

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrapper and attach its correctness under oath, are daily giving in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formula, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption. Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers at reasonable prices.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON

tinuing the labor of taking in washing to support the family. But through it all he preserved his optimism and his faith in human nature. His character was a series of delightful contrasts. He was conservative in his personal beliefs and tastes, disliking ostentation or display and deprecating anything like personal advertisement. Yet, so simple was he in his views, that when he was introduced to Speaker Cannon one day in Washington, while the house was in session, he took it as a matter of course that he should sit on the speaker's desk, with his back to all the members, because there was no extra chair for him.

He was beloved by all the people of Minnesota for having given them a 2-cent railroad passenger rate, and for having delivered the farmers from the extortions of the transportation trust. He was one of the greatest fighters ever known, when he believed the public was being victimized, but he could cast from his mind all thoughts of the serious side of life when the umpire's decision caused excitement. Whenever the St. Paul team played at home, the governor was in the grandstand, cracking peanuts and rooting for the team like mad. If, perchance, some matter of state kept him from the game, his private secretary knew it was his business to get the score by telephone, and communicate it to the governor as soon as the last "out" had been called. In the winter he would slip off from his office, his skates under his arm, and skim across the ice for hours at a time. When he was at Old Point, Va., he got into the water without anyone being aware who he was. But he could not resist the temptation to turn a back somersault off the spring board, and this attracted so much attention that pretty soon his identity was generally known.

Johnson's love of baseball, skating and swimming explained his healthy mode of living. He cherished in his heart as his idea of true greatness the art of reading and writing. "As a life work I'd rather be able to provide for the needs of a family, enjoy the fellowship of good friends and god books and write one book that would be read 100 years from now than to be able to amass all the money in the world," he once said. He read far into the night, keeping up this habit since that first employment.

Of late years he often looked back and recalled that he was distinctly a product of the country store, and that he owed much of his success, much of his knowledge of human nature and all of his Democracy to the discussion which went on night after night, when the men of the village were grouped about the stove in the big drug shop.

One of the many things that twice helped him, a Democrat, to carry a nominally Republican state, overwhelmingly for the governorship, was his early history. He started to work at $10 a month, and as soon as he was getting $12, he could no longer let his mother work. From that time on he supported his mother and the other children of the family. Later he turned down an offer to play with a professional baseball team at a tempting salary. Then he was offered the editorship of the St. Peter Herald.

Like "The Gentleman from Indiana," he built his future as he sat in the little office of the town's paper, chronicling the comings and goings, the births and deaths of his fellow men and women. And he made the editorial column of his paper a real power in that and adjoining counties. Also, like "The Gentleman from Indiana," he became a finished public speaker, and a deep thinker on political subjects.

Thus it came about that the people turned to him as deserving political honors. In 1888 he was elected state senator, and again in 1900. In 1904 he was elected governor by a plurality of 8000, while Roosevelt carried the state by 161,000. Two years later he was re-elected by 88,000. Again he was made governor last year.

Johnson was not a "society light." Both he and Mrs. Johnson long ago made up their minds that there was nothing much to be gained by drinking afternoon tea in unlimited quantities. Although they met all the social demands that go with the gubernatorial office, they have stopped there. Mrs. Johnson is as much of a reader and student as the governor, and when anything of moment came up it was to his wife that he turned for decisive counsel.

When he was talked of for the presidency, the subject of his making a surprising tour throughout the country to show himself to the people was brought up. His friends thought it would be an excellent plan. But right away the Johnson modesty stepped in, and the plan was doomed before it had been half outlined.

"I've been elected governor of Minnesota. I'm employed to work for the people of Minnesota, and here I stay," he said. And all that argument and pleading could get out of him were two speeches, one in Virginia and one in Alabama, and the Alabama speech was made after the people of that state had refused to induct him for the presidency.

With the passing away of Governor John A. Johnson, the state of Minnesota passes into the hands of Republican administration for the first time in five years.

Until the next election the affairs of the state will be guided by Lieutenant Governor Everhart, a Republican, who now becomes its governor. Johnson was first elected governor of Minnesota in 1904.

Why Druggists Recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. Frank C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customers so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by all good druggists.

A man's importance shrinks considerably when his children grow to an age when he is no longer able to bluff them.

A Sprained Ankle. As usually treated a sprained ankle will disable the injured person for a month or more, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle faithfully, a cure may, in most cases, be effected in less than one week's time. This liniment is a most remarkable preparation; try it for a sprain or a bruise, or when laid up with chronic or muscular rheumatism and you are certain to be delighted with the prompt relief which it affords. For sale by all good druggists.

One may not be clever enough to do a thing himself, but he is pretty clever if he can employ others who can do it well.

Testifies After Four Years. Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. B. Burhans writes: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of those symptoms, and am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you. J. C. Perry.
