today on John T. Morgan, former tax collector of McKeesport Borough. Judge Shafer before whom Morgan pleaded guilty to charges of forgery and embezzlement, pronounced the sentence.

WASHINGTON IS PLAYING POLITICS

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Olympia, Wash., Feb. 13.—Today the situation in the senate seems to be 22 to 20 against the McManis local option bill and the "wet" are contending positively that they have strength enough to remove the drastic features of the bill which they assert means prohibition and to enact a local option bill which will give municipalities the right to determine whether they shall be "wet" or "dry" and the drys are using every effort to win one or more votes and their efforts are now directed against the higher educational institutions of the state. They threaten to vote against the appropriation for the schools unless the representatives from districts where the schools are situated will agree to support the McManis bill. This effect is directed particularly against the Spokane delegation and the direct threat is made that unless the Spokane senators support the McManis bill, the drys will vote to abolish the Cheney normal schools or else will vote down any appropriation for that institution.

HERE IS A REAL HARD LUCK STORY

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Seattle, Wash., Feb. 13.—While he lay in a room above the Great Northern saloon today suffering and weak from a badly sprained ankle, W. H. Sanford, a Northern Pacific yardman was attacked and beaten unmercifully by thugs who paid no attention to his pitiful condition, and washed up their deed by throwing him head-first out of a window 20 feet above the ground. Prior to this they rifled his pockets of all the money he had.

Aside from the legislative fight on local option, the institutions of higher education are mixed up in another attack. Acting Governor Hay said today that he is receiving complaints from large taxpayers throughout the state concerning alleged extravagances for education.

The governor has information from the tax commission that more than 10 per cent of all the direct taxes collected from this state go to the support of the state university, state college and three normal schools, and all of the institutions are asking for a considerably larger appropriation this year.

PASSING OF A NOTED CHARACTER

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 13.—Although he is showing remarkable vitality, E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, the noted turfman, is not out of danger following a sinking spell in the night. Dr. J. W. Trustworthy, who is attending the aged horseman, said today: "Mr. Baldwin is still seriously ill and his breathing was very difficult yesterday afternoon. He is sleeping peacefully this morning, and we hope to pull him through his illness."

Ran Over Mrs. McCook.
[United Press Leased Wire.]
New York, Feb. 13.—Walter Schuman, a chauffeur, surrendered himself to the authorities this afternoon saying that he drove the automobile which killed Mrs. E. McCook, the wife of General McCook.

HOLD UP FAST TRAIN AND GET COIN

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Denver, Colo., Feb. 13.—After stopping a Denver and Rio Grande fast mail train by means of a ruse, two masked men held up and robbed the mail coach . . . thousands of dollars worth of registered mail last night near Military Junction and today an armed posse in an automobile is in pursuit. During the robbery one of the men bombarded the passengers.

stopped and pointed a revolver at the engineer and fireman and ordered them to raise their hands.

As the mail train last night was reaching Military Junction, which is near here, the engineer in the white glare of the headlight saw a man prostrate on the track ahead while another was standing over him frantically waving his arms. The train was stopped abruptly by the use of emergency brakes and the train men started to investigate.

Other train men who came out to investigate the cause of the delay were sent scurrying back to shelter of the coaches under a fusillade of bullets. Both bandits were masked. One of the robbers kept a continuous fusillade of bullets from his revolver which tended to cow the frightened passengers. The other entered the mail coach and compelled a clerk to point out the registered mail. The loot was placed in a sack and dropped from a window.

As soon as the news of the hold-up reached Denver, a posse was formed and a number of armed men in an automobile started in pursuit.

COUNTRY FLOODED WITH BOGUS COINS

Portland, Or., Feb. 13.—Leaving a trail of $5 and $10 bogus gold pieces behind them all the way from San Francisco to Seattle, a gang of clever counterfeiters have so far eluded the federal authorities on the coast, and Uncle Sam's local agents have advised business men saloonkeepers and lodging house keepers to carefully examine coins before accepting them.

the office of the government secret service, and the detectives are quite sure, judging from their number, that the counterfeiters left several hundred dollars in the bogus coin in Portland alone.

Secret Service Agent Steve Connelley says the coins he saw had been so cleverly made that only an expert could detect that they were not genuine. The majority of the complaints so far have been received from the lodging house keepers.

During the past few days complaint has followed complaint into
