SALEM DAY AT THE PORTLAND FAIR.

Salem people will go in a body to attend the Portland Live Stock Show Friday of this week. They will show their appreciation for the liberal treatment accorded the state fair by Portland people. A general canvass is being made today to secure the largest possible sale of tickets for the excursion. Reduced rates on the railroad, and every Salemite wearing a badge "GOOD WILL TO PORTLAND" is the order of the day. The Salem Board of Trade and Business Men's League are backing the proposition and there will be an attendance of a thousand merry Salemites brimming over with good will and enthusiasm for the metropolis of Oregon. Study this over, unwind your purse strings, tell your wife to get ready and take in the Portland fair Friday.

WHO ARE THE HOO-HOOS?

This is the organization of lumbermen and the southern district organization meets at Cottage Grove Saturday, Sept. 25. That town has just entertained the Methodist conference and is now going to the other extreme of its hospitality. The sawmill men and timber land dealers are not angels nor ministers of grace, but just business rustlers. They employ more men in well paid labor than any other one industry in the state and do not even brag on it. That kind of capitalists may not belong to our church or any other church, but they make churches possible. So if anyone asks you who are the Hoo-Hoos tell them they are missionaries and civilizers on a large scale. If you are a lumberman or timber land dealer and do not belong to the Hoo-Hoos ask yourself if it is not time to join this religious order that supplies bread and butter to more families than any other organization in the west. Then go up to Cottage Grove Saturday and join the angelic band.

AN APPRECIATION OF EUGENE.

George Wharton James of Pasadena, California, is the author of a fine illustrated article on Eugene in the August Arena. He tells how the city started in to become beautiful by paving its principal streets and beautifying the depot grounds. He tells how a pioneer banker presented the city with 48 acres for a park and the city purchased 32 acres. Of course, the state university comes in for considerable space, and what would Eugene and Corvallis amount to without their state schools? About as much as Salem without the state capital and the institutions that are located here and maintained by the generous taxability of the people of the state. But with such advantages derived from the state, the people have a right to expect that such cities as Salem, Eugene and Corvallis shall do something besides sit down and enjoy their revenues. To the credit of these cities they are responding to the call for the forward march and are doing their full share in advertising their princely advantages.

A FEW COLD FACTS ABOUT THE DIRECT PRIMARY LAW.

While reactionary politicians are saying the district primary law is a stupendous failure in Oregon, what are the facts? Has it not given us good county officials, good judges and good public prosecutors? Have officials who have made a good record failed to get a renomination? Even where strong men ran against them, officials who made good the first term got a second term without great expense. In most cases officials who made good have been renominated without expense and were re-elected without opposition. Good men on the supreme court have been re-elected without any partisan opposition whatever. Good congressmen have been renominated in Oregon and United States senators, if they make good, can be returned without buying a vote. Yet the reactionaries declare the law a failure.

THE GIRL QUESTION ANSWERED MONDAY

Dashing action, ginger and "something doing" every minute, sudden transitions from grave to gay, a song here, a dance there, a bit of plot which grips one's heartstrings with a sudden throb and then a funny situation which makes one's sides split with laughter are the heterogeneous conglomeration which make up that delightful evening's entertainment, "The Girl Question," the musical comedy which comes to the Grand opera house Monday, September 27, under the management of H. H. Frazer. There is no doubt that this play will be as popular here as were its predecessors, "The Time, the Place and the Girl" and "Honeymoon Trail," for it is by the same authors, with all the features of slang, fun, of action and pathos, wit and humor which made them so popular, and it was produced under the stage direction of George Marlon, the famous exponent of chorus girls. The chorus of "The Girl Question" are 40 in number, and each possesses the vivacity, enthusiasm and dancing ability which have made the La Salle theater famous the country over. "Money talks" is an old saying and one of the most true axioms ever uttered, and as a consequence some of the figures which are a part of the performance of "The Girl Question," the musical play by the authors of "The Time, the Place and the Girl" and the "Honeymoon Trail," which will be seen here are not only interesting, but startling in their magnitude.
