POTATOES, APPLES, AND CORN

If You Want to See Something That Grows Near Salem Stop at Derby & Willson's Office.

Derby & Willson have a display in their office which will do all strangers good to see, and it will open the eyes of a good many Oregonians.

There are some King apples there, raised by C. M. LaFollette, on Mission Bottom, 32 of which make two-thirds of a bushel. If anybody thinks apples don't grow around here, take a look at them. Then there are some potatoes, raised by Louis Lachmund, that weigh over three pound apiece, and one weighs 2 pounds, 6 ounces. Mr. Lachmund also has some feed corn there from a 60-acre field. The corn on this field runs from 60 to 75 bushels to the acre, and he figures on getting something over 3000 bushels from the 60 acres. Those who say we can not raise corn in the Willamette valley should see this, and then keep still.

SUPREME COURTS' OPINIONS

Jack LaRose, the gaspige thug, was refused a new trial by the supreme court this morning, in an opinion written by Justice McBride.

LaRose was tried and convicted in the circuit court of Multnomah county before Judge Robert C. Morrow of the crime of murder in the second degree, committed in Portland on the 11th day of May, 1909, on which judgment the appeal is taken. The defendant in this case first worked his nefarious deal on a second-hand store man named Max Hermann. He walked into the establishment with a piece of gaspige wrapped up in a newspaper, and after inducing Hermann to turn around with his back to LaRose to get some trifling article LaRose hit him on the head, knocking him senseless to the floor. But sixteen hours afterwards the man he killed, Heyman Heuman, was found lying in his store a block from where LaRose hit Hermann and beside him the same piece of gaspige. Twenty-four hours after the Heuman murder LaRose walked into a Chinese laundry with a piece of pipe wrapped in paper and hit a Chinese tailor a glancing blow on the head. The blow did not stun the Chinaman and he ran out the door after the fleeing LaRose effecting the murderer's capture shortly after.

LaRose, as soon as the Chinaman was brought before him for identification, said: "Yes, I know you, you — I thought I hit you hard enough to lay you out." LaRose was tried and convicted of murder in the second degree, from which judgment he appeals. Upon the affirmative opinion handed down today, LaRose will be taken to the penitentiary, where he will begin his life term, as sentenced.

Other opinions handed down were Peter O'Sullivan against J. M. Blakey, appealed from the circuit court of Union county, William Smith, judge. Judgment of lower court reversed in an opinion written by Chief Justice Moore.

In the matter of habeas corpus proceedings of J. J. Barnes, appellant, against Cora Long, respondent, appealed from the circuit court of Union county, J. W. Knowles, judge, reversed by Justice Eakin.

More Than Enough Is Too Much.

C. R. Kluger, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared by complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared and I can now attend to business every day and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." J. C. Perry.

Senator Bourne says he will run again, and it would be just like Oregonians to elect him.

Why Cough

Ask your doctor if all coughs are necessary. If not, then why cough? Ask him about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Stop coughing! Coughing rasps and tears. Stop it! Coughing prepares the throat and lungs for more trouble. Stop it! There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. Stop it! Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a regular doctor's medicine for coughs and colds.
