STATE NORMAL SCHOOL BOARD OF REGENTS VOTES TO DISCONTINUE THE NORMAL SCHOOL AS STATE INSTITUTIONS-- SENIOR CLASSES TO BE ALLOWED TO GRADUATE

Governor Chamberlain, Superintendent Ackerman, Secretary of State Benson, Regents Ayer, Hofer and Maler were present.

Governor Chamberlain stated that the only legislation had been to turn over the property at Drain. The other schools, he stated, were left without appropriations.

Secretary Starr read telegram from Weston student body saying they would support the school, and asked that they be continued.

Secretary of State Benson and Governor Chamberlain favored allowing the faculty to continue each school without expense to the state. Mr. Starr reported that Drain had a cash balance on hand. Monmouth has $229. Ashland has money to pay the January salary.

Secretary Benson favored turning the property over to the districts for public school purposes or as private normal schools.

Mr. Hofer offered a resolution that the normal schools be discontinued, but such as raised funds to complete the present semester be allowed to graduate their senior classes next June, and that they receive diplomas from the Board of Regents. This was adopted.

President Resler was invited to address the board. He stated that his school had been running for two years without a dollar, he could at least be heard. It cost about $50 a year tuition to carry on a private school. At a meeting Sunday 110 students had raised $1400. A boy who had been living in a tent and doing his own cooking the past year was president of the senior class, headed the list with $25. They raised more than was needed to run the school. Monmouth people had already put up $7000. The students spent $700 a week at Monmouth. That meant $5000 to the end of the year. If the state, as an unnatural parent, had kicked out the starving students, it was up to them. That congregation Sunday night gave $927.50 and others added $100. Independence people gave $230 more. They felt they had no longer to support the good name of the state. They were supporting public education, not Oregon. He felt a personal responsibility in getting young people to come to a state normal school. He answered the charge of graft and incompetence, as made against the normals. Colleges had long been defined in Oregon as any institution that measured up to the standard of a high school. The great newspapers of Portland that fought against higher education had failed in their fight to crush the State University, to stop high schools, but had succeeded against the normal schools. But his faculty would compare with any institution in the state. Mr. Buckham had been sixty years in school work. He had served in New York, Kentucky and Illinois. He had a noble record of a lifetime. He was falling from age. He was denounced as a grafter by the Oregonian, the Portland Journal and President Bowerman, and resented the charges that had been made broadcast in the press. He had been paying his faculty $50 a month, and felt ashamed of it. He made a showing that he had enough money donated to run the school to the end of the year without a cent contributed by the state of Oregon. President Resler was deeply affected, and the board was very much impressed by his recital of sacrifices made.

Mr. Ayre, of Portland, offered a resolution that salaries of Secretary Star and Stenographer Cowles be discontinued. Adopted.

The board then adjourned.

WOULD REGULATE SKIRTS AS WELL AS HAT-PINS

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Milwaukee, Feb. 25.—Because the court held that a lady does not elevate her skirts 14 inches above her shoe tops, Mrs. May Walters today paid $5 fine.

Patrolman Beckard appeared in Judge Neelan's court as an expert witness on etiquette. He testified that no "lady" would expose fourteen inches of attractive hoseley while on the street, and clinched his argument by swearing that the defendant "wore wan of thin peek-a-hoo waists." The court upheld the officer's contention.

MISS LIZZIE KISSEE USES HER SNICKER-SNEE

Salem, Ark., Feb. 25.—After driving a dirk into the body of John W. Jones, whom she accused of betraying her, Miss Lizzie Kissee is under arrest today. Jones is believed to be fatally wounded.

Jones was indicted at the instance of the girl. The court late yesterday sustained a demurrer he interposed. The girl was in the court room and upon hearing the decision uttered a wild cry and before any one could interfere attacked the man with a knife.

Not the Right Pony

A telephone call came into the sheriff's office yesterday from a resident South of the city, saying a leekskin pony had been stolen, along with a good bridle and saddle. Constable Ira Hamilton, learning of the theft, took a look for the outfit and brought in a youngster riding such a horse, but investigation showed he was not the party wanted.
