WILL HILL INVADE OREGON.

The Oregonian Sunday brings the news that Hill may begin building railroads in Oregon.

That would be one of the greatest achievements for the development of the state that has yet come to pass.

If he would acquire the Oregon Electric, extend it up to Eugene, and build branch lines, things would hum.

It is high time men like Hill and Harriman realized that the development of Oregon will not exactly await their pleasure.

The Coos Bay, Central Oregon and Boise railroad is doing substantial things and not waiting for Hill or Harriman.

The farmers of Umatilla county are organizing and propose to build and operate an electric railroad.

Manager O'Brien of the Harriman system announces that five millions are ready to build up the Deschutes.

Larger forces are put on the two lines of railroad building from Portland towards Tillamook.

So it is going all over Oregon, but the fight by the people to build and own some of their own railroads must go on.

That is the burr under the transportation mule's tail that is making the animal climb up the passes of Oregon.

Hints to Travelers.

Limited tickets are now usually in use between all points on the Pacific coast. They are sold at the lowest first-class fare in effect.

A second-class ticket entitles you to a seat in a second-class car. It must be used for a strictly continuous trip, and no stop-over is allowed.

Children 5 years of age, and under 12, are charged half-fare those under 5 free.

Contract tickets. If you attempt to travel on a ticket bought for use of another person, and usually marked "Not Transferable," it is the duty of the conductor to take it up and collect full fare, of which the passenger cannot expect a refund nor the return of the lifted ticket.

Stopovers. If you wish to stop off at any point, and your ticket allows it, do not fail to ask the conductor for a stop-over check, else you will be obliged to pay fare on resuming journey.

Lost tickets. If you lose your ticket you are out of pocket the value thereof. The railroad company is under no obligation to give you another in its place, nor to allow you to ride free.

Give notice of your loss to the conductor. Pay your fare to him or purchase another ticket from first ticket station. Take receipt for the amount paid. When you reach your destination write the general passenger agent of the road of which you bought your ticket, endorse receipt, and explain the circumstances. If your ticket is found, and returned, unused, the company will refund your money. If your ticket is limited and is never found, the company will probably refund your money, within a reasonable time after its date of expiration, providing it has not been honored.

Unused tickets. Though there is no law compelling a railroad company to redeem a ticket, they will generally do so as an act of courtesy. Unused tickets, or parts of tickets, should be forwarded to the general passenger agent of the issuing line with an explanation of why they were not used. The return part of a round trip ticket is generally redeemable at the difference between the amount paid for it and the regular one way rate between the points for which sold.

Caution. You will often avoid considerable trouble in settlement of a possible claim for lost tickets, if you will make a memorandum at the time you buy your ticket showing its number, its form, date and place of sale and destination. Should any difference arise between yourself and conductor, pay latter's claim, take receipt for amount and refer the matter to the general passenger agent, who will satisfactorily adjust it.

Baggage. 150 pounds of baggage are allowed on each full ticket; 75 pounds on half tickets.

A single piece of baggage weighing over 250 pounds will not be checked but must be shipped by express or freight.

Baggage is not allowed to be checked until they have examined your ticket.

Baggage cannot be checked to a point short of the destination of your ticket, unless such ticket allows stop-over privileges.

Baggage cannot knowingly check anything but personal apparel and traveling effects; all other articles must be weighed and charged for as excess baggage.

As a matter of precaution, have your name and address plainly marked on your trunk; and make a note of your check number, for in case of losing your check it would be much easier to prove property.

NEW ZEALAND IS HAVING HARD TIMES

(United Press Leased Wire.) Wellington, New Zealand, July 20. New Zealand, long advertised as the best country in the world for the working classes, has fallen on such exceedingly hard times at last that acting Minister of Finance Millar proposes to introduce a bill for insurance against unemployment at the next session of the colonial parliament as well as to point out the lawmakers that if the situation is to be relieved as heretofore by enormous public works, it will be necessary to negotiate another loan and to increase taxation considerably.

The administration's opponents argue that the system of creating artificial employment by means of public works has concealed the gravity of industrial conditions for some time but that the country has now nearly reached the end of its tether and that no permanent improvement can be hoped for except by a gradual process of readjustment. At present 130,000 people, or nearly one-seventh of the population, depend on the state for support, and retrenchment means starvation for them. The government has hitherto been spending $12,000,000 yearly in public works, but this year only $7,000,000 is available.

Both skilled and unskilled labor is affected and many workmen who are able to raise the necessary funds are leaving for Australia.

BOAT BOTTOM SIDE UP TELLS MUTE STORY

Marshfield, Ore., July 20.—The lifesaving crew and fishermen are today searching for an overturned boat which has been reported four miles off the mouth of the Coquille river by the captain of the Nan Smith.

The captain sent a wireless message here telling of the wreck, but said he could not make out the name it appeared to be the hull of a barge or gasoline boat. No boat has been reported missing at this port. There is little doubt among old "salts" here that some lives have been lost.

STRAY SHOT HITS THE LADY'S PROBOSCIS

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Bernardino, Cal., July 20.—The next time Robert Hickok goes hunting he will be careful to aim his shotgun in an opposite direction to that of any passenger train that may be in close proximity.

Hickok was shooting doves in a field near here when a fast express train on the Santa Fe road was passing. Mrs. Hutchinson, a passenger, seeing Hickok about to fire, leaned out from the window in time to receive a tiny shot in her nose. The woman screamed and fell back in her seat with blood pouring down her face. Angry passengers surrounded the conductor and demanded that the train be stopped and Hickok captured. The flyer slowed down and the frightened hunter boarded the car. He was surrounded by angry passengers, but after an explanation, and expression of regret and apology, Hickok was permitted to go, and the train continued its journey.
