

NURSERY SALES SHOW INCREASE IN ORCHARDS

The business of the Oregon Nursery Company of Salem is a very good indication of the activity along orchard lines. It is one of the oldest and biggest nurseries on the coast and is known from Alaska to Lower California, their shipments going in carload lots to British Columbia, Washington, Eastern Oregon and Idaho. Their local trade too is immense. Asked a day or two ago concerning the activity in tree planting the manager said:

"Last year was the greatest the nurseries of the northwest ever experienced, but this year will equal if not exceed it, although I am hardly in position to say how great the movement is. As far as we are concerned the demand has far exceeded the supply and we could not begin to fill our orders. We have had a fine local trade and judging by sales the orchard area is increasing rapidly. Of course the biggest demand is for winter apples, probably always will be, for they have been in demand ever since Eve put her baby teeth in the first one, and the fact that they can be kept fresh the year around will make them always the standard fruit, king and queen both, of all fruits. Prunes are also in good demand but coming next to the apple of late years in nursery stock sales is the English walnut. The sales of this stock are steadily increasing, and it cannot be long until the walnut crop will cut a considerable figure with orchardists as a money producer. Experiments have shown that they thrive well and yield well and there are few crops nicer to grow, handle and care for than the English walnut."

Oregon grown walnuts are already on the market and a few years will see the Willamette valley not only supplying the entire northwest but shipping them to the middle west. With the entire product of the nurseries insufficient to supply the demand it is certain that the area in orchards is growing very fast.

and Salem this year, as always, will maintain her reputation as "The Cherry City of the World."

The prune crop will also be excellent; they were nipped slightly by the frost but every grower the reporter talked with seemed to think this was a benefit rather than an injury, as it helped thin out the fruit, but still left an abundance, enough indeed, that they will still require thinning and this will make a bigger, better and higher priced prune. While all assert there will be at least an average crop, many maintain it will be better even than last year, both in quantity and quality.

Small fruits were unimpaired and already the market is well supplied with fine strawberries, and lovers of gooseberry pie, of whom the writer is two, can get the tart little green berries home grown. It would seem absurd to an eastern man to even think about anything being hurt by the cold weather we had here last winter because at its lowest the thermometer only registered a few degrees below the freezing point, 24 above being the record here.

Of loganberries and black raspberries there will be the usual big crop—enough for everybody and tons for the cannery.

There were 1000 three-linkers in the parade at Albany Wednesday afternoon.

ALL KINDS OF FRUIT WILL YIELD BIG CROPS

There has been considerable talk concerning the cool weather that has prevailed during the spring and as to the effect of the unusually severe winter, for Oregon, on the fruit trees. A Journal man has made a careful canvass of the matter, getting the views of many prominent growers, and also of the big shippers, and the general opinion seems to be about as follows:

Apples and cherries were not at all hurt by the cold spell, nor were they damaged by frost. It is too early yet to make any estimate of the apple crop though all indications point to at least an average yield. As to cherries the trees are literally loaded,

WONDERFUL SHOWING OF COPPER MINES-- BETTER THAN GOLD

MINING HISTORY SHOWS THAT COPPER MINES DO NOT PLAY OUT, BUT ONCE OPENED ARE STEADY AND PERMANENT DIVIDEND PRODUCERS

The people of Salem and Marion county are very clever and intelligent, but they do not realize nor do they understand what a vast amount of wealth there is stowed away right at their door in the Santiam.

If they did, they would not be chasing off into remote and unknown districts, after some "wildcat" mining investment, that they know nothing of, and they wouldn't be going crazy over some "fairy tale" chirped off by some glib-tongued little upstart of promoter.

Neither would they be going wild after "wireless" and the like, but they would come to the rescue and help develop our own industries at "home." They would invest every dollar they could spare in these mines in the Santiam.

This would tend to the creation of more business at home, and stimulate what business they already have. It would bring thousands of new people in, who would bring their money with them, which would help business in every line of industry.

This is a glorious opportunity you have for investing your money, and we believe that in just a few years this stock will be worth many hundred times par, if it is, look what enormous dividends it will pay you.

There is no known business that will beat copper mining as an investment. There is more money made in copper than any other branch of industry.

Yet, dear people, are rarely ever given an opportunity to invest in copper mines, because there is where nearly all of the money in mining is made. They are gobbled up by the capitalist and worked by close corporation.

If they have any gold mining stocks and other "wild cat" schemes, they will hunt you up, take you into their confidence, as it were, and load you up for bear with their "get-rich-quick" gold mining, good for nothing, shin plasters.

They never offer you any copper stock. Not on your "tin-type." Just look here!

These comparisons below of copper and gold mines of the 11 leading mines of the world in each class will show you where the bulk of the money in mines is made, and prove to you what I'm telling you is true:

Copper.	Dividends Paid to Date.	Gold.	Dividends Paid to Date.
Calumet & Hecla, Mich	$107,850,000	Homestake, S. D.	$17,445,350

Total	$358,074,190	Total	$53,695,984

I am offering to you an investment in one of the best looking copper mines in the country, "The Electric Mine." It looks a great deal better than many of the mines mentioned in the above list at the same stage of development, and on account of its small capital I believe it will be able to pay larger dividends than most of them.

The big custom smelter is going to be built right in our midst, thus insuring cheap delivery of our ore.

Come, invest your money in copper stock at home, and in a mine that is good to look at. Buy now, while it is cheap; only 25 cents per share, and you'll have to hurry, as the stock is going skyward pretty soon on account of the recent big strike in the mine. Write, phone or call at office for particulars. Yours truly,
D. K. MAY, Fiscal Agent,
478 State street, Salem, Or.
Phone Main 149.
