but they weren't extra good, so we paid a little more to give a little value and a great deal more satisfaction. All the pants have the "seat of wear," and that's where the wear is the hardest. Really two pairs of pants sewed together, because there's a lining all the way through, just as in a coat. It's not heavy enough to make them unwearable on the hottest days, but it's strong enough to double the service.

Few, if any cities, has so beautiful a cemetery as Salem, and none in all the broad land was more beautifully decorated in honor of the nation's dead than ours.

AUTOS START ON RACE ACROSS CONTINENT

[United Press Leased Wire.]
New York, June 1.—At a telegraphic signal from President Taft at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Mayor McClelland fired a shot from a gold-mounted revolver starting the transcontinental automobile race to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition. Two Acmes, two Fords, a Stearns, a Shawmut and an Italia started. Two pacemaking machines, which will keep the roadsters within the speed limits of the various states, preceded the contestants. They will remain in the lead until Kansas City is reached, after which the cars will go alone.

Crews of the racing machines are confident of arriving at Seattle within four weeks.

GABFEST SO LONG CROWD CUT IT OUT

Seattle, Wash., June 1.—Seattle could not wait for her exposition to open. While Bishop Keener was still pronouncing the words of the benediction, the thousands gathered in the amphitheatre realized that the hour of noon was at hand. At noon President Taft signalled from Washington, and half of the throng with heads bared before the words of prayer, while the others cheered wildly as the great flag unfurled and the military salute rang out. J. J. Hill had been a few minutes too long with his speech, but with the accumulating excitement of the opening, the crowd forgot the speakers and finally broke loose in a prolonged volley of cheers, which lasted until several minutes after the fair was officially opened.
