O.A.C BAND CONCERT WAS FINE

MUSIC SPLENDID AND AUDIENCE PLEASSED

Salem people had an opportunity of hearing one of the best military bands in the state at the Grand opera house last night when the boys from the O. A. C. made their second appearance on their short concert trip through the valley. They rendered a delightful program of entirely high-class music of sufficient variation to please all tastes, and although they might have been slightly disappointed in the size of the audience, could not possibly have been with the enthusiasm which it showed. Responses for almost every number were demanded, and in every instance were as well received as the original numbers. The singing of Mrs. Genevieve Baum-Gaskins was a distinct treat, and was the signal for prolonged applause. Her number "Carmena" was followed by a lighter number as a recall. The trombone solo of Edwin Woodcock and the tuba solo by J. R. Luper were equally well received. Probably the most pleasing of the band numbers was the "Anvil Chorus" from "Il Trovatore" by Verdi, with an anvil accompaniment. Splendid musicianship characterized the entire concert, and is largely due to the able direction of Conductor Beard and also to the united efforts of the students to make it an organization of which not only its college town but the whole state which it represents can be proud of. The program given last night follows:

- March, "Regimental Pride"....Heed Overture, "Barber of Seville" Rossini
- Trombone solo "La Grandier" Hardy Edwin Woodcock
- Idyl, "Mill in the Forest"....Ellenberg
- "Old Kentucky Home"....Dalbey (Variation for all instruments.) Intermission.
- Grand Selection from Faust....Gounod Soprano solo, "Carmena"....Wilson Genevieve Baum-Gaskins.
- Anvil Chorus, "Il Trovatore"....Verdi Tuba solo, "Happy Thought"....Baseler J. R. Luper.
- March, "Lewis and Clark Centennial"....Barnes

BRANDENBERG WILL RETURN TO NEW YORK

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., May 12.—Broughton Brandenburg, whose sensational flight from New York following the publication of the posthumous Cleveland letters ended in his arrest here nearly three weeks ago, left today for New York in the custody of New York detectives. Brandenburg is accused of grand larceny by trick and device by the New York Times, to whom he sold the no w famous posthumous Cleveland letters. Brandenburg's decision to give up the fight against extradition came as a surprise to the police and to the New York detectives. Brandenburg today appeared confident of his final acquittal and declared that he expects complete vindication. "By fighting extradition here," he said, "I might be able to escape returning to New York, but the charge would still stand against my name. I intend to return and I feel confident that a trial will result in my complete vindication." Brandenburg and Sergeant Fitzsimmons, one of the officers who will guard him on the return trip, are old time friends.

PREFERRED THE STAGE TO $11,000,000

[United Press Leased Wire.]
New York, May 12.—Having given up $11,000,000 for her love of the stage, Mrs. George Whittell, Jr., divorced wife of a young San Franciscan, is rehearsing today for the production in which she will appear. The Whittells were divorced three years ago, two years after their marriage. Recently, it is understood, they were near a reconciliation. Suddenly Mrs. Whittell, who was Josephine Cunningham, decided that she would like to return to the stage, but her former husband objected. She came to New York, and he wired her that if she did not accede to his request to remain in private life, she need never expect to remarry him. Showing how little she cared about millions, Mrs. Whittell reported for rehearsal yesterday afternoon.

SALEM FISHING PARTY HIT HARD

Two auto parties went after trout on the Little Neetsuca leaving Salem Saturday at 9 a. m., and reaching Three Rivers in about six hours. That night rains set in and the whole party was drenched to the skin, and never saw a dry moment again until on the return trip Tuesday, when they got out into the valley at Wamamina. They reached the city last night about 9 o'clock. One party was made up of Geo. G. Bingham with his Buick, and carrying H. P. Pinto, W. J. Culver and E. Lafore. The other party was made up of Hauser Bros. with their Chalmers Detroit, and Wm. Walton, Jr., and a traveling man by the name of Brokenback, or his back was nearly broken when he got back. Going up and down the mountains in the rain, on slippery clay roads was an awful test of the machines and the whole party express surprise that they are home alive. They made up on irrigation and excitement what they lacked on fish. The autoists were tempted to say some harsh words to the farmers who stood by the fences and grinned at them working through the mud, making it harder to bear to think the foxy tiller of the soil was being blessed with water worth a dollar a minute.

Swartz and James were bound over to the grand jury this morning in the justice court on the charge of allowing a minor to come into their saloon in this city. There was no testimony given by the witnesses for the defense, and after Attorney Brown asked for more time in which to prepare for the case, and a refusal on the part of Assistant Attorney Walter Winslow, the matter was turned over to the action of the grand jury. Owing to the evidence on the part of the state being meager
and rather shaky—in fact not enough
to determine any phase of the case,
the defendants were let go on their own recognisance.
