Daniel Sully's new play, "The Matchmaker," in which he will appear at the Grand opera house Monday, March 15, is a comedy drama in three acts by Jerrold Shepard. The play was written expressly for Mr. Sully, and the character of Father Daly fits him perfectly. It is remarkable for its dramatic strength deverness of construction and the richness and abundance of its comedy, as well as fidelity to nature of its character drawing. Like "The Parish Priest," it deals with the relations of a pastor and his flock, but there the resemblance ends ; this pastor has a very hard time of it, and some of the rough, lawless denizens &. C. DeWITT & CO., Chicago, III. of Boom City, Idaho, give him a great deal of trouble and anxiety. In the end, however, the good father succeeds in bringing the community around to his views, restoring order, straightening out a number of tangled love affairs; showing some hard ened sinners the orror of their ways. of what he considers his duty.
