SUPREME COURT OPINIONS

The supreme court handed down nine decisions this morning on motions for rehearing and general appeals.

State of Oregon, respondent, vs. Jos. Anderson, appellant, appealed from the circuit court of Multnomah county, Earl C. Bronaugh, judge, affirmed by Justice King.

This is a well known case where Anderson was tried and convicted of shooting Harry M. Logan in Portland while Logan was crossing the Fourth street railroad bridge at midnight. Evidence tended to show in the lower court that Anderson attempted to hold up Logan and upon Logan's resistance shot him. Anderson was sentenced to hang at the penitentiary here and an appeal was taken to the supreme court by his attorneys on the grounds that a motion was denied them striking out testimony given during the trial by a man named Helts, a former cellmate of Anderson. In testifying, Helts related a portion of his conversation with Anderson in which he said Anderson told him he (Anderson) had to kill Logan or get caught by the police. The supreme court holds, however, there was no error made by the lower court and so affirms its opinion. Sentence will again be pronounced on Anderson upon the arrival of the mandate in Portland.

W. G. Bohn, doing business under the name of Mt. Scott Lumber Company, respondents, vs. W. E. Wilson and T. S. Lee, appellants, appealed from the circuit court of Multnomah county, C. U. Gantenbien, judge, affirmed by Justice Bean.

The Giant Powder Company, appellants, vs. Oregon Western Railroad Company and C. E. Lora Company, respondents, appealed from the circuit court of Douglas county, J. W. Hamilton, judge; motion allowed and appeal dismissed; opinion per curiam.

E. D. Thompson, respondent, vs. Robert Colvin, appellant, appealed from the circuit court of Josephine county, H. K. Hanna, judge, affirmed by Justice Eakin.

J. N. Jones, respondent, vs. J. D. Short, John Dibblee and W. C. Lee, appellants, appealed from the circuit court of Columbia county, T. A. McBride, judge; affirmed by Justice Eakin.

John Mitchell et al., appellants, vs. City of Portland et al., respondents, appealed from the circuit court of Multnomah county, M. C. George, judge; petition for rehearing reversed by Justice Eakin.

Bertha F. Crosby, respondent, vs. Portland Railway Company, appellants, appealed from the circuit court of Multnomah county; petition for rehearing denied by Justice King.

Wm. W. Brown, appellant, vs. W. Z. Moss, respondent, appealed from the circuit court of Lake county, H. L. Benson, judge; reversed and remanded for a new trial by Chief Justice Moore.

State of Oregon, respondent, vs. H. M. Coss, appellant, appealed from the circuit court of Jackson county, H. K. Hanna, judge; decision of the lower court reversed and a new trial ordered by Justice Bean.

SENATOR RAYNER VOICES DEMOCRATIC IDEAS

[United Press Leased Wire.] Washington, April 27.—Declaring that the people have been fooled by the promises of the Republican party, which has revised the tariff to suit itself and the American Protective League, Senator Indore Rayner of Maryland created a sensation on the floor of the senate today.

"The people have been fooled again as they will be fooled until eternity unless federal taxation is reduced from the contamination of politics and the combinations that practically own the government," shouted Rayner.

He then analyzed the Payne bill and charged that while the schedules were reduced in some instances they had been raised in others so the reduction is not effective.

Trust oppression will not be relieved by the contemplated changes in the present rates, he declared, and offered a strong argument favoring the opening of all ports and bringing them into competition with the whole world.

He praises tariff for revenue only and said that he favored the lowest possible rate on necessities with a high rate on luxuries.

PORTLAND ACTRESS DIES ON STREET

[United Press Leased Wire.] Missoula, Mont., April 27.—One of the strangest cases that has ever come under the notice of local authorities is being investigated today by the coroner, following the death of Miss Ethel Smith, an actress whose home was in Portland.

While walking on the street late last night the young woman was suddenly seized with a mysterious illness and was carried into a nearby hotel. She lost consciousness and died a few minutes later. Physicians who examined her are unable to explain the attack and the cause of death may not be determined until an autopsy is held. No one who can throw any light on the mystery can be located by the police.

Miss Smith, who was 31 years old, had been traveling with theatrical companies in the east and was on her way to visit her mother in Portland when she fell a victim to the fatal illness.

JUDGE OLSEN SAYS "YOUSE MUST BE GOOD"

[United Press Leased Wire.] Portland, Or., April 27.—If Mrs. E. W. Youse should decide at any time to greet her husband, who is inferior to her physically, at the door of their home with a right hook to the jaw and, as good measure, a few stiff kicks in the ribs after he is down for the count, her action will have the stamp of judicial approval.

When Youse appeared in court on complaint of his wife yesterday his swollen face indicated that he had already gone through such an experience. Mrs. Youse explained that he returned home on last payday without any money and that she gave him a sound thrashing, assisted by relatives.

"That was right," ruled Judge Olson. "Whenever he comes home intoxicated administer a few blows a la Jeffries without mercy. This court instructs you to that effect."

"I'll do it, your honor," replied Mrs. Youse, with a defiant look at her little husband, who promised to be good.

KERMIT AND HIS FATHER RECOVER

[United Press Leased Wire.] Nairobi, British East Africa, April 27.—Both Colonel Roosevelt and his son Kermit had recovered from their indisposition today and the ex-president was astray early. He made light of his illness of yesterday and declared that he would not let the kermit get the best of him again. Kermit declared that he was feeling in fine shape.

Colonel Roosevelt hunted for a short time today and shot two bucks. They were not particularly good specimens. The real hunting will not begin for a couple of days, when all members of the party have become acclimated.

JAILED UNDER CHARGE OF BUYING STOLEN GOODS

Constable R. C. Kelsey, of Woodburn district, brought James Rice to this city last night and turned him over to Sheriff Harry Minto on a commitment to the county jail, to await action of the circuit court. Rice is charged with buying stolen goods, and after an examination before Justice of the Peace T. F. Hayes, of Woodburn, he was held to answer the charge in the circuit court. His bonds were fixed at $500, which he was unable to secure.

SMUGGLERS GET THE BETTER OF UNCLE SAM

San Francisco, April 27.—Under the direction of Special Agent Frank Johnson of the treasury department, officials are today making strenuous efforts to locate five boxes supposed to contain valuable silks, lace and gowns, which are believed to have been shipped to this city by the syndicate of smugglers whose conspiracy to defraud the customs officers recently was unearthed.

Two of these boxes are said to have been consigned to the firm of Taft & Penoyer of Oakland. Johnson received information from the New York officials that the boxes were supposed to be on the way to this city. Despite the unremitting vigilance of the local customs officials the consignment was not located when it arrived and has now disappeared mysteriously. It is thought that confederates of the gang in this city effected the removal of the boxes during shipment across the bay.

Taft & Penoyer stated that no shipment from France was expected for their steamer, and that no boxes answered the description of those sought have entered their warehouses. They have offered their services to the officers in the attempt to discover the whereabouts of the smuggled goods.

According to the prevalent belief in customs circles, the government was defrauded of between $250,000 and $500,000 by the syndicate. Prominent business concerns in the United States and well known Americans returning from trips abroad have been made the innocent foils of the wily smugglers. Every effort is being made to learn the identity of the supposed confederates at the Pacific coast end of the underground road.

Of Importance to Seed-Buyers

There is no business in the world which KNOWLEDGE and EXPERIENCE on the part of the seller means so much to the BUYER as in the SEED BUSINESS.

Coupled with a well settled conviction of the principles on which a seed business should be conducted, the exercise of these qualifications affords the greatest protection the purchaser has against disappointment and loss.

Many years devoted to the buying and selling of seeds have given us a knowledge of the best varieties.

A BLOODLESS DUEL IN OKLAHOMA

Bartlesville, Okla., April 27.—The latest thing in bloodless duels became public here today when it was learned that Harry D. Lanham, a newly rich oil producer, and Albert R. Harrington, a lively man, spent several hours in a room over the Lanham stable awaiting the return of a mutual friend who had taken with him pistols with which the men were to have fought a duel. After waiting until dawn both men concluded that their mutual second had no intention of returning and the duel was off. The cause of their difference is said to be of a domestic nature.

Lanham and Harrington met recently in the street and blazed away at each other until their revolvers were empty but no damage was done except to the surrounding landscape. That duel was said to have been the result of a pistol duel between their wives.

After the shooting they sent each other challenges and named Emmett Dalton as the third person to attend them in a duel to the death. Just before the duel Dalton called upon each to hand over his gun, under a pretext of wishing to inspect the firearms. Dalton then left and has not been seen since.

IS DIAMOND MAKER A DIAMOND FAKIR?

[United Press Leased Wire.] Paris, April 27.—The French courts are getting necessary witnesses together as rapidly as possible for a review of the case of Henri Lemoine, the "diamond-maker," who after squeezing $320,000 out of Sir Julius Wernher, of the De Beers Diamond company, was arrested for fraud, gave the officers the slip, kept out of sight for nearly a year, was sentenced in his absence to ten years imprisonment and finally fell into the detective hands again recently while at dinner in a Paris restaurant.

Although the French law permits the trial of an accused man during his absence it also permits a re-hearing or an appeal. Lemoine appealed and a correctional tribunal will hear the case.

The "diamondmaker" has been perfectly cool since his arrest and declares he will have no difficulty in proving his innocence.

Of his travels, under the name of Hans Leitner, in Southeastern Europe, he talks freely, but what he was doing in London, whence he says he came to Paris, is a mystery. He refuses to discuss this trip further than to say that he was "in business."

The authorities' efforts to learn whether he has saved any of the $320,000 he got from Wernher have been unavailing. In his actual possession he had little money when arrested. There is a strong suspicion, however, that he has hidden a considerable sum.

Lemoine still insists that he can make diamonds if he chooses, but he refuses to explain why the "diamond formula" he left behind when he fled was absolutely worthless.

Wernher does not seem at all mortified at having been taken in by the "diamond maker." He explained today that there is always a possibility of the discovery of the secret of "diamond" making, and that it is necessary for his firm to guard against such an event.
