

KILLED ANOTHER BIG LION

Leo Wanted ex-President for Breakfast But Was Too Slow — Teddy Shot Tame Hippo.

(By Warrington Dawson, Staff Correspondent United Press.)

Lake Naivasha, British East Africa, July 7.—Cornering a big lion, which started toward him, Colonel Roosevelt shot the beast just in time to save his life, according to advices brought here today from the American ex-president's camp on the estate of the Attenborough Bros., the younger of whom, W. H. Attenborough, was for 20 years a resident of San Francisco. The gun bearer who accompanied Colonel Roosevelt at the time of the incident with the lion, told his fellow attendants that the American hunter's escape from death was the narrowest he has experienced since coming to British East Africa.

The colonel with the one attendant was tramping through the jungle the guns being in the hands of the native. Suddenly an extra large lion appeared and with a savage roar sprang towards Roosevelt. The colonel retained his presence of mind and, grasping a gun which the native offered him, he shot the beast through the heart, killing it instantly.

Both Colonel and Kermit Roosevelt have been very successful in their hunts. The colonel has added a fine specimen of a lioness, four big collection of skins for the Smithsonian institute, in the past few days.

The Attenborough brothers, on whose grounds the Roosevelt camp has been pitched, have an elegant estate and live like feudal lords. The elder brother, Captain Frederick, is a retired British naval officer. They have built a lake of their own and in it have 300 of the finest specimens of hippopotami. They insisted that Colonel Roosevelt shoot one of the hippos in the lake and add the skin to his collection.

ENGLISHMAN SORE BUT WAS DEAD RIGHT

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 7.—That an Englishman with good red blood in his veins will not permit the shade of an insult to his king, even upon the American national holiday, even though the alleged insult was unstudied and thoughtlessly, has been proven conclusively by W. F. A. Hood, said to be a resident of Vancouver.

According to reports of the affair that leak d out today, Hood visited the Breakers cafe during the evening of a recent holiday, in company with Tom Driscoll, the poloist Douglas Grant, golf crack; Edward Tobly, Raymond Payne, Harry Scott and George Lewis, wealthy clubmen of this city and Burlingame.

A trio of musicians, who furnish entertainment at the cafe, concluded a medley of patriotic airs with the music of "God Save the King" or "America," as Americans have.

The singers are said to have concluded the song with an unorthodox rendition of the line "God save the king," singing it "To h—l with the king."

Just here Hood became active. His British blood boiled, and he is said to have projected one heavy boot through the instrument of an offending musician. Waiters and patrons became embroiled, and the affair threatened to assume the proportions of a riot, when the diplomacy of one of the patrons calmed the belligerents. Hood left the cafe with his friends.

SOME SALEMITES WANT TO SEE ROSKOP

The Portland police are on a sharp lookout for one Conrad Roskop at the request of Sheriff Harry Minto, who is wanted on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Roskop is a contractor by trade and during a short sojourn in this city passed a few checks on the Salem banks which were worthless. The amount of the checks Roskop signed ranged all the way from five to fifty dollars and when those who got "stung" presented them to the banks and were informed that no such man was blessed with funds in those institutions the sheriff's office was the main point of interest immediately.

The sheriff has a good description of the bogus check man and it is likely that the Portland police will locate him. Sheriff Minto last heard of Roskop in Portland, where it is said he was painting things a beautiful carmine in the North End district.

ELLA GINGLES STICKS TO STORY

Chicago, July 7.—Answering questions put to her by her counsel, Attorney O'Donnell, Ella Gingles, the Irish lace maker accused of theft, declared today that she had only mentioned the name of Tom Taggart when coerced to do so by Attorney Short, representing the prosecution. She denied that O'Donnell had urged her to bring in the name of the politician.

She testified that she had never seen Taggart, that she did not know him and knew nothing whatever about him, except that his name was mentioned on the night she alleges she was attacked by her employer, Miss Agnes Barrett, in her room at the Wellington hotel.

Injunction Suit

An injunction suit has been started in the circuit court by George Kearns against W. E. Johnson, in which Kearns alleges that Johnson recently sold him a wood-saw for $400 with the understanding that the business derived from Kearns' patrons was to be turned over to Johnson. It is further alleged in the complaint that Johnson again entered into the wood-saw business and that he was soliciting business from his former patrons which, it is claimed, he turned over to Kearns, and the plaintiff asks the court to enjoin Johnson from continuing such business. Attorney C. M. Iman appears as counsel for the plaintiff.
