HEAT KILLS JAPANESE SOLDIERS

Terrific Heat Wave Makes Japs Swelter and Officers Try the "Toughening Process."

THIRTY-TWO DEAD

THE TROOPS ARE FORCED TO GO THROUGH MANEUVERS IN SUN. TEMPERATURE AT 135—HUNDREDS DROP OUT OF RANKS VICTIMS OF SUNSTROKE.

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Tokio, July 19.—Eight soldiers are dead, 32 are dying and 115 are in a serious condition today as a result of a terrific heat wave which has swept over Japan during the past few days. Public sentiment is aroused over the action of the military authorities in compelling the men to drill in the sweltering heat, the theory being that it would "condition" them, and a court martial has been demanded.
At Takasaki six soldiers are dead and 23 dying from sunstroke as the result of being compelled to participate in battalion inspection when the thermometer stood at 135 degrees in the sun. The men dropped out of the ranks like flies, but the officers were unmoved and compelled the battalion to go through all of the maneuvers as planned at the start. Twenty-nine men fell from the ranks while the troops were in the field and a number of others were on verge of collapse. At the hospital six of the soldiers died and there is little hope for the recovery of any of the others. Hundreds of men in the Osaka regiment suffered sunstroke during a two days' forced march, ordered by the commanding officers during the endurance of the troops in hot weather. Two members of this regiment died, nine are in a critical condition and have but slight chance of recovery, 80 are in a serious condition and the rest are suffering intensely.

At Hamamatsu similar conditions prevail. For five hours Saturday the regiments stationed there were compelled to maneuver in the field. The heat was intense and the nearly exhausted men were overcome. Of these men, 35 are in a serious condition, many of whom will not recover.
The heat is most intense in Japan. Men and cattle have been overcome and many deaths among civilians throughout the empire. The suffering of the civilians, however, has not been so great as among the soldiers, because of the policy of "toughening" them by exposure, either to heat or cold, which has been adopted by the authorities.

Public indignation is heightened by the fact that this is not the first time deaths have occurred in the army as the result of what is considered needless exposure. A number of private soldiers were killed by the cold last winter when they were ordered into the field for a forced march through the mountains.
Los Angeles, July 19.—Discussing the action of military officers in placing the lives of their men in jeopardy to exposure to a sweltering sun while on drill, a military expert here today said:
"The drilling of troops during the most unfavorable weather is in conformity with the established principle of the Japanese general staff to eliminate weaknesses from the fighting line and to have only the most sturdy troops remain in the organizations"

THE GREAT TUNNEL IS FINISHED

Jersey City Is Now in Close Touch With New York. Ferry Boats Back Numbers.

COST $70,000,000

FIRST TRAIN PASSED THROUGH TUNNEL THIS AFTERNOON AT 3 O'CLOCK—A GREAT CROWD GATHERED AND MANY ADDRESSES MADE.

[United Press Leased Wire.]
New York, July 19.—Three minutes from Broadway" was the cheer that marked the departure of the first regular train through the McAdoo tunnels from Jersey City for Manhattan today, marking the inauguration of traffic through the seventy million dollar sub-river passage.
Jersey City is closer to lower Manhattan than Harlem or the Bronx now, as far as transportation is concerned, and the Jersey commuter who has been submitted to taunts and jeers for many long and weary years now may eat his soft-boiled eggs in the early morning with some degree of comfort.
The main exercises were held at the city hall in Jersey City, where the addresses were made by Governor

SALEM DAY ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

Hundreds of Salemites Are Celebrating at Big Fair—Salem Women Are Hostesses.

CHERRIES ARE THERE

FOUR JUSTICES OF WASHINGTON SUPREME COURT, ALL AT ONE TIME RESIDENTS OF SALEM, IN ATTENDANCE—RECEPTION IN OREGON BUILDING.

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Seattle, Wash., July 19.—Today is Salem day at the exposition, and in honor of the event, four of the nine justices of the Washington state supreme court, all four of whom were former residents of Oregon's capital city, have been invited to meet their old neighbors as guests of honor.
The four justices who are former Salemites are Messrs. Mount, Dunbar, Fullerton and Chadwick.
It had been planned to hold Salem day tomorrow, simultaneously with Portland day, but it was later decided to separate the two events. John H. Albert, president of the Capital National bank, of Salem, is in charge of the arrangements. Mr. Albert says there are already scores of Salem people in Seattle, and he expects not less than 200 from Salem alone to be present at today's ceremonies.
The Lambert cherry is to be a central figure at the celebration. At 11 o'clock, when the Salemites and their friends meet in a reunion, at the Oregon building, there will be an exhibition of these cherries.
From 3 o'clock to five this afternoon there will be a reception to the public at the Oregon building. The hostesses will be the Salem Woman's Club.

Will Visit St. Louis.

Washington, July 19.—President Taft today promised to visit St. Louis during the first week in November. He will then go down the Mississippi to New Orleans, where he will attend the convention of the Deep Waterway congress.

IT MAY PAY DEPOSITORS IN FULL

[United Press Leased Wire.]
San Francisco, July 19.—The minute book of the Union State bank upon the contents of which hinges the determination of whether the institution will be in a position to meet its obligations was today produced by Attorney Charles Adams for W. C. Hayes, who carried that important volume away with him when he was ousted as cashier of the bank. Bank Superintendent Allen Anderson sent word to Adams early today that if the book was not produced he would send an officer after it. His announcement had the desired effect and the book was promptly produced.
Bank Examiner S. P. Young is now deep at work on the new volume, which is expected to throw light on the methods of the officials of the bank, but as yet has not gone far enough into the book to be able to tell anything.
The shortage of the bank as unearthed so far amounts to $1500.
The bank was besieged this morning by an army of poor people, all small depositors, who demanded to know what their chances of getting their money were and when they would get it. To all the officials of the bank who tended the door announced that the institution was perfectly solvent and would meet all obligations.

Something of the bank's condition should be known tomorrow when the officials have had time to get through from the minute book.
Superintendent of Banks Anderson said this morning that he would put Public Accountant A. Wenzelburger in charge of the experting of the books as he needed his deputies for other urgent work.
Martin von Mevrenck was buried yesterday at Lefkapor.

GINGLES CASE IN HANDS OF THE JURY

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Chicago, July 19.—The case of Ella Gingles, the girl lace-maker, charged with stealing lace, whose sensational testimony shocked the entire country, was given to the jury this afternoon.
The state asked for conviction on the claim that the story of abuse and inhuman treatment told by the girl was a fabrication invented by her.
Counsel for the girl contended to the last that the story was true, and maintained that she was the victim of a "white slave" plot, and that she was subjected to indignities seldom if ever before detailed in a public court room.

RED-HOT NEWS FROM AFRICAN JUNGLES

(By Warrington Dawson, Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)
Naiyasha, British east Africa, July 19.—Leslie Tarlton, a member of the party guiding the Roosevelt expedition, reported here today that Colonel Roosevelt will encounter a great number of lions.
Tarlton makes this report, after spending much time in searching water holes and locating suitable places where the hunters can camp. He says the hunters will soon find themselves in the presence of plenty of big black-maned lions.

MACKIE ROBBED WIFE AND HER MOTHER

Columbus, O., July 19.—John H. Mackie, reported under arrest at Los Angeles, Cal., departed from here recently in the company, it is alleged, of Miss Lucille Burton, a manicurist, whom he is said to have introduced as his wife. He took with him his 10-year-old son.
Warrant for his arrest was sworn to by his wife, who is a resident of Madisonville, Mrs. Mackie alleges that her husband embezzled 100 shares of stock in the Victor Tool Works and $500 in cash belonging to her mother.

An Unlucky Number.
Constantinople, July 19.—Thirteen participants in the mutinies of last April, who were convicted by court-martial, were hanged here today.

TRIAL OF CALHOUN BEGINS

It Will Probably Take Longer Than at First Trial to Secure Jury to Hear the Case.

[United Press Leased Wire.]
San Francisco, July 19.—Less than ten spectators were present in Carpenter's hall this morning at the beginning of the second trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, on a charge of attempting bribery of a supervisor. The actual beginning of the second trial came as a surprise, more delay on technical questions having been anticipated. Today's proceedings were devoted to the examination of witnesses, and it is expected that the work of securing a jury will occupy more time than was taken in the trolley magnate's first trial.

Their application for a change of venue, and their protest against Superior Judge William P. Lawlor having been denied, the attorneys for Calhoun answered, "Ready" when the second trial of the trolley magnate was called today.
The specific charge upon which Calhoun is being tried is the alleged giving of a bribe to former Supervisor John J. Furey to secure his vote on an overhead trolley franchise, sought by the United Railroads, of which the defendant is president, immediately after the earthquake and fire of April 18, 1906.

Owing to the absence in Alaska of Special Prosecutor Francis J. Heney, who acted for the state in the first trial of Calhoun, in which the jury disagreed, District Attorney William H. Langdon, appeared today for the prosecution.
Assistant District Attorney John O'Gara, Heney's chief aid in the former trial, found it necessary to attend the supreme court sessions today, and Langdon alone was opposed to Calhoun's galaxy of legal luminaries, which included A. A. Moore, Stanley Moore, John J. Barrett and former District Attorney Louis J. Byington.
The names of 50 talesmen were posted this morning, and an additional half hundred will be named tomorrow.

INQUIRY AS TO DEATH OF SUTTON

Began This Afternoon—Mrs. Sutton's Attorneys to Cross-Examine the Witnesses.

SUTTON WAS UGLY

FOUGHT FIRST WITH OSTERMAN AND THEN WITH ADAMS—SHOT AT ADAMS THREE TIMES—WOUNDED ROELKER THEN SHOT HIMSELF.

[United Press Leased Wire.]
Annapolis, Md., July 19.—The inquiry into the death of Lieutenant James Sutton of Oregon, who was killed by a pistol shot here more than a year ago, began this afternoon at the Auditorium.

The inquiry was to have been held this afternoon in the board room, but it proved too small and the proceedings were adjourned for several hours. Mrs. Sutton, mother of the dead lieutenant of marines, was present at the hearing and took deep interest in all of the proceedings.

The first witness this afternoon was Lieutenant Adams, who recited the incidents of the night the tragedy occurred. He told of being at the Carvel Hotel on the night of October 19, 1907, with Sutton, Lieutenant Osterman and Lieutenant Utley.

The four returned to the naval academy in Sutton's automobile. All of us were out after hours, and Utley suggested that we get out and walk to avoid detection. I suggested the same thing, and Sutton called me a damned coward. He repeated the statement, and we all jumped out of the automobile. I began to remove my coat.

"What are you doing?" asked Sutton. "You are the man that is doing the talking," I replied.

"Here Utley interferred, saying: 'We'll fight this out in the morning before revolve.'"

"Then we started towards camp. The other officers were trying to quiet Sutton, who cursed Osterman, and struck him. Osterman struck back. Sutton reeled. Sutton had said before that he would kill me."

"Osterman and Sutton continued to fight, and Osterman got him down. I pulled him off."

"I suggested that we get rifles and revolvers and defend ourselves, but found they were in camp. Then we started to hunt up the officer of the day. En route we were stopped by Utley, who said: 'You go down where the fight was and see if you can find any clothes.'"

"I told him that I was going to get my clothes and he replied, 'Like hell you are. I'm going to kill you.'"

"Then he shot at me three times. I grappled with him and as he swung around I saw Roelker. I threw Sutton to his face on the ground."

"Sutton fell with his right arm under him, and his left up. I was trying to prevent him from using a pistol. Someone jumped on his left arm. I don't know who. The next thing I remember I was standing back of him then. I saw Roelker lying on the ground, apparently dead."

"My God," I said, "he's killed Roelker." Then I saw Sutton, still lying flat, raise his arm and turn his head.

"There was a flash of a pistol and the flame jumped three or four inches. No one was on Sutton at the time the shot was fired. I became so dazed I hardly knew what happened."

Adams denied that he drank more than one glass of beer that night. He declared that Sutton was nasty at all times, but that he knew but little about his disposition when drunk. In the course of his narrative Adams used vile oaths he declared were used by Sutton on the night of his death. Sutton's mother and sister paled when they heard this language, but gazed steadily at the witness.

Adams denied that he took a revolver from Sutton or that he had one that night. On cross-examination he admitted that he had pushed Sutton's head into the dirt.

After the court officers had been sworn Major Harry Leonard, judge-advocate-general, announced that the war department would permit Mrs. Sutton's attorneys to cross examine the witnesses, and that the same priv
