

CHEAPEST INTOXICANT DISCOVERED

Can See Chinese Pagodas and Birds of Brilliant Plumage Thirty-six Hours for One Nickel.

Danger is about to be removed from the Indians in the South and Middle West. It is a little bean known as the peyote, or the mesquit, which has obtained extensive use among some of the tribes. This peyote, which has powerful narcotic properties, brings on a condition of great serenity and content when used by the Indians. It is produced from a cactus that grows in the southwest, particularly in Texas and Mexico. The Indian bureau has been making efforts for the last year to discourage the use of the drug, and, although a large portion of the supply has been bought up and the wholesalers have agreed to sell no more to the Indians, many traces of it are constantly found on the reservations. Most of the Indians use it until they become entirely unconscious, and a member of the Indian bureau, who experimented on himself and did not take a large dose at no time, completely lost consciousness and was at all times cognizant of his surroundings. He found that the ordinary colors were greatly heightened in intensity and brilliancy, and were extremely pleasant to the senses; that when he closed his eyes a procession of Chinese pagodas, with variegated trimmings, floated around him, pleasing geometrical designs soothed him, and peacocks of brilliant plumage drifted over his head. Only one case has been reported to the Indian bureau where an apparently healthy person died from its use. The effect of indulgence lasts longer than in the use of alcohol, the taking of a small amount showing effects 36 hours afterward. The mind becomes clear after the vision has departed, but lassitude continues for a long period. The continual use deprives the users of both mental and physical vigor.

To maintain health, a mature man or woman needs just enough food to repair the waste and supply energy and body heat. The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control, and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and you will soon be all right again. For sale by all good druggists.

X-RAYS AND SMILES

Talk about spirit rappings and materialization of the departed. Is there no way to stop a man communicating with the newspapers after he is dead?

It would be awful if some high-mucky-muck banker who has had religion, social and financial standing or one of those Oregon Trust wreckers should ever have to wear stripes. And when such a man can't be trusted on the outside they make him a trusty on the inside.

Rev. Jack Horner, of the Agricultural college, Oscar Wilde club has been addressing the Portland Woman's club. It seems the women down there are not afraid of anything.

When Jack Horner gets busy, it is time to watch out for plums—and thumbs.

There seems to be no "sleep 'twixt cup and lip" in the Thorburn Ross case, and he must serve his five years.

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to get into the penitentiary, but occasionally, if he is right industrious, he breaks in.

Both Boys Saved.

Louis Boon, a leading merchant of Norway, Mich., writes: "Three bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar absolutely cured my boy of a severe cough and a neighbor's boy, who was so ill with a cold that the doctors gave him up, was cured by taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Nothing else is as safe and certain in results. J. C. Perry.

Alabama's new prohibition law is known as the Fuller bill. What's in a name anyway.
