

TERRIBLE MASSACRE AT KEIF

German Papers Filled With the Story of Slaughter—United Press Only Had the News.

[UNITED PRESS LEASER WIRE.]
Berlin, Sept. 22.—Not since the great massacre at Kishinef in 1903 has the German press been so aroused over an anti-Jewish outrage as it is today over the reports of the terrible massacre at Keif and its suburb Bokno, coupled with the frantic efforts of the Russian government to suppress the news.

The official news agency of Russia, which is controlled by the government and sends out such matter as is given official sanction today is denying the reports of the massacre, but the special correspondents of the great Berlin newspapers and of the United Press confirm the reports.

The Berlin office of the United Press was the only agency which sent an account of the massacre to the United States yesterday. The Berlin papers today are filled with long accounts of the horrible slaughter and merciless torture and mutilation of bodies.

It is declared that neither women nor children were spared and that many were killed outright while hundreds were wounded and tortured. The reports say that the houses of the Jews were sacked and demolished, their property and personal belongings being destroyed. When the massacre was at its height the murderous mob seemed possessed only by a frenzied desire for blood.

None of the rioters have been arrested and it is evident that the authorities countenanced the outrage. It was announced today that prominent Jews of Berlin will send a protest direct to the czar.

EATON HALL DEDICATED

The Hon. A. E. Eaton amid great applause. The governor referred to the noble generosity of the donor, and his remarks were well received.

Mr. Eaton made a strong plea for higher Christian education. The institutions of our country could rise no higher than the composite character of the people composing our government. He told of the privations of the pioneers, a small number of whom were present, and whose interest could not be diminished by the flight of years. It was embarrassing for him to refer to the immediate cause of this assembly. It had cost him a large portion of the accumulations of a lifetime of labor and gave him more satisfaction than anything he had ever done in his life. (Great applause.) He dwelt on the importance of moral and spiritual education. It was not supplied in our state and sectarian colleges. Our private schools were not meeting the needs of humanity in this direction, or why were there so many inmates of the jails, poor-houses and penitentiaries?

He called parents' attention to the fact that their children were gifts from God. The Bible was the only foundation for real literature and it was wrong to exclude the Bible from secondary education. The Bible was the fount of our freedom and knowledge, and why was it proscribed from the whole scheme of public education? He argued with ability that personal and political freedom were founded on the doctrines of the Christian religion and upon no other. He was repeatedly greeted with cheers.

Among great virtues he referred to the necessity of courtesy and kindness, and cited the success of United States Senator Chamberlain in overcoming thirty to forty thousand majority by always treating every man, woman and child with the most kindly consideration. He deprecated corrupt practices and short cuts to money-making. His whole address teemed with the homely good sense and quaint philosophy of a successful business man.

Address of Bishop Smith.

The resident bishop of the Methodist church of Portland was next introduced. He tendered Mr. Eaton congratulations of the entire assembly upon his magnificent gift. He had a right to be the happiest man in all this happy company. He paid a glowing tribute to his life that must have made his ears ring. His only motive in making this gift was his high opinion of Christian education. He was also wise in giving to a small college, as they were doing the best and most thorough work in forming character. Students needed the development of intellect and character at the same time. The manhood and womanhood in teachers was worth more than their scholastic training.

A Serious Problem.

The people were king in a free country and they must not be left ignorant or vicious. The state must see that her people are educated. We had no state church. Our principle was a free church in a free state. How was the youth to be educated in the lines of religion or morality? There was no sane education without it. Our institutions rest upon morality and there was no morality that was not Christian. Christian education was indispensable and the state cannot furnish that. Charges had been made that in some of our educational institutions religion was scoffed at and morality made light of. No authority in religious matters, was the cry of one retiring educator. The state cannot exist without authority but there religion must be stripped of authority. This could only be met and counteracted by Christian education and morality must stand upon divine authority. We must stand for the old fundamental doctrines. This school stood for Christian education, but not for sectarianism. No Christian faith would be disturbed here. It had a right to ask for the support of all Christian people. His remarks were received with great applause.

The audience sang "Faith of Our Fathers," and the building was formally presented for dedication by T. J. McDaniel of Portland, chairman of the board of trustees. The dedicatory prayer was delivered by Bishop Charles W. Smith. The audience sang. President Homan now presented honorary degrees of doctor of laws to Chief Justice Atchile of Idaho, W. C. Hawley, Mr. Rader, E. B. Piper, Governor Frank W. Benson and the donor, A. E. Eaton, and Revs. Dunlap and Trimble.

He took up the matter of raising funds for furnishing the building with teachers' desks, with window blinds, and build walks and grade the grounds. R. A. Booth, C. P. Bishop, President Homan and T. S. McDaniel were named as a committee on raising funds.

The doxology was sung and the benefaction pronounced and it was over.

The building committee under whose formal care Eaton hall was built was composed of E. P. McCornack, A. A. Lee, A. M. Smith, R. A. Booth and Mr. Eaton. The contractors were Snook & Traver of Salem.

President Homan wore the collegiate mitre board with a gold tassel, a gown of black with velvet borders and scarlet velvet collar lined with gold.

The cut stone in the building came from Oakland, and the veneer brick from Smith's yards at Portland. The common brick were made by Mr. Burton of Salem. The lumber was all from the Spaulding mills, the shop work from Hansen, the plumbing from Barr, and the heating from Steiner & Berger.

PROMINENT MEN ARE ARRESTED FOR BLACKMAIL

Chicago, Sept. 22.—L. Scott Kemper, a New York attorney, and Geo. C. Hazleton, Jr., the playwright, author of "Mistrell Nell," were arraigned in the criminal court here today on the charge of having attempted to obtain by blackmail $160,000 from James H. Channon, a prominent clubman, and his wife. It is alleged that they represented Henry Ludham, an actor, who is the husband of Mabel Arvey, who is Mrs. Channon's half-sister. Channon said that Ludham claimed that he had withheld $160,000 from an estate which Mabel Arvey inherited. Channon denied the debt and when he refused to pay the amount demanded, he alleges that Kemper and Hazleton attempted to force him to pay it by threatening to expose a scandal and give the Channons great notoriety. Kemper and Hazleton spent several hours in jail last night before they were released on temporary bail. When presented in the criminal court today the attorney and the playwright pleaded not guilty. They were released on bonds of $3000 each.

The prominence of Mr. and Mrs. Channon in club and social circles here and the position of Hazleton among theatrical people has attracted great attention to the case and the trial is expected to develop a big sensation if a settlement or agreement is not reached.

A Narrow Escape.

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time, and if I did not have consumption it was near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained about 25 pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar. J. C. Perry."
