WHOLE LOTS OF METHOD IN THE MADNESS THAT RESORTS TO ROBBERY

YOUNG SMITH, WHO UNDERTOOK TO HOLD UP HINGES JEWELRY STORE--HAD MADE CUTE ARRANGEMENTS FOR HIS GET-AWAY

From the investigation following the nocturnal robbery attempted by A. J. Smith in Hinges' Jewelry store yesterday, it develops that young Smith had planned a very neat "get-away," quite apart from the usual procedure of bandits, and it was only the premature return of Mr. Hinges that prevented what would likely have been a very successful diamond cleanup.

It will be remembered that Smith, undisguised, entered the store on Commercial street at 12:30, held up Clerk Neugebauer at the point of a revolver, looted the cash register of $30, tried to make the clerk open the safe—to which he did not know the combination—and then sent him to the window for a tray of diamonds, which was there on exhibition.

Mr. Hinges, who chanced to be passing, observed the clerk taking the diamonds from the window, and decided to enter, and, if possible, assist his employee in making a sale, which might be an important one.

On entering he was confronted by Smith, who presented his gun. Hinges slammed the door, rushed to the street, gave the alarm, and Smith, who ran down the alley, was captured by a trio of men, who unhesitatingly pursued him.

A little over a month ago A. C. Smith, the bandit's father, occupied an office above the bank, but gave it up. Two weeks later officials of the bank, which is but next door to the jewelry store, went up stairs to see in what condition the room was. To their surprise they found a new, neatly fitted Yale lock in the door. A number of keys were tried, but none fitted, and it was not desired to spoil the door by a forcible entry.

and there seemed no immediate prospect of renting the room and it was left locked, and no more attention was paid to it.

It now develops that the younger Smith had a key to the lock, and has occupied the room at times, also that he was up there yesterday morning just before the attempt at robbery, and that he left the door ajar so that no noise might be made as he gained a quick entrance. His plan was to dump the diamonds and jewelry into his flower sack, escape through the rear door to the alley, lock it after him, ascend to the room over the bank, and there quietly wait until the noise of the first pursuit died away. His plan to conceal himself within a few feet of the scene of his crime was daringly ingenious, but it probably would have been effective.

The elder Smith states that his son has been living with him for over three months since his return from Alaska, and that during that time he abstained from liquor until last Friday night. Then, his father says, he began drinking heavily and became wild, violent and irrational.

The elder Smith says his son is always "crazy" when drinking, and on Sunday night he seriously contemplated having him arrested and locked up until he should be sobered, but he adds: "I hadn't the heart to do it."

Yesterday morning the elder Smith states his son answered a telephone call from his daughter at 11:30, said to the instrument: "All right, I'll come over," and went out. Thinking everything was all right, and that his son had quieted down from the effects of his debauch, the elder Smith went home, and did not return to his office until 1 p. m., at which time his boy was in jail.

The young bandit will be in court this afternoon, and he will unquestionably be held to answer for the robbery. His escape at the hands of a jury is considered impossible under the circumstances related. His careful and intelligent plans for escape are considered to preclude the possibility of the admission of an insane plea—the only one upon which he could go free.

THE CIGARETTE GOT IN ITS WORK

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Oakland, Cal., April 28.—Fire, believed to have originated from a cigarette thrown into a strawpile, burned to the ground a sheepshed F. Camea Packing Company, at Green and 150 tons of hay, owned by the and SixtyFourth streets, this morning. Several of the employees of the packing company were engaged in driving a band of sheep from the corral when the fire started, and a general alarm was sounded. By the time the fire apparatus, maintained by the packing company at the stock yards, arrived, the fire had gained too great headway to be controlled, and the sheds and hay were destroyed.

Camea estimates his loss at $5500. Of this amount $2500 is placed as the value of the sheds, which were insured at $1500. The hay was recently brought from the Nevada alfalfa fields at a cost of $20 per ton.

WOMEN MAY RUN AS INDEPENDENTS

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Sacramento, Cal., April 28.—It is the opinion here that a plan suggested by C. W. Haub, registrar of voters in this county, will make possible the candidacy of women for county school superintendencies, despite the provision in the new primary law which may prevent them from filing petitions. Haub's plan provides for the candidacy of the women independent of party affiliations. It is possible, according to this suggestion, for the candidate to stand as an independent and for the party whose support she is to be given to refuse to nominate for that office. The suggestion is receiving the consideration of the state school officials.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS PROMISE TO BE GOOD

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Oakland, Cal., April 28.—With the object of enforcing the anti-high school fraternity law prescribed by the legislature, which goes into effect Saturday, the board of education of this city has authorized the printing of blanks to be signed by every student of the local high school to the effect that his affiliation with any secret society has been discontinued.

SO MANY SUFFER WITH INDIGESTION AND STOMACH TROUBLE.

Does it ever occur to you how busy that little stomach of yours is? It actually only holds three pints, though in one year you force it to take in 2500 pounds of material, digest it and prepare it for assimilation to the blood. Do you wonder at the number of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble? You crowd it with steaks and pastry, irritate its juices with spices and acids and expect this little four-ounce mill to do its work.

Is there any wonder that your food passes undigested, or lays like a lump of lead in the stomach? That everything you eat turns to acid, stomach gas and stomach poison, putrefying the intestines and digestive canals, causing biliousness, headaches, dizziness and indigestion heartburn, nauseous breath, constipation and other more dangerous symptoms?

Call your disease what you will—indigestion, gastritis, nervousness, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, etc.—you know the real name, the real disease is fermentation of the food you eat—a sour stomach, which belches gas and eructs undigested food or causes a feeling of nausea and miserableness.

All these miseries vanish promptly when you stop this food fermentation. Take fifty cents to your pharmacist for a case of Pepp's Dispepsin. Eat a triangle, and five minutes later your stomach should—that is, turn every bite you eat into bodily nourishment and without you realizing that you have a stomach. One triangle will digest all the food you eat without the aid of the stomach, because it contains just the elements found in a good, strong, healthy stomach.
