JOHNSON TO MEET KAUFMAN HAS SIGNED ARTICLES FOR 20 ROUND GO.

[United Press Leased Wire.]

San Francisco, June 8.—Articles of agreement for a 20-round fight in this city between Jack Johnson and Al Kaufman, signed by Charles J. Harvey for the Californian and by Johnson himself, do not meet with the unqualified approval of Promoter Coffroth and Billy Delaney, Kaufman's manager. A copy of the articles arrived here late yesterday and Coffroth and Delaney immediately went into executive session, with the result that an effort will be made to persuade Johnson to extend the engagement to 45 rounds.

STREET MEETINGS KEPT UP THIS WEEK

There will be street meetings all this week at the corner of State and Commercial streets by Drs. McInturf and Comer. The conversions have run up to 135, and interest is increasing. There will be an auto parade this evening. One of the converts last night was a man who had been a sheriff for 15 years and on top of that is now in the real estate business, and had been drinking very hard, had not been sober for three months. There is hope for all. Everybody come out to the meetings.

Those who have heard Johnson at Albany all agree that Dr. McInturf is a far more eloquent man, and an able logician. If McInturf had stayed with the Methodists would have been made a bishop before this time, but he was of an independent type that cannot be confined to any one denomination.

EACH THOUGHT THE OTHER WAS THIEF

San Mateo, Cal., June 8.—C. A. Kirkbride, Carnegie librarian of this city, and Policeman John J. Friel today are nursing many painful bruises as a result of a midnight struggle in the library building. Both men were secreted in the building to watch for thieves who have been active for the past week and neither knew of the other's presence.

About midnight, Friel, who was hidden in the basement, heard some one moving among the shelves overhead. Slipping quietly into the library room he began a search for the intruder. Kirkbride, hearing the sleuth on his trail, believed him to be the burglar and maneuvered for a better position. For fifteen minutes the officer and the librarian stalked each other about the building between rows of book shelves and around tables. Thinking to outwit the thief, Kirkbride slipped behind a huge American flag that was draped on the wall. Seeing the swaying folds of the banner Friel crept up, and pushing the flag aside, pounced upon his victim.

The struggle that followed was short but furious, when Friel had pinioned his prisoner to the floor he turned on a light, and mutual recognition followed. Neither man was hurt seriously.

If the railroad men tell the truth about the Seattle fair, they will do more than the incompetent running the publicity department of that institution have ever done.

TWILIGHT LEAGUERS PLAY BALL

BOOKKEEPERS WIN BY SCORE OF 14 TO 2

The Twilight league made a good start last night if piling up scores counts for much, the Bookkeepers defeating the Professionals by a score of 14 to 2.

The parade last night was strictly on the order of metropolitan baseball openings, the ball players being escorted to the Willamette field in automobiles with pomp and ceremony. After the grounds were reached and 12 buzz wagons took a few turns around the half-mile track enclosing the diamond, the mighty leaguers, nearly all "Caseys," too, arranged themselves in orderly style about the diamond and infield.

The race for league honors was started by Governor Benson, who pitched the first ball, which was caught, that is, very nearly, by Mayor Rodgers. The first ball thrown over by the governor evidently had an official twist, as the bill played its string out within about three feet of the rubber and fell to the ground; the next one, however, went high and Mayor Rodgers, the sturdy backstop, got it on the meat hand. An announcement was then made to the effect that a pennant was to be given by the governor to the winning team of the season, which will be a great inducement to the teams in the race. The Professionals certainly have collected a graceful, if not a handsome bunch of ballists. On the first sack could be seen a tall, thin gentleman known as "Doc" Riggs attired in handsome brown official league baseball togs, and his lily white right incased in a young sleeping bag. At second stands the pitcher's terror, "Bill" Evans, with sleeves above his elbows showing two knotted and corded arms which are so helpful in raising Cain with the pitcher and the score book. At shortstop there is stationed a figure clothed in green. This green object is the source of much merriment to the wily pinch hitter as it covers acres of ground in fine style and has an arm attachment which shoots the ball to first to beat the dickens. This might be Ote Johnson or Fielder Jones but it's not something entirely new, Mr. Hunt, of the Spaulding Logging Company. The balance of the nine men are all well known in sporting circles, especially through the 1909 guide books, they being Skiff, tant is the big doctor; Lee Davis, young graduate of Nick Altrock; Thomas Clark, formerly a member of the Detroit champs; Roy Phillips, better known as Carter Phillips, the ground-covering fielder formerly playing with the Cleveland Americans, and Mr. Hanlon, also a former Detroit fielder. Pretty good bunch, eh?

Now those bookkeeping ball players who so unmercifully licked the Professionals, have an array of ball kickers also. Behind the large stick Frank Rhodes, that young lightning rod who played several games with us many teams; Maurice Hunt in the box, with a reputation for the cactus curve; Ira Hamilton over on first, a second Bill Kennedy; Sam Morris' double, Tracy, at second (Chet is some six feet high); Rolly Southwick, a ground coverer when scared, on third, and in the outfield was George Skiff, Van Patton and George Wentworth. Gardeners are as scarce as hen's teeth, especially good ones, but the Bookkeepers have a smart collection who cut up something awful out there in the back grounds. Waldo Miller umpired the game with the best of satisfaction, although he had a hair-raising job of it owing to the fast (?) playing.

STUDY THE ABOVE MAP

BLOOMER'S ADDITION to the City of Newport, Oregon, is now on the market for the first time. The tract is located about half way between Nye Creek and Newport, and consists of some 30 lots, on the rising ground directly above the ocean. Each lot is but a few steps from the beach and commands a view of the ocean or surf for miles north and south. To the north can be seen Jump Off Joe and the Yaquina Head Light. To the south the entrance to Yaquina Bay and the Lifesaving Station. The property is about a five-minute walk from the boat landing in Newport. It is reached by a new six-foot board walk, which runs in a straight line from the Ocean House Hotel in a northwest direction to the lots. This is now the most popular walk in Newport on account of its beautiful surroundings and magnificent view of the Pacific when the end is reached at BLOOMER'S ADDITION. Here before the observer the ocean and the Leach stretch for miles and miles.

A WORD ABOUT YAQUINA BAY

You could not find a more interesting location to spend your summer than around this beautiful bay, which is conceded by those who know, to be the most beautiful summer resort, NATURALLY, of any on the Pacific coast, barring none. Hunting and fishing are unexcelled, and the many places of interest close to Newport, such as the Lighthouse, Otter Rock, Seal Rocks, etc., make it an ideal place to own a summer home.

NOW LOOK AT THE MAP

You will see that BLOOMER'S ADDITION is right on the ocean, and yet has the great advantage of being close to the bay and town, with no steep hills to climb to reach it. The beach in front of the property is good for bathing and the gathering of rock oysters. Mr. Bloomer has already built two beautiful cottages on these lots for his own personal use. Mr. Bloomer is a Seattle man, and intends to make this the most popular addition to Newport.
